FOREWORD

W HATEVER befalls us in the years ahead, may we never forget the enlightened days passed within these gates. With the revealing of Faith, life's map; the receiving of Knowledge, life's key; the finding of Charity, life's warmth we face forward, hearts aglow with Hope, life's light.

May these pages recall the inspiration and happiness we experienced each day that we traveled up the path from the open gate.

SENIORS

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

From the time the Class of 1950 entered Rhode Island College of Education, we were, to the faculty and upperclassmen, the same as any other class. To ourselves, we were the first who ever had had this experience.

We have participated in four Stunt Nights, and four Song Contests, but what class does not. We suffered hazing week, practice teaching at Henry Barnard School, and training in the schools throughout the State, but so have our predecessors. We held the Soph Hop, the Junior Prom, the Junior Class Banquet, Cap and Gown Dance, Commencement Ball, Senior Banquet, and our breaths, but that was not unusual.

We attended welcoming parties and teas, and, when it was our turn, we gave them; but the social calendar gave us no choice. Not only did we do what was expected of us, but we also distinguished ourselves in the process.

We were first noticed when we found the iron Anchor. The finding was not unique; the keeping was. We would not give it up until the rules governing it were changed. By means of able spokesmen, we brought the matter to Student Council and persuaded the school to revise the weak laws. The Anchor would no longer be hidden; consequently, it could be won only by hard work, not merely by chance.

To show the College we had the ability, we won Stunt Night. This victory was unusual, for, until we came along, it was a rare freshman class which did win. An added achievement of our Freshman year was winning Song Contest. With both these victories to our credit, the upperclassmen had to say, "You can't beat those Freshmen!"

Not another class can boast, as we can, about its Soph Hop. Maybe we did forget to turn on the heat, and maybe we did put too much wax on the floor, but the fun we had making the decorations, and the satisfaction we enjoyed in the finished product far overshadowed our mistakes.

When we were Juniors, Miss Lee realized how different the Class of 1950 was. She worried, she planned, she called her critics, she conferred with school superintendents. Finally she found a grade, a subject, a school, and a critic for every one of us.

The Senior year did not creep upon us. It flew. Rising to the situation, we planned early. The Loring photographer opened his studios on a Sunday afternoon in October.

It was not until January twenty-ninth, when the out-training Seniors received postcards announcing a "Welcome Back Breakfast", that the Seniors started functioning as a complete class once more. This breakfast marked the beginning of many wonderful days to come. It gave us the chance to get our bearings and to plan our last five months.

The faculty greeted and acknowledged us as Seniors at a tea early in February. This tea impressed upon us that we were in the profession and that we were just about ending our schooldays.

With these thoughts, we decided to make the most of our last days and immediately planned our Valentine Dance. Hearts invaded 102—paper hearts, open hearts, pledged hearts, and broken hearts; but, for this occasion, our hearts were young and gay.

Another party, but this time the Sophomores treated us. The annual St. Patrick's Day Party gave our younger brothers and sisters a chance to show us their talent.

Although Song Contest came along much too quickly, we put everything into this final competition. With capable chairmen, we could not help but impress the audience. We also impressed the judges favorably because first place was ours.

We were not wholly wrapped up in ourselves, for in April, we feted the Freshmen at an informal party. The happy-go-lucky Freshmen made us forget, for a day, our forthcoming separation.

Now every minute, every hour, every day pointed toward the big event. First came Cap and Gown Day. If we were not obviously Seniors after that day, it was our own fault. We spent too much time in the cafeteria and could not don the costumes in time for chapel.

Next came May Day which really belongs to the Seniors, for a Senior plans it, the queen is a Senior, and the members of the queen's court are Seniors. In true Senior fashion, we displayed our beauties for the world to see. A beautiful day, a beautiful affair, and beautiful girls—what more could we ask for?

The month of May came to a close with the Cap and Gown Dance which was highlighted by the Grand March traditionally carried out by capped and gowned Seniors. The Senior Tea for parents began Commencement Week activities. Our parents joined with us to celebrate the beginning of our dependence. Vesper Services followed which gave us the spiritual elevation we had lacked midst the glamor of graduation.

