Nazarian is inaugurated

On Saturday Oct. 27, approximately 700 people attended the inauguration of John Nazarian, the 8th President of Rhode Island College.

Before the ceremony, Nazarian stood patiently outside of Roberts Hall as last minute questions were being asked by reporters and people filled the auditorium. An airplane flying overhead carried a banner stating, "Congratulations John - Good Luck."

Nazarian has been acting President for the past 14 months, since taking over for Carol Guardo after her resignation. In May, the board of Governors for Higher Education appointed Nazarian as President in a 6-4 vote.

The ceremony began with a procession of 75 dignitaries who represented colleges and universities from across the country.

The first person to speak during the ceremony was Governor Edward DiPrete. DiPrete said, "John has made RIC a strong institution today...and will continue to prepare it well for the 21st century."

Lee Anne Peluso, President of Student Community Government, praised Nazarian as helping out "students, faculty, and staff to seek out new ideas."

Other speakers included, Eleanor M.

McMahon, Distinguished Visiting Professor from Brown University, and Joseph F. Kauffman, fifth President of Rhode Island College.

Henry J. Nardone, Vice Chairman of the Board of Governors for Higher Education, made a few comments before the installation of the President. Nardone informed the audience that a couple days ago, a few of Nazarian friends got together and raised $40,000 for a scholarship in honor of the new president for what he has done for the college. Nardone also said, "No one loves this college more than President Nazarian." Afterwards the Willard Medallion, a symbol that represents office of presidency, which is worn at official and ceremonial occasion, was placed on Nazarian.

Nazarian came up to the podium and thanked the "Great faculty, students, and staff for supporting him in his candidacy." Nazarian went on and graciously thanked his family for his education, especially his parents and older brothers and sisters who helped him financially.

He also discussed the importance of education and the knowledge of other cultures.

The ceremony ended with the singing of the Alma Mater and musical selections by The American Band.

URI student arrested in rape case

President Eddy responds at candlelight vigil

By John Valerio
Anchor News Editor

A 19 year old fraternity pledge raped a female student during a party at the University of Rhode Island Saturday night, while five or six men watched, URI police charged.

David Lallemand, a freshman from Westford, Mass., was sent to the Adult Correctional Institution without bail after his arraignment yesterday in District Court, Wakefield, on a charge of first-degree sexual assault.

The woman, an 18 year old freshman from Massachusetts, told URI police that she met Lallemand for the first time at the party and that she did not know the onlookers.

As of Friday, police had not discovered who the others were.

The woman told police she was talking to the group in an upstairs bedroom at Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity when Lallemand, who stands 6 feet, 7 inches, threw her onto a sofa and raped her.

The woman was treated at about 1 a.m. at URI's infirmary and has since returned home to Massachusetts. Police learned of the incident about the same time from the school's Office of Residential Life.

Two police officers were stationed at the party to make sure alcohol use did not exceed six kegs of beer, the amount allowed by the university. URI Patrolman David W. Doweiko, who was stationed at the fraternity's front door, said about 150 people attended the party.

URI President Edward D. Eddy held a candlelight vigil Thursday night on the campus quadrangle. About 500 students attended the vigil and pledged "to end sexual assault and harassment here and everywhere."

Eddy said, "In gathering tonight, we are collectively apologizing to one among us whose rights and body were violated."

Student taps into campus computer to counterfeit checks

EAST LANSING, Mich. (CPS)- The U.S. Secret Service charged a Michigan State University student and a friend with using MSU's computers since July to manufacture fake cashier's checks worth more than $50,000.

Officials said Student Anthony Grewel, 21, and friend David Martin, 23, scanned bank logos into a campus Macintosh computer and, using a common illustration program, allegedly printed counterfeit cashier's checks on a laser printer.

In announcing the arrest Oct. 16, a Secret Service spokesman said the two had used the cash to buy a bicycle, some ski equipment, a dining room set and a $17,000 computer.

From the Campus Center

The NACA Conference

by Anthony DeStefanis
Anchor Contributor

Ever wonder how the different activities and events that take place at Rhode Island College get organized and carried out?

The annual NACA (National Association of Campus Activities) Regional Conference was held this past weekend in Springfield, Massachusetts at the Marriot and Sheraton Hotels. The conference's purpose is to bring students from colleges all over New England together in order to exchange ideas on how to make student activities more worthwhile, rewarding, and of course, fun!

Rhode Island College was represented at the Conference by Douglas Cureton, Associate Director of Training and Activities, Kristen King, Coordinator of Student Activities, Mark Paolucci, Assistant Director of Operations and Services and a group of students including many of the members of RIC Programming. These students have the chance to see a number of nationally known musicians and performers and have the opportunity to meet with the agents if they are interested in bringing any of these acts to Rhode Island College. Mario Joyner, host of the Half Hour Comedy Hour on MTV, who will appear on Wednesday, November 7th in 8 pm Donovan Dining Center along with Richard Belzer, was first spotted by Programming at the NACA National Conference held in Chicago last winter.

