Safety for the spring

by William A. Dorry IV
Staff Writer

The new semester is upon us and now is a perfect time to talk about personal safety. "...The most important thing is that it is no particular department responsible for safety, it is everyone's business. In a community everyone needs to help," Cyrill Cote, Director of Security at Rhode Island College, told the Anchor. While the Campus Police are here to protect students, Director Cote explained, students who want tips on safety for the new semester should check out the RIC Security web site that can be accessed by going to www.ric.edu.

The web site features online forms for students to fill out, including fire inspection and safety talk forms in order to report hazards. There are also safety facts, tips on personal security and information on loans, credit cards, and service contracts.

The web site also offers a link to an interactive site where you can evaluate your chances of being raped or murdered. After a visitor answers a battery of questions, the computer gives you a score and offers advice on how students can better protect themselves. Here are just a few of the security tips one can find on the web site.

How to Protect Yourself While Walking at Night

- *Avoid walking or running alone at night. Instead, go walking or jogging with a friend.
- *Don't use headphones while walking, driving, or jogging.
- *Always walk in well-lighted areas.

*Avoid the use of short cuts.
*After dark, keep away from large bushes or doorways where someone could be lurking.

*Always stay near the curb.
*If someone in a vehicle stops and asks for directions, answer from a distance. Do not approach the vehicle.

*If followed, go immediately to an area with lights and people. If needed, turn around and walk in the opposite direction. Your follower will also have to reverse directions.

*Do not display cash openly, especially when leaving an ATM.

How To Protect Yourself While Using An Automated Teller Machine (ATM)

*Try to avoid using an ATM by yourself. Either take someone with you or only use an ATM when others are around.

*If possible, avoid using an ATM after dark. If you must, choose one that is well lighted and does not have tall bushes nearby.

*When you arrive at an ATM, look around. If you see anything that makes you uncomfortable or anyone who looks suspicious, do not stop. Either use an ATM at a different location or come back later. Notify the authorities.

*Have your access card and any other documents you need ready when you approach an ATM. While you are fumbling with a wallet or purse, you are easy game for a thief.

*If someone else is using the ATM when you arrive, avoid standing right behind them. Give them enough space to conduct their transaction in privacy.

*Even while using the ATM, stay alert to your surroundings. Look up and around every few seconds while transacting your business.

*Protect your Personal Identification Number (PIN). Do not enter your PIN if anyone else can see the screen. Shield your PIN from onlookers by using your body.

*When your transaction is finished, be sure you have your card and your receipt, then leave immediately. Avoid counting or otherwise displaying large amounts of cash.

*As you leave, keep a look out. Be alert for anything or anyone who appears suspicious. If you think you are being followed, go to an area with a lot of people and call the police.

How to Prevent Motor Vehicle Theft

*When you park your car, close the windows, lock the doors and take the key with you.

*If you must leave a key with a parking attendant, leave only your vehicle's ignition key.

*Install and use anti-theft devices, whether an alarm or a protective device like a club or a collar. Be sure to activate the device every time you leave your vehicle.

*Park only in well-lighted areas near other vehicles.

*Keep valuables out of sight, preferably locked away in the trunk.

*Don't hide a spare key in a magnetic key box; thieves know all the hiding places.

*At home, if possible, put your car away in a locked garage, or at least parked in the driveway.

*If you have two cars and one of them is easy to break into, then park it in your driveway so it's blocked by the other car.

*When you park your car, turn the front wheels to the left or right and put the emergency brake on. This locks the wheels, making it difficult for a thief to tow your car.

College celebrates the life of professor

by Daniel Aznavorian
Anchor Editor

Students, faculty, and members of the RIC community gathered on Wednesday, January 26 to celebrate the life of professor Robert J. Salhany. The 64-year old mathematics professor suffered a fatal heart attack in his home on December 23. The ceremony was held in the faculty/staff Dining Room.

"...despite all of the pain, we went dancing, and he's still dancing."

Highlights of Dr. Salhany's career were noted in a commemorative program: "He helped build the mathematics curriculum and, over the years, he taught everything from freshman-level algebra to graduate-level probability courses. In 1973, he was the first to become chair by being nominated by the department. The college honored him with the Maixner Award for Outstanding Teaching in 1988, and the Rhode Island College Alumni Faculty Award in 1994."

The ceremony was presided over by Professor Barry Schiller and featured numerous guest speakers including Dr. Carolyn Fleuhr-Lobban, professor of Anthropology, Dr. Helen Salzberg, professor of Mathematics, and Salhany's son Stephen. Stephen was also presented with a certificate of condolences from the Rhode Island State House of Representatives. The service also included a musical selection, a piece for flute by C.P.E. Bach performed by Michael Gordon, one of Salhany's students.

