Entire Anchor run, over 3,000 copies, disappears from campus buildings

Remains of papers found in two dumpsters

Last night, Anchor staff members discovered that over 3,000 copies of The Anchor were missing from campus buildings. Newspapers were later found in two campus dumpsters.

Newspapers in racks in the Student Union, Adams Library, Donovan Dining Center and Gage Hall, as well as those left in Craig-Lee, Roberts Hall, Alger Hall, Sweet Hall, Browne Hall and Weber Hall, were all missing.

Remains of papers were found in a dumpster behind Gage Hall. Earlier in the day, around 2 p.m., a local fire department put out a blaze in that dumpster. Anchor staff members discovered the remains of the papers early yesterday evening.

Also, about one hundred newspapers were found a dumpster behind Donovan Dining Center.

On Tuesday, an Anchor Staff member found two bundles of papers, about 100 copies, inside a dumpster in the rear of Adams Library. This dumpster is about 500 feet from the dumpster where the fire took place on Wednesday.

Reprints of the issue were made early Thursday morning.

Any member of the college community who witnessed the removal of papers on Wednesday are asked to contact the Anchor Office at 456-8280 or the College Police Department at 456-8201.

Several bundles of papers were found in the dumpster behind Gage Hall, where a fire took place earlier in the day.