The conference also features an array of educational seminars that are designed to give college activities coordinators ideas for workshops and other activities they can put together at their home schools. Our own Doug Cureton presented the opening session in Springfield which highlighted an innovative way, "ice-breakers", to induce a group of people to become more comfortable with each other. This presentation was entitled, FUNDamentals of Involvement.

The NACA Conference has a tradition of bringing together the talents of many area colleges to exchange information on how to make student life more enjoyable. The representatives from Rhode Island College have brought back some great ideas for activities to take place in the spring. Be on the lookout for announcements concerning the excellent entertainment that has been lined up for your enjoyment.

Department: Urban Studies

Position: Director of Urban Studies

Education: "I became a geographer because of a great teacher at Bridgewater University. I've attended many different schools at various levels - Ivy leagues, Columbia....."

Last Good Book Read: "Two actually." The Living City by Roberta Gratz and Wartime by Paul Fossell - "Wartime really explains the insanity of war."

Last Good Movie Seen: Goodfellas

Hobbies/Outside Interests: Writing, reading, traveling. "As a geographer I travel a lot - one of the joys of what I do. In my younger days I was a jock - basketball, boxing, all that stuff."

Most People Don't Know That I: "am really a quiet person."

In College, Everybody Said I Was: "a nice guy, popular, conscientious - incidentally, that was the high point of my career."

Most Embarrassing Moment: "When students ask questions that I really don't have an answer to."

Ideal Night Out: "Of course it would include a gourmet restaurant, candlelight, with my wife. Being with friends and my children, discussing life, is nice too."

Teaching Philosophy: "I'm from the kind of generation where college was a dream - I'm thankful for the G.I. bills, one of the best investments the government ever made in the people. I have a lot of respect for RIC students - they are working full time (many of them) and still getting their education. That takes dedication - and it's admirable."

RIC Wind Ensemble presents Fall Concert

The Rhode Island College Wind Ensemble, directed by Dr. Francis Marciniak, will present its Fall Concert on Thursday, November 29 at 8:15 pm in Roberts Auditorium. The program will include Chester Overture by William Schuman in honor of Schuman's 80th birthday. Also featured on the program will be two solo performances. The first will be by David Neves who will appear as the alto saxophone soloist in Warren Benson's Star Edge. Neves, who is Director of Bands at Scituate High School in Scituate, RI, holds the Master of Arts in Teaching from Rhode Island College and is the principal saxophonist with the American Band. Also appearing as a soloist will be Joseph Carvalho, a senior majoring in Music Performance at Rhode Island College. Carvalho will perform as the piano soloist in Vaclav Nelhybel's Variants on a Czech Love Song.

Other works on the program will include Gustav Holst's Songs of the West, J.S. Bach's, My Jesus! Oh What Anguish, Kenneth Alford's, Standard of St. George, and Ralph Vaughan Williams', Rhosymedre.

Leadership Conference Scheduled for Students

October 1990 -- St. Petersburg, FL - College students nationwide are invited to participate in three day conference designed to help them reach their goals, improve their self-esteem and to assist them with their future careers.

The National Leaders of Tomorrow Conference will feature six well-known speakers, including such role models as former NFL player Joe Theismann and motivational speaker Dr. Denis Waitley, January 4-6 at Walt Disney World's Contemporary Resort. A portion of all proceeds from the conference will benefit the Big Oak Ranch, a home for abused and neglected children in Alabama.

Vonda K. Barbour, president of Leaders of Tomorrow, explains the rationale behind the organization: "Leaders of Tomorrow was formed to help college students realize their dreams. Our motto is 'Dare to Dream' and we want to instill the courage in students. Too many talented students don't fully realize their potential because no one ever gave them permission to dream before. We want to give these students the self-confidence to dream to be the President of the United States, or a large corporation, or whatever their dream may be."

During the conference, Leaders of Tomorrow will award scholarships to financially needy student leaders. Students also will receive assistance in marketing their resumes to top corporations looking to hire outstanding college graduates. Six guest speakers will address different facets of leadership and personal skills development throughout the conference. Theismann, a two-time Pro Bowl player and the clarifying goals, pride, teamwork and the eight aspects of leadership. Dr. Waitley, who is the author of several best-selling self management and motivation books will discuss a step-by-step approach to professional and personal excellence. Other speakers include Ms. Barbour, Jim Savage, the Vice President of Training and Consulting for the Zig-Ziglar Corp., John Croyle, the founder of Big Oak Ranch, which has been home to more than 500 children, and Bill Kallenberg, the founder of Student Leadership Development, an organization that teaches students important life skills such as personal discipline and how to reach goals.