Many stories of Salhany's varied interests in mathematics, photography, golf, and Greek/Roman mythology were exchanged. The atmosphere was celebratory as colleagues and students reminisced about his life and quirks, and tearful as they said goodbye to a friend.

"He was a Christmas Tree Shop addict," Ms. Mary McNulty observed. Ms. McNulty is the chair of the Math department at East Greenwich High School. "This man would spend hours at the Christmas Tree Shop, and he always bought a little trinket, with a picture, to give to someone."

A sufferer of chronic back pain, many remembered a man able to put his own troubles aside to help others. "And imagine," McNulty added, "despite all of the pain, we went dancing, and he's still dancing."

Rhode Island College to offer Master of Professional Accountancy Degree

Board of Governors for Higher Education approves new degree at Dec. 16 meeting

The Center for Management & Technology at Rhode Island College will offer a master in public accountancy (MPAc) degree in the fall 200 semester, after receiving final approval from the Board of Governors of Higher Education at its Dec. 16 meeting.

The new degree is designed to provide the additional breadth and depth of material necessary to meet the new state requirements for eligibility to sit for the certified public accountant (CPA) exam.

"This advanced degree is aimed at providing a comprehensive education to Rhode Islanders pursuing a professional career in accounting or interested in expanding their knowledge and expertise and obtaining the CPA qualification," said James A. Schweikart, director of RIC's Center for Management & Technology. Students may concentrate on computer information systems or personal finance planning.

"The programs reflect the changing needs and complexity of the accounting profession in Rhode Island and beyond. Rhode Island College will likely be the first in the state to offer this advanced degree and the only institution in Rhode Island to offer it at in-state tuition rates next fall," Schweikart said.

For more information or to apply for the master of public accountancy program at RIC, contact the Dean of the Graduate School, James D. Turley at 401-456-8041 or write to the Graduate School, Rhode Island College, 600 Mt. Pleasant Avenue, Providence, RI 02908.

RIC celebrates African American History Month

by Kimberly LeClair
Staff Writer

Each February brings the national observance of African-American History Month. The theme for RIC's celebration this year is Practice the Dream. Events surrounding African-American History Month are designed to enhance awareness as well as celebrate the history and experience of African-Americans. Jay Latimer, Director of the Unity Center, explained to the Anchor that "...the knowledge you will get from these events will provide you with more power. African-Americans are providing opportunities that are familiar to them; they are saying 'Let's practice now what we want for the future.'"

The events will begin with an opening presentation and reception on February 1st, from 12:30 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. at the Unity Center, located on the lower level of Donovan Dining Center. The opening presentation will address the continuing struggle to realize the African dream of equal rights and how we can practice it in our daily lives. On February 9th and 10th at 9:30 a.m., Ms. Fennessy's fifth grade class from Henry Barnard school will be holding a performance called Hold Fast to Dreams by African-American writer and poet Langston Hughes. ## Rhode Island College offers free program to help those who can't stop thinking about food and weight

"For some of us, the battle to attain a certain shape or size becomes an obsession," says RIC Dietitian Carol Mier. "The focus on food, dieting, and exercise goes way beyond what is normal or healthy and leads to dangerous health effects and psychological pain. But there are ways to call a truce."

Helping people gain control of this internal battle is the motivation for RIC's participation in the National Eating Disorder's Screening Program, a national outreach taking place February 16 throughout the country. RIC is offering free, anonymous education and screenings for eating disorders on Wednesday February 16 from 10am to 2pm in the Faculty Center. Students will be able to take a self-test for eating disorders, watch an educational video, and talk one-on-one to a psychologist, nurse, or dietitian. Referrals to treatment and support services can be made as needed.

The schedule will include:
10am-2pm ...Displays, Information, and Video clips in Donovan Dining Center

10-11:30am ...Eating Disorder Screening in the Faculty Center South Dining Room and Dietitian's office

12-2:00pm ... Videos shown in the Faculty Center South Dining Room

Eating disorders include anorexia nervosa, bulimia nervosa, and binge eating disorder. All are evident on college campuses, and can result in serious health problems including cardiac abnormalities, osteoporosis, digestive, and intestinal problems. The psychological characteristics vary, but generally involve poor self-esteem, isolation from family and friends, and disturbances in the way the person sees his or her body. Please consider educating yourself about this increasingly prevalent disorder.