The only occasions connected with commencement that took place outside the portals of school were the Prom and the Banquet. These affairs, though purely social, made us realize that the value of college lies not only in the knowledge gained there, but also in the friendship made there. For that reason, our Prom and our Banquet were the most successful socials of our four years.

The Daisy Chain led us to Class Day—our history, our will, our ode, and our oration—our last tribute to college. Yes, our part was over and the morrow brought graduation. The graduation was ours, too, theoretically, but actually it was not. It was a gift presented to us by our God, our country, our state, our faculty and our parents. It belonged to them. They gave it to us. We have reaped the benefits of their generosity.

We realize now that we were not the best class R. I. C. E. has known, but we did our best. So, with much pride for what we have done, and with much humility for what we have not, we thus record our history.

—Emma Mitchell

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Seated—l. to r.—Raymond Lombardi, Treasurer, first and second semester; Maureen Gilligan, Vice President, first semester; Mary Farrelly, Secretary, first and second semester; Constance Mills, Vice President, second semester; Roger Vermeersch, Social Committee Chairman, first and second semester.

CLASS ODE

*O God Who hath endowed us with this trust,
Consume our hearts with Thy undaunted zeal,
Bestow upon us courage day by day
To lead Thy creatures in a righteous way,
For this, O God, we pray;
For this we pray.*

*Cast forth Thy light upon our darkened minds.
Within our hands, the gift of knowledge place
And grant what perseverance we might need
To walk amongst men planting wisdom's seed;
For this, O God, we plead;
For this we plead.*

*Instruct us in those virtues, wise and good,
That we may, by our lives, reflect Thy truth.
Help us destroy the face of evil's mask,
Teach us to love our daily, menial task;
For this, O God, we ask;
For this we ask.*

*Accept our plea, so clothed with pure desire,
Today we arm ourselves with new intent.
Enable us to see the chosen way,
Direct us should we ever go astray;
For this, O God, we pray;
For this we pray.*

Class Will

We, the class of 1950, Rhode Island College of Education, considering ourselves to be of unlimited intelligence and physical prowess, do hereby proffer this our last will and testament. We direct and bequeath the following:

To President Whipple—the knowledge that the class of 1950 will remain in his thoughts as the most unusual ever to leave R.I.C.E.

To Dr. Donovan—the fond hope that men will someday be permitted to take their proper place in the field of elementary education.

To Miss Lee—to save her vocal chords, a record convincing students that there are no openings in the secondary schools.

To Dean Connor—the hope that she will live long enough to see the profession given back to the women.

To our class advisers—the incoming class of 1954 with the belief that they cannot possibly produce the many and varied headaches caused by our group.

To the English Department—the hope that they will some day include a good grammar methods course in the English-Social curriculum.

To the Mathematics Department—a mechanical device which will help the poor, defenseless Freshmen pass their basic math course.

To the History Department—enough reference books so that everyone will be able to do his assignment the night before it is due.

To the Science Department—an invention which rivals the atomic bomb.

To the Psychology Department—one thousand copies of a textbook entitled, They Ought to be Spanked.

To the Public Speaking Department—an X-ray machine which will erase all imperfections from the speech of outgoing teachers.

To the Physical Education Department—educational rather than coeducational facilities. (N.B. We remember the time when we were Freshmen getting ready for the shower on the way down from the gym, and the boys for the next group were on their way up the stairs.)

To the Education Department—a medal for sartorial splendor.

To the Geography Department—student copies of all maps to save hours of labor.

To the Foreign Language Department—adios, and au revoir.

To the Sociology Department—some real slums to explore.

To the Music Department—a first-rate symphony orchestra to accompany all choir concerts.

To the Art Department—one, just one, Dali to keep up morale.

To the Political Science Department—a censor to check all lesson plans so that the professors in that department shall never be accused of being partisan.

To the Librarians—a soundproof building which will make the Library of Congress look small by comparison.