Registration postmarked prior to November 16, 1990 will be $265 per person; registration postmarked after November 16, 1990 will be $315 per person. The registration fee includes: two banquet dinners, two breakfasts and one luncheon; all seminar conference materials; all conference sessions and speakers; nightly entertainment at Pleasure Island; a dress for success fashion show and entertainment.

Convention rate rooms are available at Disney's Contemporary Resort for $135 per night for up to 5 people per room. A check for $148.50 made payable to Walt Disney World Co. for the first night's room deposit at Disney's Resort must accompany your conference registration. A special discount airline rate has been arranged through Delta Air Lines. For further registration or general information, please contact Vonda Barbour at (813) 864-2922.

Shipwrecked at Bahama Bob's

The tide will rise when the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation launches "Shipwrecked at Bahama Bob's", a unique and lighthearted fundraiser on December 5th and 6th.

This event involves bringing "castaways" to Bahama Bob's in Providence. The castaways are local business owners, professionals, celebrities and politicians who have volunteered their time to raise money in the form of pledges to the March of Dimes. Once they reach their rescue fund amount they will be free.

Anyone wishing to have a friend, relative or colleague "shipwrecked", should contact Debra Kesterson at the March of Dimes 781-1611. Volunteers are also needed for this event.

All money raised will go towards the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies, which funds medical research, public and professional education and community outreach programs designed to ensure a healthy birth for all children.

Apple introduces the Macintosh Classic.

Trying to stretch dollars when you're computer shopping doesn't mean you're willing to make sacrifices.

That's why you should consider the new, affordable Macintosh® Classic® computer. It has everything you need—including a monitor, keyboard, mouse, 2 megabytes of RAM, and a 40-megabyte hard disk. Just plug everything in and the Macintosh Classic is ready to run, because the system software is already installed. And, thanks to the Macintosh computer's legendary ease of use, you'll be up and running in no time.

Like every Macintosh, the Classic can run thousands of available applications that all work in the same, consistent way—so once you've learned one program, you're well on your way to learning them all. And this is one cheap roommate that doesn't have trouble sharing. The Apple® SuperDrive™—standard equipment with every Macintosh—reads from and writes to Macintosh, MS-DOS, OS/2, and Apple II floppy disks, which means you can share information with someone who uses a different type of computer.

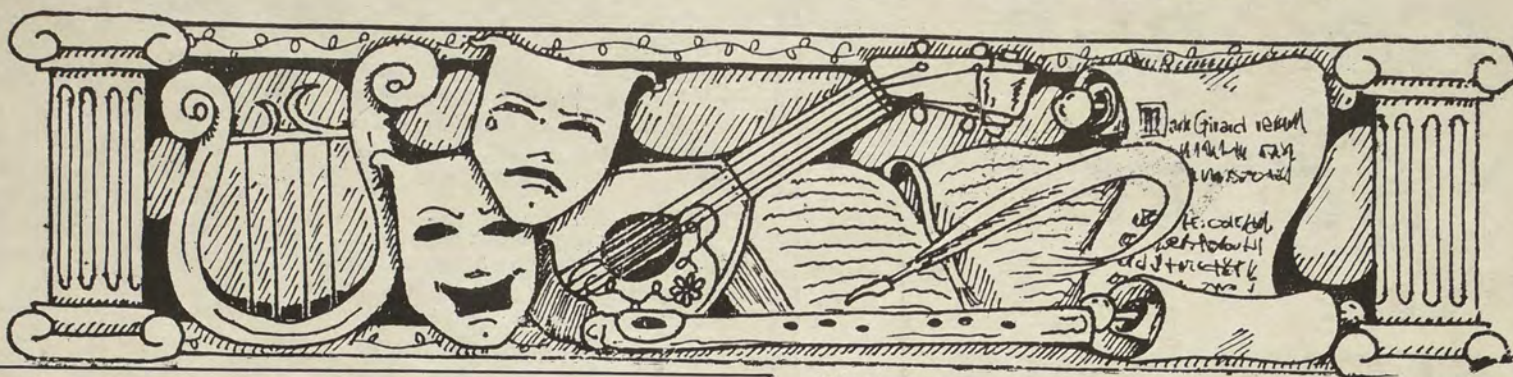

See the Macintosh Classic for yourself. It'll change your mind about cheap roommates.

Justice Executed at Brown

By Maggie Gordon
A&E Editor

Brown University's production Execution of Justice, the gripping portrayal of the trial of Dan White for the murders of San Francisco's Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk, opened on October 25. The play, based on the true life tragedy of the 1978 murders, was written by Emily Mann and directed at Brown by Barbara Tannenbaum. On November 27, 1978, Dan White, former Policeman, Supervisor and Fireman, entered the Mayor's Office and shot George Moscone, Mayor of San Francisco. He then reloaded his gun and shot Supervisor Harvey Milk. Mann's Execution of Justice is the portrayal of Dan White's trial, as well as an exploration of the Judiciary System itself. The play examines not only a particular trial: how the court system was manipulated, and how gay rights may have played a part in the jury's decision, it also questions the entire institution of the courts, playing with the theme that justice is sometimes not served, but executed, or rather destroyed.