More parking issues

I sit in my car and look at the dashboard clock, realizing that I have been searching the campus

Letter to the Editor

for a parking spot for almost 25 minutes. I have less than ten minutes to get myself to class. I squeeze into a spot with my car's front end sticking inches out in front of a sign claiming "No Parking." I run to class, praying I won't find a ticket when I return. I sit through my class, only half listening because I am worried about the ticket I know I can't afford. As I run back to my car after class, I notice something on my windshield. My pulse quickens only to discover that it is only a warning: "This could have been a $40 fine." A sigh of relief sweeps over me, quickly turning into a feeling of complete aggravation? "Where else do they expect us to park?" I wonder.

In the October 19th issue of The Anchor, staff writer William Dorry, wrote his own article about the continuing problem of parking on campus. I agree that "the situation is getting worse." The parking issue here on campus is something that everyone can relate to. A faculty member told me not too long ago that "there is plenty of parking up at the old Recreation Center." On a perfect day in a perfect world, I am sure few students would object to parking up there. However, reality rears its ugly head - the parking facilities are not at all convenient. Especially on days when we have typical New England winter weather of 20 degrees with a wind chill factor of minus 15, when it's snowing, or when it's pouring out.

Now I come to the part of this letter where, instead of burying my head in the sand and complaining about the parking situation, I will offer some solutions to the problem. As Dorry said in October, "administration needs to take some positive steps toward dealing with the situation." Here are some possible steps:

#1-Since there is so much parking available at the Recreation Center, why not encourage students to park there by offering a shuttle bus? Providing transportation from the Recreation Center parking lot to someplace like the SU Loop would enhance the usability of that parking facility.

#2-Carpool! Here's an incentive for you: What if there were preferred parking lots for students who drove in with 2 or more students in the car? Security would be there to monitor the use of those designated parking areas, checking for proper parking stickers, and making sure that no one takes advantage. "H.O.P." otherwise known as "High Occupancy Parking."

#3-In addition, students who are willing to carpool would be identified through the computer during registration. You could be matched with other students from your area who have similar class start and finish times. This would enable you to use those preferred parking lots (if that idea is put into effect) or will be one less car you have to worry about taking up another precious parking spot since you will be sharing a car with someone else.

I am offering these ideas to the faculty and student body members here at Rhode Island College as possible solutions to a problem that impacts everyone. I hope these suggestions will be looked at seriously and carefully considered.

The Story of KAOS ... by Web Larkin

A Group of heroes; Lock, Seph, Vorn and Rowin, has embarked on a journey to bring Kaos to a chaotic universe. They start their sojourn on Planet Amana.

Rowin is sent to a warehouse owned by Corporate tryant, Caesar Antivol, to retrieve a package. After bringing it on board his ship, Rowin has Lock analyze the disc contained within the package and copy it, as well as the map that accompanied the disc. Rowin delivers the package to Caesar, but not without being threatened by Caesar.

Having received his pay,

Rowin returns to his ship and starts to leave when Vorn, captain of the Zar Police force, and friend of Rowin, asks to meet them at an all night bar. They discuss the incident at the warehouse with Rowin and one of Caesar's goons, Scab. Lock informs them of the contents of the disc, namely a tale of a legendary metal. However, one person who overhears the conversation, does not like them discussing this subject. This man is Sabre. As he is going to interrupt their conversation, robotic policemen called Zarcops, budge in and a battle ensues. Sabre is nearly killed, and the group barely escapes arrest.

Inside their ship, Lock treats Sabre's wounds while Rowin starts to leave the planet. After a while, Sabre awakens and tells his new friends to head for his home planet, Myawan, a planet of half-man half-cat beings. After landing, they receive an inhospitable welcome from Sabre's tribesmen. After a few minutes the group arrives at Felinus village where Sabre greets old friends and asks to speak to Coball. Coball is the wisest of the tribe and has knowledge about the metal that Rowin and Caesar want.

Coball tells Sabre that when humans first started to explore deep space they found a planet that could be inhabited with a little work. On that planet they found an ore that had never been discovered or documented before in history. This ore had the ability to absorb energy and rechannel it. The humans mined it and eventually turned into a cannon, with immense power and invulnerability.

He also tells Sabre that the history of the metal is also linked to the first genetically engineered being. He was half-man half-reptile who was used as a slave. His name was Adder. In 2071, fifty-four years after his birth, Adder led his species in a revolt against their human creators and stole a huge ship and the cannon. He returned to attack and conquer the humans in 2151.

Coball's discussion is interrupted by Seph. A sensor probe that they left far in space has indicated that a legion of Caesar's Zarcops is coming to intercept and destroy them. They have been sent by Caesar. The group leaves Myawan, and a few hours later, set a trap for the legion of Zarcops. Then with help from Zak, an old time ally of Rowin's, they decimate half of the legion and send the rest fleeing home.

