A Student Reacts to Guns on Campus

by Jacquelyn Cappeli

Dear Mister Dorry. I am writing to voice my opinion regarding the recent debate over whether or not campus police at Rhode Island's three college campuses should carry firearms. I feel this is an extreme measure to a non-extreme problem. The current role of campus police includes things like parking tickets and warnings to col-lege residents for alcohol violations, which, do not get me wrong, is a very important role. The inci-dence of violent crimes, however, is low, while the incidence of nonviolent infractions of the rules is common place.

We, as a community, should be trying to move away from viobe trying to move away from vio-lence, rather than trying to in-crease the number of weapons on college campuses. The role of the campus police is as it should be. There are city and state police of-ficers that are trained to handle firearms and can and should be called whan paeded Latin acc called when needed. Let us, as a community of college students, move toward decreasing weapons and violence, rather than giving up on nonviolence as a remedy.

UNDELIVERED MAIL FOUND IN DUMPSTER

by Christopher Moore and William A. Dorry IV Anchor Staff

On Jan. 22. an anonymous physical plant employee brought to The Anchor's attention that several pieces of campus mail were being discarded in the dumpsters behind the Henry Barnard School. The employee stated that this type of action had been occurring for "over a year." "[There is] no policy on throwing out mail on campus," stated Dr. Lenore DeLucia, Vice President, Administration and Fi-nance, in response to this information. After investigating the situa-tion Cyrille Cote, Director of Security and Safety, stated, "They [Office Services; located on the basement level of Craig-Lee Hall] just throwing out duplicate are mail

The Anchor contacted Ken-neth Coulbourn, Director Office Services for the mailroom's policy on discarding duplicate mail. Coulbourn stated, "The mailroom thought they were doing people a favor." Departments had been complaining about the volume of third class mail delivered and requested that the mailroom take ac-tion. Mailroom employees then began throwing out duplicate mail, according to Coulbourn. He also stated that in a meeting between he and Dr. James Corneli-son, Assistant Vice President for Administration and Finance, they were searching for several solu-tions to this problem. One such so-lution included sending out a letter to individuals on campus ask-ing them if they wanted their du-plicate mail delivered. An official resolution to this problem is expected sometime next week, ac cording to both Cornelison and Coulbourn.

Dr. Richard Feldstein, a member of the English department at RIC, is one of the most well known and talked about professors among Eng-lish majors on this campus.

Feldstein, whose love for knowl-edge encourages him to teach, re-ceived his Doctoral degree in Mod-em American Literature at SUNY Buffalo, and has been teaching at RIC for about twelve years. His main purpose for being a professor is to try to empower students and teach them concepts that will help them "to bet-ter think for themselves."

For Feldstein, it's important that and his colleagues from the English department work together, creatcontinued on page 5

One Year Strong, One Year Too Long

by Cliff Rebelo Anchor Editor

One year ago this week. I created the headache many people know as Cliff's Corner. This past year, I've offended more people than the Reverend Jesse Jackson has with his illegitimate child. Still, I've also managed to do some good through this little corner I occupy. The heat on the first floor in Alger and recently. I helped one suite in Browne receive the couch they had been longing for. So, no matter how you feel about me, I'm here to Now, what better way to celebrate this occasion than with a look back at my favorite Cliff's Corner? Here at Rhode Island College there is little reason to re-main uninvolved because there are several student organizations one can join. One such worthwhile group to check out is the Asian Student Association (ASA). The ASA wel-comes everyone of all races to come by and check out the organization. It's for anyone who wants to make friends and engage in stimulating activities while also consider-ing deeper issues like bigotry and stereotypes

The ASA, which meets at 12:30 p.m. in room 206 in the Stu-ASA group members room 206 in the Stu-dent Union, is a stu-dent group that is very active on cam-pus. For example, last semester the ASA participated in Shacktown 2000 (along with a handful of other student organizations), the Habitat for Humanity event which took place on the quad in order to, among other quad in order to, among other things, raise money for building supplies for housing for the dis-advantaged. Through their fundraising efforts, the students of the ASA collected over $200 for the cause, while having a fun time doing a good deed for the community. Actually, the ASA's cardboard structure measuring roughly 10'X 6'X 5' (That's 300 course fact) square feet!), was the largest structure on the quad that day.