To the Medical Staff—a truckload of modern equipment to help them locate dread diseases in aspiring teachers.

To the Office Staff—a radar-operated communications system to help them locate students throughout the building.

To the next President of Council—a neon-lighted marquee outside the auditorium to make Forum a little more inviting.

To the Anchor—freedom of the press.

To the Ricoled—a trust fund so large that the only worry will be how to spend it all.

To the Choir—12 lovely voices to replace the ones it is losing.

To Kappa Delta Pi—our undying respect for being outstanding men and women.

To the I.R.C.—funds for a field trip to the United Nations.

To the Nature Club—a large, natural campus which will have trees and bugs aplenty.

To the Dramatic League—more acceptable plays with cutting unnecessary.

To the Charles Carroll Club—a house-keeper to keep the club rooms presentable for guests at all times and a few pinochle desks for the War Memorial room.

To Kappa Delta Phi—the wish that their meetings be as gay as ever.

To Sigma Rho—the seats so recently vacated by the Senior Class.

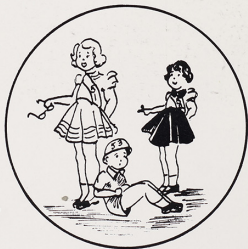

To the Underclassmen, we leave our originality in all undertakings, our professional attitude, and the knowledge that they will uphold the ideals of the college at all times.

Signed, Sealed, and Delivered
this 17th day of June, 1950

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

After a brief orientation period, the class of 1951 was ready to begin the journey of work and fun in September 1947. At the end of the hazing period; they settled down to the new routine before them.

By the end of the first quarter, they elected officers and organized a Stunt Night committee headed by Bob Hargreaves. The humor and originality of their skit brought them a well-deserved second place.

Led by Jean Mainelli, the Song Contest committee, including Betty Reardon, Marjorie Ward, Mary Lozito, Pat Duncan, Carolyn Magnatta, George Amato, and Edward Travers, again brought fame to this Freshman class by coming up with an alma mater and a cheer song that was second only to the Seniors. Because of the number of Anchor points received from Stunt Night, Song Contest, and attendance of school functions, the class was presented the iron Anchor on Class Day.

In September 1948, the members re-entered R. I. C. E. with the intention of keeping up the good work. Early in October, the class played host to the Freshmen at a party in 102.

A take-off on college life, the skit presented by the class for Stunt Night, won first place and the lead in Anchor points. In April, Ollie Anderson directed their Song Contest. In the spring, the class of '51 held its Sophomore Hop. Under the direction of Emily McCluskey, the dance climaxed the Sophomore year for the class.

After a restful summer, the Juniors returned to R. I. C. E. full of drive, knowing full well that only two years remained before they could grasp the coveted diploma. Immediately, half of the class began practice teaching at the Henry Barnard School. During the first week of college, the Junior Class was host to the new members of the school, the Freshmen. At this informal affair, each Junior met his Freshman brother or sister.

On Anchor Day, November 16, the Juniors, sporting emblems signifying their membership in the Anchor class proudly sang their class cheer song at forum. Walter Littlefield, a former member of the Junior Class, was presented a plaque and was awarded honorary membership in the class of 1951 at the Anchor Day exercises.

Under the able leadership of Helen Agronick and Robert Hargreaves, the Juniors presented their clever idea of "Women Are a Bother" in the Stunt Night contest. Apparently the girls in the cast were not a bother, for the stunt won second place. Later, the Juniors dug into their unique repertoire and sang their class cheer song and alma mater in the annual Song Contest.

With Stunt Night and Song Contest behind them, the energetic Juniors made plans for their formal dance, the Junior Prom. The success of this spring affair put the finishing touches to their school year's activities. And now, for the class of 1951, there remains only that final hurdle, the senior year, and then, graduation.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

On a clear day in September in 1948, when college was officially opened, the class of 1952 first entered R. I. C. E. Shortly after the members had become acquainted with the faculty, their classmates, and the school program, they elected the following class officers: President, Vartkis Kinoian; Vice-President, Margaret J. McKenna; Secretary, Janice M. Petit; Treasurer, Christine A. Emidy; Dorothy A. Amaral; Social Committee Chairman, Barbara A. Gusetti.

