H. PHILIP WEST JR.

Doctor of Laws

For the past 18 years, H. Philip West Jr. served as executive director of Common Cause of Rhode Island, a non-profit organization committed to the ethical reform of government.

A native of rural Grahamsville, New York, and son of a Methodist minister, West became influenced by the teachings of the Reverend Martin Luther King Jr. and became an activist in the fight for civil rights as a Hamilton College undergraduate in the early 1960s. Later, while attending Union Theological Seminary at Columbia University, and then as an ordained United Methodist minister assigned to some of the toughest neighborhoods in New York City, West expanded his activism, working with street gangs in the South Bronx and later serving as executive director of a community center in the city's Bowery section. In that role, he witnessed first-hand a culture of corruption on the part of some government officials with which he dealt and the indifference of many other officials who accepted these injustices with little or no apparent protest.

In 1988, when his wife was offered a position as director of a battered women's shelter in Rhode Island, West followed her to their newly adopted state. Unemployed by the move, West answered an ad seeking an executive director for Common Cause of Rhode Island, hoping to engage his grass-roots organizing skills and passion for fairness and ethical treatment of all individuals in an effort to improve upon what many had described as a state beset with significant systemic ethical challenges.

As executive director of Common Cause, West is credited as a key leader in the battle to enact numerous governmental reforms. These include a successful Ethics Commission challenge to a sitting governor; merit selection of all judges; downsizing of the General Assembly; four-year terms for state general officers; stricter and more comprehensive disclosure requirements for lobbyists; stringent new campaign finance limits and disclosure requirements; closing of "revolving door" appointments for state appointed and elected officials and for elected municipal officials; protection of citizens who petition government from so-called "SLAPP-suits;" new laws against nepotism; restoration of the right to vote for felons upon release from prison; measures to make the process of legislative redistricting more open and accountable to the public; strengthening of the state Ethics Commission; advocacy for online access to legislative information, campaign finance reports, and other reports by public officials, lobbyists, and state vendors; and strengthening of laws requiring public access to government meetings and records. His most recent notable successes have included the long struggle for passage of a Separation of Powers amendment to the Rhode Island Constitution (approved by voters in 2004), and the subsequent efforts to enact implementing legislation in the General Assembly—a task that still continues.

In addition to his work with Common Cause, West served as president of Greater Elmwood Neighborhood Services. He has also been active in relief efforts in Africa, assisting victims of civil wars in Mozambique and Liberia and working in anti-apartheid efforts in South Africa.

In 2006 West retired from his post at Common Cause and began the process of writing a book about his experiences. He and his wife of forty-one years, the Rev. Anne Grant, continue to reside on the south side of Providence. They have two grown sons.

WREN GOODRUM

Doctor of Pedagogy

Wren Goodrum serves as artistic and executive director of All Children's Theatre, based in Pawtucket, Rhode Island. Educated at the North Carolina School of the Arts, where she earned a B.F.A. in 1975, Goodrum continued her theatrical education, culminating with a performance in The Beggar's Opera in the West End—London.

Returning to New York City, Goodrum was a founding member of Theatre Arts Alliance, a repertory off-off Broadway theatre company. She acted with the group for three years, culminating with a performance of Old Flames Off Broadway. Reflecting her interest in children's theatre, Goodrum established the Afterschool Drama Club at the Bank Street School, nurturing that program for over five years to include two performing ensembles, five classes, and a membership of more than seventy-five young people. She subsequently founded a for-profit acting troupe of children called Kidsplay.

Goodrum arrived in Rhode Island in 1985, where she started Afterschool Youth Theatre classes under the auspices of the Trinity Rep community programs. She founded The Washington Street Players, a youth ensemble, in 1986, and produced two plays for that group. She also directed over ninety students at the Broad Street School in an original play focused on the contributions of racial and ethnic minorities to the history of Rhode Island written specifically for the students. In addition, Goodrum directed two productions for Looking Glass Theatre.

In 1987 Goodrum founded All Children's Theatre, which since its inception has instructed thousands of young people in the theatre arts with a focus on the education and enrichment of children ages four through eighteen. The company provides acting classes; supports an ACTing Ensemble, which produces several productions each year; offers outreach programs for community-based organizations; and holds annual summer camps. In addition, All Children's Theatre promotes playwriting through its Rhode Island Youth Playwriting Competition and Festival, now in its twelfth year.