One young woman in the ASA referred to it as a "mansion." Another thing that the ASA did last semester was to collect toys for underprivileged children. Several sacks of toys were collected in the drive and there is no doubt that their work brought happiness to many tots multifaceted existence; the ASA also throws parties and many other events. Early last December, the ASA organized a culture show with an 'Our Corner of the World' theme where they had an Asian clothing fashion show and other cultural exhi-bitions. Also, in the ASA office there are ASA office there are several awards adorn-ing the wall; these awards were won by the ASA for certain culinary achievements.

This semester sev-eral of the ASA stu-dents are going to the E.C.A.S.U. (East E.C.A.S.U. (East Coast Asian Students United) convention in New York, where there will be workshops and forums. Also, on Feb. 16 in the Student Union Raltroom there Union Ballroom there will be yet another party hosted by the ASA with an energetic DI!

In April at RIC-keep on the bok out for Asian week, during which there will be a different Asian related theme each day; for example, 'Origami day.' Part of the idea is to present some of the many interesting faces of Asian culture while being enter-Asian culture while being entertained.

If you'd like to support the Asian Student Association then check out the dance on Feb. 16 in the Student Union Ballroom.

As the new semester is un-derway, new relationships may be as well. All the more reason to be concerned about sexually trans-mitted diseases (STDs). Do you really know everything you need to know about STDs? Below are to know about STDS? Below are some important facts to consider before you leap into a new inti-mate relationship. • STDs are a major cause of steril-ity. In women chlamydia and gon-orrhea account for 20% of all causes of all cases of infertility. • Genital sores and ulcers caused by syphilis, herpes and chancroid are a contributing "co-factor" in the spread of AIDS.

• STDs can lead to cancer. Geni-tal warts are linked to cervical cancer and Hepatitis B, often spread through sexual contact, is a cause of liver cancer

Each year more than 13 million Americans quietly pass along sexual diseases. So what are some of the main sexual bugs making the rounds today? The two main STDs are chlamydia and gonorrhea. Human Papillomavirus, which causes genital warts, has also become one of the fastest growing STDs in the U.S. today. Other STDs include, genital her pes, bacterial vaginosis, tripes, bacterial vaginosis, tri-chomonas and Hepatitis B, all of which can be passed from one sex-greater your risk of getting these disastrous diseases. If you suspect you have an in-fection, call a doctor or clinic promptly. Many times symptoms of STDs can overlap with others, making accurate identification difficult. Many STDs produce no uumntores at all. East this research sincuit. Many STDs produce no symptoms at all. treated promptly. Some STDs such as herpes, genital warts and Hepatitis B can be treated but not cured. The herpes virus remains in the body permanently. Non-gonococcal Urethritis (NGU) is a sexually transmitted disease in men. Women don't get NGU, but the germs that it causes can be passed to women and potential se-rious problems can develop. What is your best protection against STDs? Not having sex is your best protection, however,

He also feels privileged to be working with the professors in the department, Feldstein says, "there are many men and women here who care about the students and they're interested in charting for issues of race, gender, ethnicity...all those issues that pertain to our lives."

As a critic or theorist of multi-culturalism, Feldstein shows his students how to get away from the ideo-logical and political ideas they've more an intellectual activist than a so-cial one, his "progressive or left-thinking" as he calls it, has involved him in conflicts with some people on campus. For instance, there were ob-jections to the first Queer Theory course that he taught at RIC last year, which makes Feldstein proud. However, he also knew that there were people who would rather not have it taught here, just as there were people twenty years ago who didn't want to touch upon women's rights, or in the middle of the 20th century those who didn't want to address issues of race.