Under the leadership of David Craven, the class presented, for Stunt Night, its version of R. I. C. E. located in Dogpatch. The skit was complete with Li'l Abner, Daisy Mae, and even a schmoo.

After the midyear, the class elected Jane McKenna as Chairman of the Song Contest committee. The class chose well, for, under her direction, the Sophomores took second place in the annual contest. Their Freshman year had ended on a successful note.

When leaves were turning rust and yellow and drifting to the ground, an eager, proud, and purposeful class entered the portals of R. I. C. E. once more to resume studies. The Sophomores, teeming with ideas, were impatient to put them to work.

Because of the size of the class, a division into five groups was necessary, three for those studying in the elementary field, one for majors in Math-Science, and the other for those concentrating in English-Social Studies. However, the Sophomore class was still united.

In that month when proverbial winds howled and whistled, the Sophomores welcomed the Freshmen at a house party. "Papa" Kinoian and "Mama" Doyle met the guests at the door. Much to the delight of the Freshmen, Bert and Tallulah (Dick Stevens and Joseph Keefe) whooped it up in the "Apache Dance."

And just about the time when corn was being husked and turkeys gobbled no more, "La Soiree Bleue," the first semi-formal dance of the year, was sponsored by this precocious class. The members chose Joan Shea to reign as Queen at their exquisite Sophomore Hop, by far one of the most successful dances held at R. I. C. E.

Snow sheeted the ground, and the spirit of Christmas hung in the air when the Sophomores presented their interpretation of the "Roaring 20's" in the All-College Stunt Night contest. Although they failed to win the coveted Anchor points, they did a creditable job in the show, revealing some excellent talent.

With the coming of Spring, the lutings of birds had nothing on this group. They were prepared and anxious to sing their class cheer song and alma mater in Song Contest.

Another school year has ended. With that esprit de corps and vitality which characterizes the whole school, and notably their own class, the graduates of 1952 look forward to a more successful year in 1951.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

History may repeat itself, but the class of 1953 refuses to believe that any class can equal theirs. The largest class numerically, the Freshmen boast great athletes, alert and successful journalists, extremely talented musicians, skillful and pleasing exponents of the dramatic art, and yet they remain a most scholarly group of individuals.

Orientation day, September 9, found the Freshmen lost in a conglomeration of schedules, textbooks, and lists of regulations for hazing week. The unique numbering of the classrooms only added to the confusion of the completely bewildered, befuddled, and generally distressed Frosh. Manifesting a spirit of cooperation indicative of later efforts, a number of mathematicians collaborated and deciphered the lunch schedule. When this momentous task was completed, the class relaxed and agreed that college life might not be so harrassing after all.

Not even the earnest efforts of the Juniors could temper the enthusiasm of the newcomers. Hampered by irregularity of clothing, signs dangling from the neck, and pockets bulging with life-savers, they struggled, undaunted, up the stone steps each day to face upper class inquisition. Anticipating an end to their misery, the unsuspecting innocents hurried to the Juniors' party; a mock trial at which the Juniors dealt out "justice" to offenders soon banished all trace of affection for the sister class. Later, a quantity of fruit punch and dozens of cupcakes convinced the Freshies that the Juniors possessed some semblance of humanity.

The Freshman had just acclimated themselves to a routine of classes, classes, and more classes when they were informed that Stunt Night loomed ahead. Immediately, the Frosh plunged into a green trance replete with squabbles, headaches, laughter, work, and emerged triumphant with—a script! Hours of casting, rehearsals, and committee meetings ensued before the class considered it ready for production. Their fondest hopes were realized when the judges picked their skit for first place.

Soon after Stunt Night, the Freshies concluded that they liked each other and decided to give themselves a party. There, amid the litter of cake crumbs and crumpled paper cups, the preliminary plans for Song Contest were formulated. With customary zeal, they strove to repeat their excellent Stunt Night performance.