They head to an unknown planet to talk with Serard, and friend of Coball and a scientist who knows about the metal. After meeting, he tells them the rest of the story where Coball left off. It is revealed that after the humans defeated Adder when he attacked in 2151, they dismantled the cannon, turned it into liquid and hid it on five planets. Eventually all of the metal was moved to one of the five planets. That planet is Myawan.

They return to Myawan to remove the metal, called Larconium, before Caesar gets his hands on it.

Back on Planet Amana, Caesar implements his backup plan after learning of the failure of his Zarcops. He has his secret band of mercenaries, called BICs or Bion-organic Inmate Outcasts to track down Rowin and company and get rid of them. And now this week's KAOS...

Last semester on The ODDBALLS...

Breeze, Ink, Squidge, Gino and Cubix tried to take a vacation in a city called Party Town.

However, their plans were interrupted by a mad man named Azor, who sent his cyborg thug, Magrille to subdue our heroes. The battle seemed to favor the bad guys, but the Oddballs prevailed. Unfortunately, their victory was short lived when Azor showed up and nearly wiped out the entire group.

Breeze was awakened by one of Azor's captives, Liz. He was released and saved his teammates just in time.

ACID AC

The group chased after Azor, but only Breeze confronted him. After releasing Liz's sister, Katherine, Azor and Breeze began the battle. Breeze won and found out that Azor was a long lost friend.

After making amends the two emerged to celebrate their truce. The group, which now had two more members, left in their new car and headed to a coffee shop to enjoy some R&R. Tune in next week for the start of a new adventure in The ODDBALLS. SUPER-CLARENCE and The Rock will be recapped as well.

Joe Manzello: One of RIC's top young wrestlers

by Kristen DiChiaro
Staff Contributor

Hard work and dedication are two key elements to an athlete's success. For Rhode Island College's Joe Manzello, both come naturally to him in the sport of wrestling. "I love wrestling. The one on one competition is great and I love the challenge of it. I work really hard and I'm always looking to improve."

The beginning of a new millennium also marks the beginning of a new era for RIC's wrestling program, which has struggled in recent years. New Head Coach Jay Jones, a contributor to four straight New England College Conference Wrestling Association (NEC-CWA) Championships from 1988-92 as an undergraduate at RIC, is dedicated to building one of the top programs in the region.

With a new coaching staff and several new wrestlers, Manzello is excited about the season. "The team's atmosphere is very energetic this year. Everyone is working hard and is really enthused. There's just a great, positive overall feeling on the team."

RIC is currently 2-6 overall, 1-3 in the NECCWA and 1-1 in the Pilgrim Wrestling League, despite playing one of the toughest schedules in New England. Coach Jones feels that Manzello is part of the team's foundations to building a competitive program. "Joe is one of the toughest kids we have in the wrestling room. He's been banged up a little with an injured ankle, but he continues to work through the pain to be the best he can be."

rently 7-7 in 14 matches at 149 pounds. He placed fifth overall in the 149-pound weight class at the Hunter College Invitational on Jan. 8. He earned a big 3-1 win over Nate Gorman from Bridgewater State College, one of the top-ranked wrestlers in New England, on Jan. 12. Manzello has 13 takedowns, four reversals, five near-falls and one win by fall this season.

"This year has been a drastic improvement for the team," says the 5'6" Manzello. "Last year, we didn't have many guys on the team and we suffered a lot of injuries so it was a difficult season."

The Anchormen were 0-13 last season, placing 14th at the NEC-CWA Championships, which were hosted by RIC. Manzello hopes to be a finalist at the championships this year, which are being hosted by Western New England College on Feb. 19 and 20.

As a freshman in 1998-99, Manzello finished the season with an 8-17 record in at 165 pounds. He had 20 takedowns, 12 reversals and team-high 27 escapes for the year.

Before coming to RIC in '98, Manzello spent a year at Arizona State University. Manzello is a 1997 graduate of Leominster High School where he enjoyed a terrific wrestling career. He placed second in the state championships as a senior in 1997 and was a two-time All-American in Greco-Roman style wrestling.

Manzello says the main difference between the normal style of wrestling and Greco-Roman wrestling is that there is no touching allowed below the waist and the main goal is to expose the opponent's back to the mat. Manzello was first introduced to the Greco-Roman style by his assistant wrestling coach at Leominster High.

Manzello is a business administration major and hopes to teach business at the college level after graduation.