He adds, "certain people object to what I teach — students and pro-fessors — and that's fine, that's constructive, and I can learn from it." Feldstein has his own blind-spots as well, in the sense that he is like most people who are trying to grow, defending their identities and space, and also changing who they are in order to grow intellectually as well as emotionally. For this reason, he gets along the most with students he gets along the most with students who are interested in the same project of changing and growing. In his classrooms, he welcomes conflicts that students can learn from, contracts that students can learn from, and most of the time he takes in DVDs, VHS tapes, and even Hip-Hop recordings, all of which tend to "cool off" the students. to finish a book he started working on years ago; the focus is popular cul-ture. In addition, he is in the process of writing a book, entitled, Post Colo-nial Science Fiction, in which he focuses on a certain type of corporate science fiction like Star Trek and Twilight Zone, at the same time looking at some African-American writers

He concludes by say-ing: "Be able to ask yourselves, as well as others; tough questions...to really question yourself and your mo-tivation and to see if it's there to em-power others."

ners of the event, to end up with a team score of 3.5 points out of 6 possible, good enough for a ninth place finish. The star of this year's tourna-ment was John Guzman, who went undefeated at Board 2, scoring 4.5 points out of 6 possible (three wins and three draws), and barely miss-ing out on top board prize by a half-point. His draw in Round 2 against William Morrison, a much higher rated player from UMBC, was good enough to give RIC the nec-essary tie-break points to keep 9th place away from perennial power place away from perennial power University of Toronto. Your children are a real credit to you. $500 each

They're your pride and joy. And what's more, they can save you up to $500 each, subtracted right off your federal income tax. The Child Tax Credit is an important benefit of the Taxpayer Relief Act.

Who qualifies? Each dependent child, or descendant, stepchild or foster child who is under 17 as of 12/31/00. Must be a U.S. citizen or resident.

Credit is reduced when your modified adjusted gross income exceeds certain limits. Special rules may apply for three or more children.

Why wait for a refund? You can take home more money every payday, if you ask your employer to withhold less. (Be careful to withhold enough to avoid a penalty.)

Jernigan stands out for RIC men's basketball

by Keely Subin Anchor contributor

Sometimes it takes student-athletes time to adjust to college. Such is the case with Rhode Island College men's basketball player, Kenny Jernigan. The Hart-ford, Connecticut native sat out the 1999-00 season and has come back to the court with a more disciplined ap-proach to the game and a mature attitude.

mature attitude. Head Coach Dave Johnston's Anchormen are 6-12 overall and 2-6, sev-enth place, in the Little East Conference. RIC, which went 3-22 last season, has already doubled its win total from a year ago with six games left on the schedule.

Jernigan says, "This year is a rebuilding year. We have a lot of young players. We've learned a lot as a team We ve learned a lot as a team and we're growing together. The work we put in this year will pay off next year." The guard has played in 16 games, starting 15 of them. He leads the team in scoring and rebounding av-them. He leads the team in scoring and rebounding, av-eraging 19.3 points and 6.8 rebounds per game. Jerni-gan is also averaging 2.3 as-sists and 2.1 steals per game. He scored a career-high of 28 points against Eastern Nazarene on Nov. 28 and grabbed a career-high 11 rebounds against Greensboro on Jan 3

Jan. 3. Coach Johnston says, "Kenny has become more of a team player. Two years ago, he tended to play out of control in spurts and try to win the game singlehandedly. He's done a much a better job of con-trolling the ball and taking the cor-rect shot. Off the court, he's improved his demeanor and done a better job in the classroom." The game against Eastern Connecticut on Jan. 13 was a landmark game for Jernigan. The An-chormen defeated the Warriors 74-69. "It was a highlight because it was a personal victory for me as well as a team victory. I'm from Connecticut and a lot of my friends play for them." Jernigan had 27 points, eight rebounds, three assists and two steals in 37 minutes of action. He credits the RIC coaching staff with his success. "Alex [Alex Butler, Assistant Men's Basketball Coach] is a person I need to be around. Having him there helps me to strive to be a better player." Jernigan also points out his team-mates. "All of the things I have mates. "All of the things I have done this year would not have been possible without my teammates." possible without my teammates. He sat out last season after a tough freshman year adjusting college life. "I needed to get fo-cused on basketball and concen-trate on school," Jernigan says. "I needed time to mature as a person.