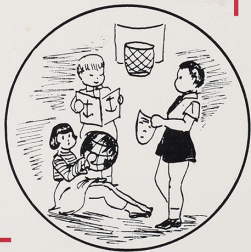

As winter lengthened into spring, the youngest class entered into all activities, teas, dances, plays, and athletic competition, with alacrity. Always they aimed at those things which lead to loyalty, unity, and progress.

The Freshmen have come a long way since that September day when, they claim, President Whipple met with the most powerful corps of prospective teachers that this institution has ever given the State. One might comment that the class of '53 might have no finer aim than to fulfill this claim. They intend to!

STUDENT COUNCIL

The executive power of the Student Cooperative Association of Rhode Island College of Education is vested in Student Council. This group meets once a week "to provide a suitable medium for communication and cooperation between the college authorities and the student body."

Once every three weeks, the president of Student Council, who is elected by the student body from the members of the Senior class, presides over Forum. Council is composed of the presidents of all classes, three additional representatives from each class, and three faculty representatives appointed by the president of the College. Thomas F. Lavery, Jr., is president this year.

The Winter Carnival, All-College dance sponsored by Student Council, was held on January 13th, under the capable direction of Sarah Kionoian, council vice president, who was elected All-College girl.

The vice-president of Student Council acts as social committee chairman for the College and organizer of the May Day program.

In its twenty-three years, the Anchor, the college newspaper, has grown in size and in scope.

Complete coverage of college activity, as well as publication of student opinion, has been the goal of the hard-working editorial board. Many important issues of student life are brought to the fore through the press. The Anchor policy is to see that all matters of college interest are reported, and to cooperate with Student Council in promoting the good neighbor policy between the faculty and the student body.

In 1949-1950, the Anchor has helped to bring about the abolition of the publication of the probation list, the synchronizing of the clocks, and the prompt returning of corrected examinations, all helping to boost the morale of the student body.

Along with good leadership, the Anchor has good representation of the student body. Seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen make up the staff.

Each year in order to ease the many difficulties which confront the students who enter R. I. C. E. for the first time, the Student Council publishes the College Handbook. In the Handbook are descriptions of the clubs and organizations, the customs and traditions, a list of rules and regulations, and both the academic and social calendars of the year. This booklet may be for Freshmen, but the upperclassmen could not get along without it.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The International Relations Club functions as an informal, but informative, campus organization. The members engage in amicable debate and in lively discussion of world affairs after which they sip punch and munch cookies.

Speakers prominent in the field of international relations attend teas sponsored by the I. R. C. Intercollegiate conferences constitute an important part of the club's program.

Attractive, instructive bulletin board displays attest that the group does not limit itself to conversation. In observance of United Nations Week, the members organized an information booth from which they distributed literature and answered questions about the U. N.

This year the I. R. C. joined the state organization, the Collegiate World Affairs Council, and during R. I. World Affairs Week, a member of the United Nations Department of Social Affairs spoke at assembly on "Education for Peace." The annual banquet on April 27th brought the season to a successful conclusion.

 4th row—G. Gallipeau, President 2nd; F. Steere, E. Reardon, M. Ward, J. Andrews, M. Michael, N. Eagleson, M. Loxito, J. McNanna, B. Dufresne, A. Sullivan, E. McCluskey, A. Vleno, J. May.
 5th row—T. McVay, A. Toole, J. Cavanaugh, C. Duggan, D. Kelly, D. Baldani, A. Lucey, M. Farrelly, Vice President 2nd; A. Hogan, M. Quilty, E. Riota, E. Sieler, N. Bloomer, M. Zajac.

Under the direction of Professor Grace D. Healey, the Dramatic League took to the road this year. In addition to the regular College presentation, "The Wedding" and "Gold in the Hills" were presented at the Veteran's Hospital, State Sanatorium at Wallum Lake, and the Newport Naval Hospital. The problems faced by a road company are many. The success with which these problems were overcome was manifest by the many letters of congratulations and appreciation received from the patients in these institutions.