Brown's production of the Mann play is particularly effective when utilizing the four overhead television monitors which display film footage, images of a gun being fired, and phrases appropriate to the action taking place on the stage. The stage is a round, gray carpeted area, drawing the audience into the scenes, forcing the viewer to take an active part in the viewing of it. The play opens on a busy street in San Francisco, with the crowd stopped cold with the news of the deaths of Milk and Moscone. In this scene, as in later scenes, the response in San Francisco to the deaths is related to the response of the nation to the assassination of John Kennedy.

Dan White, played by Dan Weene, is portrayed during the trial as the

All-American boy. Weene gives the role the sensitivity it calls for, especially in scenes where White breaks down, claiming his psychological state at the time was completely out of his control.

Matt Dunne, as Prosecuting Attorney Tom Norman, elicits the sympathies, as well as anger and frustration, of the audience. Norman is sensitively portrayed as the "good guy" attempting to argue his case fairly and present solid evidence, rather than an unethical attorney whose sympathies lay with the defense, as some accusations claim. Dunne's portrayal of Norman's utter impotence in retaliating against White's of momentary insanity and psychological imbalance is not only sympathetic to Norman, but elicits understanding and sympathy from the audience as well.

Randy Becker is striking as Defense Attorney Douglas Schmidt. Knowing that his client is guilty, he appears to win his case solely on Dan White's reputation of always being a "good guy" previous to the murders. Becker's performance, badgering the witnesses for the people and coddling defense witnesses, especially "comforting" Dan gives the play the feel of a real courtroom, where the solid evidence can be temporarily suspended and theatrics deem the verdict.

The countless number of characters in Execution of Justice such as key witnesses for the People and for the Defense, as well as uncalled witnesses, relate the events surrounding the deaths, giving the audience new insight into a tale that was told and retold in the newspapers and on television. Each are individually pertinent to Mann's play.

Convertibles

High Wire Days

BMI Records

The Convertibles' third album High Wire Days is one of the best albums I've gotten from The Anchor in a long time. (Just kidding, Mag.)

The Convertibles are a Providence based rock-n-roll band in the style of Tom Petty, Bruce Springsteen and R.E.M.. The members of The Convertibles are Paul Curcurto, Sean Finnerty, Earl E. Ford, Allan Raskin and RIC Alumnus John Larson.

High Wire Days has already gained recognition. In the Newspapers' 1990 "Best Music Poll" they scored 1st place in four categories including Best Rock Band and Best Vocalist (Larson).

All the songs are good but the first single "Don't Blame Cindy" is excellent. The lp focus' on the disillusionment of reality, and "Don't Blame Cindy" is a 90's Cinderella story, she never got asked to the prom.

I did have a major problem with the album, only 6 songs. When I got to the last song, I was expecting more, but there wasn't any. (Donna Theroux)

Welcome to the week! I will take this opportunity to say that our own A & E editor has moved folks, not out of this column, but to a new spacious apartment infested with bad plumbing and bugs. "HOME SWEET HOME" Maggie!

Tonight starts off with a bang in the Comedy Cafe with host Ed DelGrande and his three Boston comedians that are sure to make you laugh from 9 pm until, as they always say, "the laughs stop." And do not forget the free admission to the good 'ole Coffeeground.

Also, Brown University Theatre presents Hidden: A Gender. A special performance by Kate Bornstein in Leeds Theatre at 8 pm. Don't miss it!

After all, there is no school tomorrow. Don't forget to study up on those wonderful people that want to run your state (into the ground, that is).

Tuesday

VOTE !!!!!!!!!!!!!
EXPRESS YOURSELF!!
DEFY COLLEGE APATHY!

O K, there may be no New Music Nite but hey there is no school either.

However, there is always Trinity Repertory Theater 's production of Juno and the Paycock by Sean O'Casey at 7 pm. Tix prices vary so for more information call the Box Office at 351-4242.

For the limited budget of a real college student, television's coverage of the elections will be exciting as it gets. Thirtysomething will return next week for all you up and coming Yuppies!

Wednesday

Now I know all of you dedicated students caught up on your studies, so you can have your choice of going to see live entertainment and movies.

Mario Joyner and Richard Belzer will be performing in Donovan Dining Center at 8 pm. Tickets are available at the Student Info. Desk for $10/$7 with a RIC i.d.. Call 456-8045 for laughs and a good time!

If the cost is too much for you, try Pale Rider at 7 pm and Young Guns at 9 pm in the Video Den. It's free, how 'bout you?