James Adams, who was the head Men's Basketball Coach at the time, felt it would be better for Jernigan to concentrate on academics and learn how to schedule his time better. "Kenny was having a tough time balanc-ing his commitment to basing his commitment to bas-ketball, schoolwork and be-ing away from home," Adams says. "He needed to get his life in order, which he's done, and it shows in his performance on the court and in the classroom this year." year

Jernigan played in 21 games, starting 12, as a freshman in 1998-99. He led the team in steals, averaging 2.3 per game. He was sev-enth in the LEC in that cate-gory. Jernigan was second an gory. Jerngan was second on the team in assists, aver-aging 3.0 per game. He was third on the team in scoring, averaging 10.3 points per game. He also averaged 4.0 rebounds per contest.

Jernigan established a new RIC record for the most free throws made in a game when he made 19 of 20 against Keene State on Dec. 5, 1998. The 6'1" guard scored a season-high of 21 points with four boards, three assists and three steals on the day.

He is a social work major who hopes to work in the field after graduation. "I want to pursue social work in educa-tion and schools."

Get Ready...Women's Lacrosse is at Rhode Island College!

There is a new athletic team here at RIC – Women's lacrosse. A fairly unknown sport in RI, it's an easy crossover from soccer and field hockey. Head Coach Matt Coleman brings a lot of lacrosse experience to this new team. Coach Coleman was a lacrosse player at LaSalle Academy and also at the Univer-sity of Rhode Island. He is cur-rently a Physical Education/Health teacher in Massachusetts.

Slowly the team has been forming within the last 4 months. With a lot of help from the coach and current team members we now have a team. The lacrosse team consists of only one experienced player. The rest of the team is complayer. The rest of the team is com-posed of soccer players, swim-mers, gymnasts, volleyball and field hockey players. The ladies that were with the team in November and December were privileged enough to have practices with Coach Coleman during the fall ball season. Within five practices the team came a long way. From not knowing how to hold a lacrosse stick to knowing how to cradle, catch and throw with accuracy. Since the fall season the team has picked up about six new faces and we are still looking to grow. Freshman Courney Sarno from Billerica Memorial High Freshman Courney Sarno from Billerica Memorial High School in Massachusetts will lead the team on the field with her play-ing experience. Her playing posi-tion on the field will be 1st or 2nd home. The team will be lead by Captain Pam Haczynski, a gradu-ate from North Smithfield High School. Although she has never played lacrosse before she does have athletic experience. At North Smithfield she played soccer and was captain of her gymnastics team. She attended the 1997 World Scholar Athlete Games as a soccer goalkeeper and she will also take the goalkeeper position on the lacrosse field. The team will be practicing Monday through Friday 4-6:30 pm in the Recreation Center. Please come by and watch or talk to the coach or team. Leash the Hounds!

by Kristen Mojkowski Anchor Contributor

Recently, while walking to recently, while waiting to my evening Physical Science class, I noticed some dogs. Quite a few, actually. Two women were walking about 6 or 7 cute little Basset Hounds. The 7 cute little Basset Hounds. The dogs were all walking around the quad sniffing around, hav-ing a grand old time. You've probably seen them on campus. They come around almost every day; one even has a cute flash-ing collar. Errom what Lundering collar. From what I under-stand, these women have been "walking" their dogs on our campus for quite some time. By