After its road trip, the Dramatic League presented the hilarious comedy "Life with Mother" in February, and, with the cooperation of the Senior class, the Senior Play in May. The Dramatic League and Choir cooperated to make successful the production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "H. M. S. Pinafore" in May, also.

According to Miss Healey, the success of each play lies in the cooperation among directors, actors, and stagehands. In each play presented this year, this cooperation was at all times evident, for many were the curtain calls for both the director and artists.

KAPPA DELTA PI

Barbara Einarsson, Joan Taylor, Secretary; Fred Carello, Vice President; John May, Mildred Dambruch, President; Frances-Anne Doyle, Social Committee Chairman; Emma Mitchell, Historian-Recorder; Harold Merritt, Thomas Lavery, Treasurer.

Priding themselves on being interested in all phases of education, members of the Epsilon Rho Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, the national honor society in education, began their busy season. The first meeting was devoted to slides, a motion picture, and commentaries on Italy by Miss Mathilda Liberati, guest lecturer. In November, at a special meeting, Miss Helen Scott was initiated as an honorary member of Epsilon Rho in recognition of her service in the field of education.

The highlight of the Kadelphian year was the Christmas dance. The College reception room was the scene of the Kappa "Sno-ball."

The beautifully decorated Christmas tree, white snowflakes, the dreamy music of Tommy Masso's orchestra, and swirling skirts added to the occasion. The star on the Christmas tree was matched by the stars in the girls' eyes when reminiscing about the Kappa "Sno-ball."

In the early spring, the Kadelphians were joined by new members who had met the necessary requirements of the National chapter. These initiates next year will be the veterans, taking the place of the seniors who have left for the classrooms of the state filled with the zeal of promoting the educational aims of Kappa Delta Pi.

COLLEGE CHOIR

 At the piano, Rita Bicho. Directing—Prof. Gertrude E. McGunigle.

The Rhode Island College of Education Choir began its 1950-1951 season by giving the student body a sneak preview, at a chapel exercise, of the program to be presented at Teachers' Institute in the Metropolitan Theater, October 29, 1949. The next official appearance of the year was the entertainment of the visiting students at the convention held at R. I. C. E.

The Christmas season found the Choir enthusiastic and very busy. With the help of some very talented Freshmen and the always-ready support of upper class members, the Choir prepared a collection of new and old carols for its annual Christmas Concert. In addition to the college concert, the Choir went on the road bringing Christmas cheer to the Veterans' Hospital in Providence, and singing in front of the City Hall.

The next semester found Choir members preparing for the Spring Concert, the highlight of the year. Choir deviated from the traditional concert repertoire of songs this year to join with the Dramatic League in the production of an operetta, "H. M. S. Pinafore." This new venture met with great success.

The reorganization of the W. A. A. took place before College opened in September. Letters were sent to active members of the club, as well as to the incoming Freshmen, disclosing the events of the coming year.

Because of this advance buildup, a good representation from all classes was evident at the first meeting. For this group, many varied activities were planned. A bowling league was organized for the first time. The regular soccer season came to a successful conclusion with competition among classes for the mythical championship.

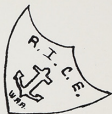

Forgetting athletics for a while, the W. A. A. sponsored a drive to supply food baskets for the needy at Thanksgiving time. Bicycle trips were taken during the numerous holidays. Shortly before Christmas, all girls were given an opportunity to brush up on their swimming at the Plantations Club.

Before the opening of the second semester, a number of winter sports enthusiasts spent three days in Northfield, Massachusetts, at a ski hostel. Their beaming, healthy faces were sufficient proof of their exhilarating trip.

The basketball season again brought about the class competition which proved of interest to the entire College. Adherents of golf, horseback riding, and tennis had their opportunity to pursue their favorite pastime.

Thus the year went by with an abundance of good, wholesome exercise for all who were interested. As in previous years, the Womens Athletic Association has proved to be a symbol of gay times and good physical activities.

"Greet your partner with a do-si-do." Bursting with fun and activity, members of the Nature Club began their busy season with a party for the Freshmen, featuring square dancing in the gymnasium. Armed with bursting energy, fortified by sizzling hot dogs, the group danced away the afternoon.