For the cost of frozen yogurt in Donovan Dining Center, you can see Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown in Horace Mann 193 at 8 pm for $2/$1 with a RIC i.d. presented by the Student Film Society. If you can handle English subtitles, grab some culture, some soap opera drama, and an interesting twist at the conclusion to end of the movie.

Wickenden Gate Theatre presents Benefactors by Michael Frayn at 8 pm at 134 Mathewson St.. Call 421-9680 for tix and info.

Thursday

ATTENTION ALL FRESHMEN! This is the day to drop classes but no money back, sorry.

RIC Bannister Gallery is showing the works of photographer Lawrence Sykes entitled "Sabbatical Portfolio" from 6-9 pm and it is free!

Don't forget Cheers' 200th episode on Channel 10 at 9 pm which will be an hour long of looking at Sam's perfect hair and Bart Simpson's not-so-perfect hair at 8:00 pm on Channel 64. "Is America ready for baseball's new mascot?"

Don't forget that it is college party night around the country. I feel so bad for all of you who have classes on Friday morning but remember this is a DRY campus!

Friday

It's Friday and the Avon, not the company that makes you look so good, is presenting Metropolitan at 7:15 and 9:30 pm. It is a "combination of minimalism and Woody Allen's wit." Stick around for Robert De Niro in Raging Bull at 12 pm.

This is for all those people who did not get out last night.

Rocky Horror Picture Show is coming out on video to celebrate its 15th anniversary but the real life experience can always be had at the Meadowbrook Cinema at the stroke of midnight. Come prepared to toast and toilet paper the theater. All the things you could never do as a child come true tonight. Well, maybe not everything.

Saturday

Wake up sleepy heads, after all you are getting an extra hour of sleep these days. There are cartoons to be watched and chores to be done. You know, that pile on the floor that is laundry or is that a body?

Whichever, you have to get ready for Zeiterion Theater's presentation of the Irish Minstrels, Tommy Makem, and the Northeast Winds at 8 pm on 684 Purchase St., New Bedford, MA. Tickets are $14.50, $18.50, and $22.50 if you do not believe me call 994-2900. Get your daily dose of cornbeef and cabbage!

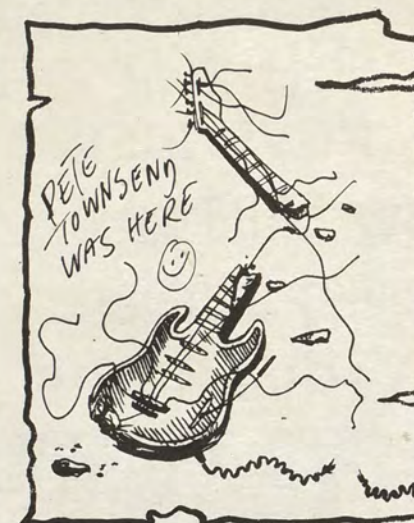

Sunday

This is it this column is almost done. Please Maggie don't move again. It was a long and gruesome week, beside your munchkins miss you.

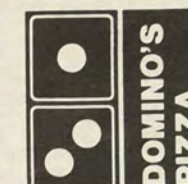

All I have to occupy the minds of students today is Heavy Metal Sunday on our own 88.1 on your radio, a healthy lecture from your own spiritual advisor, or an invitation to food, music, and arts and crafts from R I Women's Health Collective's 15th Anniversary Benefit Celebration:

A Multicultural Arts Festival at Rogers Williams Park Casino from 2-6 for free and a concert at 8 pm for $10 advance/$12 at the door. For more info call 861-0030.

Goodbye for now, it was real and it was fun but it wasn't a blast!

Women's Gymnastics Preview: Anchorwomen prepare for tough season ahead

The Anchorwomen prepare for a tough season.

by Joan Dansereau
Anchor Staffwriter

The Rhode Island College women's gymnastic team have begun practicing for the 1990-91 season, which begins December 4th.

The outlook for the lady gymnasts is a favorable one according to Coach Gail Davis, "This is the largest turnout of gymnasts in 15 years. Eighteen came out and we have sixteen on the team. The athletes are enthusiastic about competing this year."

Among the athletes are senior co-captain Jill D'Abrosca and Robin

Fanala. These returning co-captains are the backbone of the team and show good leadership qualities.

Both Fanala and D'Abrosca are exceptional all-around performers. Coach Davis has high expectations for their competition abilities. "My seniors are smart and use the rules of gymnastics well. They put together routines to their advantage."

Other returning gymnasts include Dawn Gates, who is strong in all-around competition, and Kerri Cunha, who is coming off an outstanding season.

Also returning are Lois Fische, Nicole Tanguay, Melissa Brule, Tracey Beaudreau, Tracie Guenette and Nicole Desmarais.