"Walking their dogs on our campus for quite some time. By walking, I mean letting the dogs loose allowing them to defecate wherever they please. These women aren't the only people who walk their dogs on our campus. I see many differ-ent people walk their dogs to the quad, let them poop, and leave without giving a second thought about picking it up. Now, I don't mind that peo-ple walk their dogs on campus. I'm actually glad that we have an open campus so that we can have such social interactions take place between us and the outside world. The thing that disturbs me the most is that I have yet to see someone picking have yet to see someone picking up after his or her dog(s). They up after his of her dog(s). They come to our campus, let their dogs defecate on our quad (which everybody walks on), and leave. Do people have no courtesy for others? I think I can count on all of my appendages how many times I've nearly twisted my ankle avoiding sud-den dog pies. It is disgusting and vile and it smells bad!

vile and it smells bad! Some people plead the argu-ment that dog poop fertilizes the grass. Well, it has been proven that dog poop, as well as dog urine (which is just as disgust-ing) actually kills grass. Even if it did fertilize, it certainly isn't going to fertilize anything if it's going to fertilize anything if it's on' pavement. I have met dog-owners that refuse to pick up af-ter their dogs claiming that "its not mine, why should I pick it up?" This also boggles my mind. Do these people not notice that dogs are incapable of picking up anything? Dogs have no hands! And what's more, is that people have been using our campus as And what's more, is that people have been using our campus as their dogs' personal bathroom for eons (well, maybe not that long) and no one has done any-thing about it. Many towns have laws enforcing people to clean up after their dogs. I personally feel that this is a great law! Now, I don't have to live in fear of dog poop while walking down the poop while walking down the streets of the wonderful town that I reside in called Bristol. Aren't we supposed to feel safe while walking on our campus? How long will it be before our school does anything to enforce the picking up of the poop? Am I the only one that feels this way? All that I would like to see is some one picking up after their dog once in a while. For all of you that have never thought of this concept before, no you don't pick it up with you hands. don't pick it up with you hands. Use a plastic bag, buy a pooper-scooper, use an old newspaper for all I care- Just pick up after your dog. For those two Women, and any other people that bring their dogs here, keep track of where your dog is doing his business. Keep them on a leash. This is a College campus, not a dog potty. We, as humans, can at least flush the toilet when we're done with our business. we're done with our business. So, please do the responsible thing and clean up after your dog

Torture has occurred in many industrialized, educated, and "free" industrialized, educated, and "free" societies. The truth is that torture can occur anywhere in the world, and can be done to anyone. Another popular belief is that torture is committed by only someone who is mentally un-stable, a person with a psychopathic nature. This also could not be further from the truth. Not only do most torturers know what they are doing, but also most of them go home to families, and live like anyone else. Torturers normally claim that they were or-dered to commit the act by a higher subtority, which is also surrolly the authority, which is also usually the case. In these cases, torture is ordered through a chain of command.

Amnesty International

I am a member of Amnesty In-ternational, a worldwide human rights organization that focuses on human rights abuses such as torture. Last fall, AI initiated a campaign against torture called FAST (Fast Action Stops Torture). This campaign has already had a couple of successes in which wrongfully imprisoned peo-ple were released and spared from torture. Rhode Island College has an Amnesty International chapter, which started up last semester. The club membership is small, but the members are extremely dedicated people with big hearts, coupled with two extremely honorable and intelli-gent advisors. RIC Armesty held an awareness project in Donovan last semester on the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, and we held a Human Rights

Dinner. We need people to join us in the crusade for human rights. If any of you have been angered by the injus-tices in the world, and by the facts I have listed above on torture, this is your chance to do something about it. By joining RIC Annesty, you can help to create awareness of human rights, and you can help those who rights, and you can help those who are losing hope by giving them hope. Becoming involved with a group like becoming involved with a group like this is a great way to educate you on world affairs, and a great way to be-come mobilized. I believe that as to-day's youth, we have a special oblig-ation to stand up for what is right, and to stare down injustice with firm conviction.

viction. The RIC chapter of Amnesty In-ternational will start meeting on Wednesday, January 31, 2001, from 12:30pm-2pm at the Unity Center (bottom level of Donovan). There are also two executive spots open (trea-also two executive spots open (trea-sume corretary) to anyone who is insurer, secretary) to anyone who is in-terested. Together we can combine our voices and make one big voice. If we can prevent someone from the lifelong scars of torture with that one big voice, then all of our work will be truly worthwhile.