The next event was a motion picture on forest fires, how they are born and how to combat them. This activity, sponsored in connection with Fire Prevention Week, informed all nature lovers of the disasters caused by thoughtless people.

Perhaps the picture of forests motivated the nature clubbers to explore the great outdoors, for a hike to Skeleton Valley was their next venture. Clad in dungarees, this group of naturalists found many interesting birds and trees to captivate their attention. The climax of the first semester activities was the annual Christmas party held in Room 102.

The new year found the nature clubbers star gazing at the Brown Conservatory. Dr. Smiley's gracious invitation was gratefully accepted and everyone enjoyed the informative talks. Yes, the 1949-1950 season was a most successful one for the Nature Club.

KAPPA DELTA PHI

Epsilon Chapter, Kappa Delta Phi, had to spend its infancy and the greater part of its adolescence in comparative dormancy. This condition existed from 1928 until 1946, not through any desire on the part of the Greek letter men of Rhode Island College of Education, but because of circumstances over which they had no control. Hazing week of 1948 brought the Kadelphians to the fore. The first step was taken; the fraternity had made its bid for recognition and it was accepted by one and all as a living, working member of the organized clubs of the College.

In December of 1949, instead of following the party precedent established in 1948, the brothers of Kappa Delta Phi sponsored a drive to supply needy families from the neighborhood surrounding the College with a sumptuous Christmas dinner. It was felt that toys for youngsters, although very desirable, could be put aside this year in favor of the dinners. To say that venture met with the approval of the faculty and student body would be a gross understatement.

Throughout the academic year, the brothers of Kappa Delta Phi have showed that they are more than anxious to fulfill their pledges of supporting and furthering all activities at the Rhode Island College of Education. A look at the roster of the various clubs and organizations in the College will be conclusive proof that Kadelphians are most willing to do as much as they possibly can to help assure a successful extra-curricular program in the College.

CHARLES CARROLL CLUB

In 1934, a men's club movement was introduced through the efforts of Professor C. O. Ethier. The men of the college, seven in number at that time, made up the nucleus which started the tradition that all male students at R. I. C. E. belong to this social body. The new organization was named the Horace Mann Club, at first, in honor of one of the pioneers in United States Education.

In 1936, the title was changed to the Charles Carroll Club to honor a distinguished R. I. C. E. faculty member with an outstanding record in the field of education in Rhode Island. Since its inception, the objectives of the club have been to foster friendliness, good will, and to reflect an attitude worthy of the teaching profession.

Throughout World War II, the few men who attended R. I. C. E. carried on the tradition. Since the end of the war, the influx of men has made the Charles Carroll Club the largest organization in the history of the college. For this reason, a second room, dedicated to the memory of Rhode Island College of Education war-dead, was opened this year for the use of the men as a study hall. A mural, depicting Progress, was painted by Adrien Du-Pont, a member of the class of 1950.

As in the past, the Club held the first dance of the school year in October, 1949. Later, club members held an open house and an all-college supper, proceeds from which went toward furnishing the new room.

In 1946, the Men's Athletic Association began to rebuild its program for intercollegiate competition. The process has been slow because of numerous barriers that hamper a college of our size. Mr. Brown joined the faculty in 1947 and took over the coaching of the various athletic teams. Since then, he has brought about many changes in the sports' program at R. I. C. E.

In 1948, a soccer team represented our college among the top flight soccer clubs in the East. The basketball team played a twenty game schedule, facing a number of traditional, outstanding hoop contestants throughout the New England area. Our track team participated in the annual New England Track Conference meet with promising results. Informal baseball was next on the list of spring activities, and an informal College nine became more than just a threat to its opponents.

The soccer schedule was even more exacting in 1949, and our boys showed their spirit even though they played against veteran squads. The basketball team gave the students more to cheer about as they began to click after their impressive win over Salem. Spring again brought out the track and baseball enthusiasts who showed marked improvement over their 1948 accomplishments.