There are quite a few freshmen that will have to prove themselves to their coach and competitors. Overall the team looks promising and has depth in terms of strength of competitors.

Last years team finished with a 3-7 record. These numbers however do not discourage Coach Davis, "We are in New England Division 3, which in 1984 had nine teams competing. There are two teams remaining, therefore we must compete at the Division 1 and 2 levels. The higher divisions make the competition tougher, but we are ready to take the challenge."

Given the situation, the team might

SPORTS FIGURE OF THE WEEK "Downtown" Stephanie Brown

Stephanie Brown

Anchor Editor

Inside Stephanie Brown's locker, beside the pictures of Michael Jordan and Larry Bird, there's a little piece of paper that reads:

"To make it in sports, you've got to stay one step ahead."

In a nutshell, that basically sums up Steph's attitude towards basketball and maybe life itself.

For the past three years, Stephanie Brown has laced up her size 4 1/2 Nike sneakers for the RIC Women's Basketball team.

The 5 foot senior from Coventry is now in her fourth and final year of eligibility for the Anchorwomen.

Majoring in Physical Education, Steph attended Coventry High School and enjoyed competing in both basketball and softball.

"I like basketball the best," she admits. "It has always been a way for me to have fun, relax, and relieve stress."

Just by talking with Head Coach Ken Hopkins and her teammates, it's obvious that Steph gives every practice a 100% effort.

"Steph looks at every practice as though it were a game, and practices intensely," Hopkins explains, "she's a good model for every player on the team."

Senior Captain Renee Walker talked about Steph's dedication, "Stephanie Brown has got to be the hardest worker that I've seen in my four years on the team. She has never missed one single practice!"

Stephanie's specialty is the three point shot. This outside shooter has earned the nickname of "Downtown" Stephanie Brown. But how did she get it?

"It goes back to junior high," she laughs as she explains. "One day in practice I stuck a shot from way outside the three point line. My coach started calling me 'Downtown', after the NBA star Freddie Brown. It caught on and just stuck with me."

One word that would best describe Stephanie Brown would be "friendly."

Steph says that in her four years at RIC, she has never had a problem with a player on the team and gets along with everyone.

"This year respect between the players is stronger than ever. We all get along both on and off the court."

First year player Kristen Lewis comments on Steph's personality. "She's very friendly. As soon as I met her, I felt comfortable talking with her, and to a freshman, that's important."

Steph has had her ups and downs in life, but refuses to let the negative things take control of her. "I refuse to let things get to me. I always try to find a way to work things out," she says with confidence.

"I love basketball too much to suffer set backs." This hustler in hoop's love for the sport shines both on and off the court.

In her spare time, she enjoys spending time with her aunt, going shopping, and of course playing and watching basketball. Her favorite players in the NBA are Michael Jordan and Larry Bird, as seen in her locker.

In her last season of hoop, Stephanie will definitely give her team the spirit it needs in practice and in the games.

Her outlook about basketball is a humble one. "I never looked to be a star, just to get recognized for working hard."

Goodness Gracious!

Co-ed Volleyball League
"Net" Results

Last week, on the other side of campus (the Recreation Center), rival forces came face to face. All teams and fans involved in the action were set on a collision course of volleyball action.

The results of Tuesday night's action are as follows: The Hanson III powered past the much improved RIC Bloopers.

The digger of the week was Beth Colvin, a newly acquired player for the Bloopers.

In other court action, the Heroes beat the Metal Midgets in three games. In the next game, the D-Team shut down Tin Foil in two straight games. M.Y.M.T.V. was defeated by the Cruisers, which was an exciting match. Unfortunately, the Hurricanes had to forfeit to the Strangers.

Don't forget, no volleyball action next week, due to Election Day.

3on 3 Basketball Results

On Thursday nights, the players and fans were tantalized by the electrifying hoop action held at the Rec Center.

It's Intramural time!

Coming out on top were the Salukis, the Yellow Jackets, the Knicks, and the Homeboys. Next week, the Homeboys will play the Knicks. Both teams are already boasting about who will be the victor.

Schick Super Hoops

Rhode Island College will once again have an opportunity to participate in the country's largest 3 on 3 basketball tournament.

The tournament is scheduled for November 29, 1990 at the Rhode Island College Recreation Center. Students interested in registering a team should contact Greg Grall at the Rec. Center or call x8136 for more info.

Schick Super Hoops combines a fun on-campus event and a competitive off-campus tournament with exciting prizes.

The two top male and female teams in each region have a chance to compete for the championship at an NBA arena. Other prizes include trophies, t-shirts, athletic shoes, gym bags, and free

RIC booters end season with two wins, take third in Little East Conference

U-Mass Boston to beat their squad 3-2. At the beginning of the game, RIC took control of the ball.

Freshmen Derek Thayer talks about the windy day that seemed to have worked to RIC's advantage. "We had the wind to our backs, which made running much easier."