Among its many accomplishments and accolades, the company was selected in 1998 by the Providence Performing Arts Center to perform a series of productions for audiences of middle school students. These included I Never Saw Another Butterfly in 1998, Mill Girls in 2000, Anne Frank and Me in 2002, Zink: the Myth, the Legend, the Zebra in 2004 and, most recently, a performance of We are the Dream: the Legacy of Martin Luther King in February 2007.

All Children's Theatre's original production of Mill Girls was awarded two Moss Hart Winged Trophy Awards by the New England Theatre Conference in 1999 for Best Overall Production and Best Production in the Youth/Children's Theatre Division.

The company has been honored and recognized by the Rhode Island Parents' Paper as "Family Favorite" (2001) and "Best Children's Theatre in Rhode Island" (2003). That same year, Rhode Island Monthly readers also named it "Best Children's Theatre in Rhode Island."

For her efforts in promoting the arts through the production of quality children's theatre, Goodrum received the Citizens Bank/Providence College Good Citizens Medal in 1999 and the Jabez Gorham Award from Business Volunteers for the Arts—Rhode Island in 2000.

THE RHODE ISLAND COLLEGE SEAL

The official Rhode Island College seal, adopted in 1960, incorporates the anchor, a symbol of hope and of the state of Rhode Island, with the founding date of the institution, 1854. The seal was designed by Dr. Edith C. Becker, professor emerita of art, who adapted the central flame symbol from the Holbrook Murals in the foyer of Roberts Hall. The flame is used in the murals to depict the energy that has, over the eons, supported the development of all living things and has led man to his highest intellectual achievements. In like manner, the flame in the Rhode Island College seal stands for the life of the body and the life of the mind, symbolizing the human and intellectual goals and achievements of Rhode Island College.

THE DEL SESTO MACE

At the 1959 Commencement Exercises, the first held on the present Mount Pleasant campus, Governor Christopher Del Sesto presented to Rhode Island College a bronze replica of the statue of the Independent Man so that the College, which up to that time had been located near the State House, might continue its tradition of holding commencements and other academic convocations in the presence of the Independent Man. The Del Sesto Mace, designed by the noted Rhode Island sculptor Aristide Cianfarani and crafted by the Gorham Company, has been in use since 1962 in all academic processions as a symbol of tradition, authority, and of Rhode Island College's commitment to the search for truth, knowledge, beauty, values, and learning.

THE WILLARD MEDALLION

The Willard Medallion, a symbol of the office of the president worn at official and ceremonial occasions, links plates bearing the names of the chief executive officers, who have led Rhode Island College since 1973, in a sterling silver collar with an enamel medallion. It was commissioned by the Rhode Island College Alumni Association and designed by silversmith Curtis K. LaFollette, then a professor of art at the College, to commemorate the inauguration of Dr. Charles Borromeo Willard as the first alumnus to be named president of the College.

ACADEMIC ATTIRE

The caps, gowns, and hoods worn at college and university functions date back to the Middle Ages. Monks and students used them to keep warm in medieval castles and halls of learning. From these practical origins, they have developed into the accepted formal apparel which symbolizes scholarly achievement.

Baccalaureate gowns have a long, pleated front with shirring across the shoulders and back. They are primarily distinguished by flowing sleeves, pointed at the fingertip. These gowns may be worn either open or closed.

The master's gown is worn open and the sleeve is cut so that the forearm comes through a slit just above the elbow.

The doctor's gown has rounded sleeves and velvet panels around the neck and down the front of the gown, as well as three velvet bars on the sleeves. In recent years American universities have followed the custom of European institutions of having doctoral gowns in the color of the university.

Mortar boards or caps worn with baccalaureate and master's gowns generally have black tassels. The tassel of the doctoral cap is usually made of gold bullion.

The hood gives color and real meaning to the academic costume. Its silk lining bears the colors of the institution conferring the degree. The hood is bordered with velvet of a prescribed width and color to indicate the field of learning to which the degree pertains.