curity. Trillions of tax dollars are channeled to create a non-Christian New World Order where God is cast aside as He already is in public education and at the United Nations. The com-promised politicians, facilitated by promised politicians, facilitated by corrupt court decisions rendered by the politically appointed judges and paid by illicit appropriations legisla-tively sanction terrible moral crimes such as abortion. Well over 50% of the American children of God are directly or indi-retly derendent on come level of rectly dependent on some level of atheistic government for a mindless job or bureaucratic dole supplied by Franklin Roosevelt's Social Security or multitude of degrading assistance programs abused by the recipients and providers. Consequently, a hum-ble dependency upon God as the om-nipotent Father and a prayerful trust in His merciful Son have been vanquished by secular government's in-volvement in the individual's per-sonal life. Political government has evolved into contemporary idol of worship where "religious services" are held at the temples of the White House, the US Capitol, and the fifty state houses attended by the devout parishioners of the news-entertainment society.

What's so gross? As many of you may have guessed, it is the raunchy, "raw feet" smell that at-tacks you when you walk into the building on the Quad side. Come on, you know, that nauseating "dirty feet-mixed-with-body odor" smell that makes you want to collapse as you're straining to odor" smell that makes you want to collapse as you're straining to make it to your classroom. "Tempt" This Thought

by Kellie Suplicki Anchor staff

Like the 25 million other Like the 25 millio viewers throughout America, I was briefly sucked into the phenom-enon that is Fox's new television show, "Temp-tation Island". However, the two times that I had patter to do and the two times that I had nothing better to do and watched this show made me outraged. How could a show with no moral value and even less dig-nity be as popular as it is? Have we, as a society, become so boring that we must take interest in others lives just to fulfill the emptiness that has taken precedent in our own? For the few of you out there that have not heard or seen this show, let me fill you on it. Four lucky couples, in other-wise solid relationships, are brought to a secluded island with about 2 dozen beautiful single people. The couples are then sep-arated from their mates to see if maybe one of these other sin-gle people can tempt them to leave their significant other. They are then sent out on dates, either paired up by others or picked them out on recorded and the juiciest clips are sent to their boyfriend or girlfriend for them to view at their discretion. After viewing, the other becomes jealous and pissed off because of their own, to see if any chemistry theorem is what did you really think was going to happen? That your girlfriend or boyfriend wasn't going to take advantage of the freedom you allowed each other to have? Some of the couples are even quoted as saying that the level of temptation that they were facing sur-prised them. Yet another ignorant comment. The show is called "Temptation Island", isn't it? With all the infi-delity that plagues Amer-ican society, why would someone want to encour-age this behavior even more so? I understand that they are not married to each other, but it en-courages the behavior that leads up to infidelities. You are taking cou-ples with common problems and telling them not to deal with it as mature, responsible adults just for the sake of ratings. And ves, it is also true that it is their decision to participate in this event to test fate. But that just questions their morals and responsibilities as hu-man beings. Now with that in mind, I leave it to you. What do you think?

bridges. The songs "As I watch the sun fxxk the ocean" and "Before we die" are decent but the band seems to like to follow the same formula for a lot of their songs. The listener may also feel that this band dare may we say it might be to soft to be considered a "Hard-core" band. This band is touring with the likes of Fear Factory and Kittie. After listening to the album many of the fans can probably pic-ture the band being jumped, beaten severely, and having their wallets taken after playing their set of slow, mid-tempo, Creed-inspired songs. Vocalist Cregg may also want may also want consider to working on his own vocal style instead of repeatedly rip-ping off the guy from Incubus badly. Not to say that the band doesn't rock at some points its just that they have to do it more often and louder.

In closing, Boy Hits Car

has many areas in need for improvement so that they will not be labeled "Your par-ent's hardcore band". They need to stop with the whiney soft-spoken lyrics, put away the twelve-string acoustic guitar, and just get down to business with heavy riffs and more screaming vocals.