Joe Luzzi scored his first of two goals early when he stole the ball from the U-Mass keeper and chipped a ball that looked like it would miss. However, the wind curved it into the net.

At the end of the first half, Junior Back Fred McNulty knocked a shot that sailed over everyone's head and in front of Ricky Uth, who pushed the ball past the defense for another for the Anchormen.

After holding onto first place for most of the season, the RIC booters finished by taking third in the Little East Conference. Their final record for the 1990 season is 11 wins, 7 losses, and 2 ties.

This young team of mostly freshmen and sophomores will be in a good position next year with a little experience behind them. They will lose Senior Captain Tom Cafaro however, who has always done a fine job leading the defense. Congratulations to the squad for a fine season.

The Anchormen ended another soccer season on a positive note, beating both Eastern Nazarene 6-1 and U-Mass Boston 3-2.

On Wednesday, October 24, RIC dominated the game right from the start as they blew away Eastern Nazarene six goals to one.

Sophomore forward Joe Luzzi scored three for his squad, along with other tosses in the net by sophomores

Antonio Barros and Fernando Silvestre. Midfielder Derek Thayer also scored for the Anchormen.

However, those goals wouldn't have been possible without the assists from players Remi Fluette, Carlos Oliveira, and Fred McNulty.

Freshmen Goalie Steven Jette from Aviano, Italy got a chance to show Head Coach Dave Kemmy what he could do for the Anchormen. In the 12 minutes of play that Jette guarded the net, he kept Eastern Nazarene from scoring.

The Anchormen then traveled to

EDITORIAL

No news is usually good news

Everyday of the week something happens on campus to enhance students' lives. There are meetings of student organizations, guest lecturers, dances, movie showings, local comedians and, of course, classes. The quality of the events held is first rate, and no one can dispute the quality of education that is available. While these things are important to the students involved and deserve recognition, they usually don't get it.

In the last few weeks, much of the news to come out of both RIC and the University of Rhode Island has been negative. The fight after a recent Harambee dance was in three editions of The Providence Journal and made the local television newscasts at morning, noon and then again at six. The news coming out of U.R.I. this week has been of an alleged rape. Numerous articles, pictures and 30 second video clips have been bombarding the people of Rhode Island who read the paper or turned on the television.

Most of these people only learn about the local colleges through what they see on T.V. or read in the paper. The image that the colleges gain through this negative publicity is distorted. For every dance or party that has a less than favorable aftermath, there are countless events that go off without a hitch.

The job of the students is to tell everyone they know about the positive things that happen on a daily basis at the colleges. By telling people about what happens here everyday they will be more likely to give us their support. President Nazarian expressed this same sentiment when he said, "We have to go out and tell our story...and I think we will get the support."

Last Thursday night Harambee held another dance. Most people don't know that there was a dance. That's because it didn't make the paper or the T.V. newscast.

This situation supports the old adage that "no news is good news." Except in this case, it spells out bad news for the college.

Commentary

by Michael Guernon
Anchor Staff Writer

The consciously aware students of Rhode Island College (aka the minority) may have noticed a growing trend as of late. That is the trend of environmental advocacy. For those not aware, this advocacy is the reason people want you to recycle cans, plastics, paper and to do the unmentionable; stop using aerosol hair sprays. (Oh how we shudder at the fashion implications!!!) Well, there is good reason to advocate care for the environment: To be precise, the environment is going to hell in a bucket and some of us aren't enjoying the ride. If people don't recognize the abuse soon, the repercussions could be at best tragic and at worst criminal.

A forerunner of environmental concern is a protection of the ozone layer. That seems to be a buzzword of late, 'ozone', as the media and commercial forces have identified abuse of the ozone and made a token tribute to it. But it has to go beyond tribute, it must go to the core of the problem and to a wide-spread initiative to correct it.

The ozone layer is a gaseous formation of oxygen 3 found in the atmosphere. This layer serves, among other things, to deflect harmful ultraviolet rays produced by the sun. Without this protection the world would be exposed to severe harm.

Well, the ozone has been depleting steadily since scientists first discovered an abnormality in 1979. The ozone layer, which is normally 20 to 30 feet thick, has since thinned out considerably to approximately 12 feet in the temporal areas of the world, thus the hole. In 1987, the 'hole' was measured at twice the size of the United States, equaling 10% of the Southern Hemisphere- ten percent of the Southern Hemisphere is now exposed to harmful rays of the sun! But what does that have to do with Providence, RI? How convenient you should ask.

Ozone depletion has quite a lot to do with Providence. The depletion of the ozone layer is in direct correlation to the Greenhouse effect. Since U.V. rays are able to enter the ozone, they cannot exist in the same way. Instead, they remain and heat up the environment in the same manner a greenhouse does. Since the depleting of the ozone, the five hottest summers in recorded history have occurred, and in 1988, meteorologists recorded the hottest summer ever. Ecologists will tell you there is no action without reaction, and the action of ozone depletion causes the reaction of global warming and the Greenhouse effect. Perhaps that is why it is 80 degrees in October in Providence, RI.