Mr. Brown has proved to the school that numbers are unimportant. Spirit can win a game, but the spirit must come from, not only the small group of boys representing the school, but also, the entire student body. Our athletic teams have the spirit!

September — Frosh Initiation Week

No one needed a score card to tell the difference between a freshman and a member of the upper classes during the first week of the fall semester. Each Freshman wore a blue cap with the white numerals '53 in the middle of the front. The sale of lifesavers must have increased 100% that week, for every Freshman was required to have a supply on hand. Wearing their trouser legs rolled up, the fellows exposed unmatched socks. With their names on a card hung around their necks, and their books tied on a rope, the Freshmen truly looked like youngsters on their way to grammar school.

On Tuesday, they were welcomed at a tea by the International Relations Club. Wednesday, Dr. Whipple officially greeted them at assembly. Their hazing period came to an end at the Junior-Freshman party. By Friday, the Freshmen surviving had returned to their regular attire and had settled down to the business of normal college students.

December — Stunt Week

Stunt Night is a special night when students of each class are given the opportunity to reveal their talent, ingenuity, and capacity by writing and producing an original skit. With their presentation of a humorous and novel interpretation of the nursery rhymes, the Freshmen, under the chairmanship of John Beverly, won first place in the annual Stunt Night contest held December 2nd. The Juniors attained second place with their clever skit entitled "Woman Are a Bother."

A new feature added to Stunt Night this year was the RICOLED'S sponsorship. The RICOLED was successful in enforcing present rulings for Stunt Night and in using dead time between stunts. The staff's main attempt was to make it an all-college affair, not merely that of four different classes.

March – Song Contest

Song Contest, sponsored by the Student Council, allows each class to render its version of a cheer song and alma mater song. Mystery envelopes the college as classes work on their special presentations.

This year, the finished products were sung before the faculty, students, and relatives on March 24. Three state music supervisors acted as judges. The Seniors, who had won the contest as Freshmen, were again victorious, the Freshmen taking second place.

Besides gaining Anchor points, the Senior class had its numerals inscribed on the gleaming silver sup on display at the rear of the library.

May – Cap and Gown Day

Not the blare of trumpets, nor the roll of drums, but impressive Cap and Gown ceremonies heralded the approach of graduation. Observing a traditional ritual, each Senior wore his academic robe and marched in solemn procession to the auditorium for investiture. At the conclusion of the exercises, the class assumed all the rights befitting its rank.

Later, at the Cap and Gown Dance, the Seniors again donned their robes to join in the singing of their Alma Mater. After, they whirled and dipped merrily to the strains of the Senior waltz.

Although merely a preview of what the well-dressed graduate will wear, Cap and Gown ceremonies will be cherished by Seniors as an indelible portion of their last year at R. I. C. E.

June – Commencement Week

Solemn Vesper Service, held on Sunday, June 11, opened the final week for the Seniors. Formal and informal get-togethers were scheduled for the remainder of the week. On Tuesday evening, the class enjoyed its Banquet and Ball at the Wannamoisett Country Club. Final informal event of the year was the class picnic. The reading of the class history, will, and ode, the class day and ivy orations, as well as speeches by the President of the Senior Class and President of Student Council highlighted the annual Class Day program on Friday, June 16th. The long-awaited day of commencement climaxed all affairs on June 17, and another group of teachers were ready to "take up the task eternal."

May — May Day

Each year May Day is celebrated by the crowning of a queen chosen for her beauty from members of the Senior class. On May 16, Miss Sheila Rourke was crowned May Queen for the year 1950.

The traditional procession slowly descended the Senior steps to the campus where Miss Rourke and her court were greeted by a lively repertoire of dances. These dances, performed by students from every class, represented the past and the present—minuet and jitterbug, folk and aesthetic, Russian Ballet and creative dancing.

The beauty of the queen on her throne surrounded by her majestic court, the excellent performances, and the gay, brilliant costumes of the dancers attracted a greater number of passersby than usual. Upon the completion of the entertainment, the queen led her court up the steps, and another delightful May Day came to a successful conclusion.
