Immigration Quotas Archaic, Says Pastore

Sen. John O. Pastore last night called immigration quotas "archaic" during ceremonies honoring three immigrants who are now American citizens.

The ceremonies were sponsored by the International Institute of Providence, a United Fund agency which helps immigrants adjust to their new lives.

Honored last night were Italian-born Vincent Sorrentino, Portuguese-born Manuel Alves de Carvalho and Armenian-born Larry V. Egavian. Mr. Sorrentino and Mr. Egavian are businessmen. Mr. de Carvalho is an attorney and Portuguese vice-consul for Rhode Island.

Senator Pastore noted that the United States still admits aliens under archaic national quotas established 40 years ago. America, he said, has not given the example it should to the rest of the world.

"Our standards have become a fiction not in keeping with the facts of life—not in keeping in the world stature and world responsibility America has assumed among the free nations of the world," he said.

The Rev. Arthur E. Wilson, D.D., of the Beneficent Congregational Church was reelected president of the institute for his second consecutive term. Other officers elected:

Alexander Chmielewski, first vice president; John L. Rego, second vice president; Mrs. John L. Thornton, treasurer; Miss Helen T. Sutherland, assistant treasurer; and G. Edward Falciglia, secretary.

Elected to the board of directors for three-year terms

International Institute Annual Meeting Tonight

Mr. Arthur E. Wilson, president of the International Institute of Providence, Inc., a nationalities service center and a United Fund Agency, announces that the annual meeting of the Institute will be held tonight at the YWCA, Plantations Club Auditorium in Providence at 7:30 p.m. The public is cordially invited.

United States Senator John O. Pastore will be the guest speaker; his subject — "Re-Uniting Families in a Disturbed World."

The International Institute of Providence is the only non-sectarian, non-profit private social service agency in the State of Rhode Island, specializing in professional social work services in the re-uniting of families where there are separations on an inter-country basis.

Plans for the Annual Meeting have been arranged by the following committee from the Board of Directors: Mrs. George L. Bradley, Mrs. Spiros K. Karambelas and Mrs. John H. Wells.

A special feature of this Meeting will be the issuance of Awards to Outstanding Citizens selected by the Institute. Mrs. Karambelas of the Institute Board has completed these SENATOR JOHN O. PASTORE plans. Dr. Arthur E. Wilson will present the Awards on behalf of the organization.

Musical numbers will be given by Mr. Gokhan Babacan. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the program.

Pourers will be Mrs. Arthur E. Wilson, and Mrs. Sharon L. Hatch.

3 Naturalized Citizens Cited For Contributions to State

Three naturalized American citizens—of Italian, Portuguese and Armenian extraction—were cited last night for outstanding contributions to the state by the International Institute of Providence.

Horned by the organization, a United Fund agency whose prime purpose is to enable immigrants to integrate into the community, were Italian-born Vincent Sorrentino, Portuguese-born Manuel Alves de Carvalho and Armenian-born Larry V. Egavian.

Mr. Sorrentino, a resident of Barrington, and Mr. Egavian, a resident of North Kingstown, are prominent Rhode Island businessmen. Mr. de Carvalho, a lawyer, is Portuguese vice consul for Rhode Island.

The Rev. Arthur E. Wilson, D.D., minister of Beneficent Congregational Church, who introduced the award winners, said many another immigrant found a good start in this land because an immigrant of 1906—Mr. Sorrentino—"was here to help."

American immigration laws, based on quotas tied to national origins, were described as "archaic" by Sen. John O. Pastore.

"Certainly we have a right to define, within reason, the quantity and quality of the new blood we will invite," Senator Pastore said. "But it has been my conviction and still is my well considered view that in this regard America has fallen short of the example it could give to the rest of the world. . . . Nothing that we have yet enacted, quotas on the basis of our national population of 40 years ago, Senator Pastore said that "conservatively speaking" the United States should admit a minimum of 250,000 immigrants annually. The limit on annual immigration is now 150,000.

"We must understand," Senator Pastore said, "that in 40 years we have grown in population from 105,000,000 to 180,000,000."

Senator Pastore said that because of "our archaic quota system" the United States does not in fact admit the 150,000 permitted by law.

"Our standards have become a fiction not in keeping with the facts of life—not in keeping with the world stature and world responsibility America has assumed among the free nations of the world," Senator Pastore said.

Dr. Wilson was reelected president of the institute for his second consecutive term. Other officers elected:

Alexander Chmielewski, first vice president; John L. Rego, second vice president; Mrs. John L. Thornton, treasurer; Miss Helen T. Sutherland, assistant treasurer; and G. Edward Falciglia, secretary.

Elected to the board of directors for three-year terms were Mrs. George L. Bradley, Mrs. Samuel Friedman, Zenas J. Kevorkian, Mrs. John P. Luke, Harold E. Adams Jr., Dr. Robert Amos and Mr. Falciglia.