Not only does ozone depletion lead to global warming but it also leads to medical problems. For every 1% decrease in the ozone layer there is a 5% increase in the chances of skin cancer. The increases access of U.V. rays into the atmosphere also leads to cornea damage. So without doubt the depletion of the ozone has quite a bit to do with Providence.

Now as conscious members of the human race we should be concerned with what leads to the depletion of this ozone layer. The core of the attack on the ozone is from a chemical reaction. Simply put, (recognizing a popular distaste for chemistry) the release of gases such as carbon dioxide and chlorofluorocarbons (CFC's) into the atmosphere form a chlorine gas that destroys the ozone (O₃) molecules. The destruction by CFC's is primarily launched from aerosols (hair-sprays), air-conditioners, and polystyrene foam (aka Styrofoam). There is also a large release of carbon dioxide from automobiles, and ironically enough from the destruction of the rainforests; everything is relative.

The rape of the rainforests is by far the most criminal and savage attack on the earth and environment. Undisturbed, the rainforest houses an intricate relationship between plants, insects, reptiles and animal. Approximately one-half of the species of life on the planet are located in the tropical rainforests. There are a catalogued 41,000 species of insect and an estimated 2 million more which have yet to be discovered. The most abundant species present in the forests are plant life. More than 43% of the world's plants are located in the rainforests.

If humankind was to explore the rainforests in a non-destructive manner, then the possibility for benefits would be immeasurable. Foremost, the diversity of plant life opens up a wide possibility of new medicines. Research has already enabled the conversion of rainforest plants into medicines to combat cancer, heart disease, arthritis, and glaucoma. Other extractive uses in the rainforest include compounds that can fight Alzheimer's and Down Syndrome. Yet, the corporate world does not explore the rainforest in this extractive manner, instead they pursue an exploitive approach. Nations, like the U.S. and Japan, are using the rainforests in a destructive, as opposed to a productive, manner. By extracting hardwoods from the rainforests, these nations disturb the delicate ecosystem of the tropical forests. That system is amazingly contingent on all factors and the absence of one species can dramatically alter it or even lead to its destruction.

One would hope that societies would abhor this criminal assault on the earth; yet instead nations world-wide including the U.S.A. are remissly approving of the destruction of the rainforests as a means of attaining profit. Yet, profit without consideration, is robbery. And the victims of this crime are Mother Earth and humankind. Now, what kind of sick bastard would abuse his mother??

It is now up to humankind to act. It is up to us to act! This negligence and abuse on the environment cannot last.

Basically, it's just not healthy. The solution is obvious; stop abusing the environment. A number of ways to stop biting the hand that feeds you are:

1-The refusal to support corporations that exploit the environment. For example, companies like the Mitsubishi Car Corp., who has investments in hardwood production. According to the Rainforest Action Network (RAN) when the severity of rainforest depletion was brought to the attention of Mitsubishi, instead of reducing exploitation, they installed flood lights to work 24 hours, and depleted the rainforest day and night.

2-Boycott the majority of fast-food restaurants that use beef grazed upon cleared rainforests: After roughly six years, this land becomes barren, and washed away. This means of attaining profit is senseless, heartless, and downright stupid.

3-Encourage the recycling of cans on your campus as well as the recycling of plastics and refusal to use styrofoam plates in the Donovan Dining Center.

4-Even a simple approach of using a pump hairspray, rather than an environment killing aerosol, would help.

5-And for the real radicals on this campus (like the ones who sit on the grass in front of the library), support groups like the Rainforest Action Network or Friend of the Rainforests.

It is now time to act. The period of profit over responsibility is over. This isn't funny anymore, it's serious. People on this planet, have to be accountable to the planet. In a paraphrase of Henry David Thoreau, "What's the use of having a house, if you don't have a planet to put it on?"

IT WAS ONLY A PAPER CUT?
 WELL, THAT'S GOOD STILL, IF THERE'S ANYTHING I CAN DO,
 LIKE MAKE CHICKEN SOUP, OR RUN SOME ERRANDS FOR YOU...
 WHAT... UH-HUH... SURE...
 OKAY, BYE.

SHE TOLD ME IF SHE EVER NEEDS A
 HUMAN DRAFT GUARD
 FOR HER BEDROOM
 DOOR, SHE'LL GIVE ME A CALL.

POOR RAY NO ONE EVER SHOWS THE GUY ANY RESPECT...
 I'D HATE TO KNOW
 WHAT THE POOR SLOB
 IS THINKING RIGHT
 NOW... SHE LIKES ME!
