Who's Who Recognizes 5 Outstanding Seniors

Five seniors have been chosen by the class of 1964 to represent Rhode Island College in the 1963-64 national publication, Who's Who Among Students in American College and Universities. Four of the seniors elected—Frances Syner, Charlie Wilkes, Tom Izzo and Dick Liscio were selected for the second year. The other recipient, Bill Waters, was chosen for the first time by his class.

Lecturer Crosses "Iron Curtain" To Address Students

Professor Henry Batowski of Cracow, Poland, will lecture today on "European Diplomacy After the Munich Crisis, 1938-1939." The lecture will take place at 1:00 p.m. in the Amos assembly room of the Clarke Science Building.

The opportunity to hear Professor Batowski is unique because few scholars from behind the Iron Curtain have been able to visit or speak in American colleges and universities. The speaker is on an exchange visit and a visiting professor at Indiana University this year.

At 4:15 p.m. Professor Batowski will head an informal discussion concerning Poland in the eighteenth century in Alger Hall, room 216.

Loans Available

Additional funds will be available for new applicants for the National Defense Student Loan program. Students who wish to apply should secure an application in Room 107 Roberts Hall and return them completed before February 14, Friday of this week. When applications are approved and further word is relayed to the College concerning the allocation, students will be granted the loan.

granted to outstanding students in more than 400 colleges and universities throughout the United States. Each college is responsible for setting standards for nominees, subject to approval by the national Who's Who.

Each of the RIC candidates, who must be officially accepted by Who's Who, had attained a cumulative index of 2.7 and received at least a majority of his class votes. The senior class elected the recipients on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and campus activities.

Unless another change is made, the four students who were selected for the second consecutive year for the award are the last students of RIC to be elected in both junior and senior years. Under a new ruling, effective this year, only the senior class may nominate to Who's Who, thereby preventing the possibility of a person being

Four Students Selected For Pell Program

Three seniors and one junior were selected by the social sciences division at Rhode Island College to participate in the Pell Internship Program. William Tammelleo, '64, and Robert Laffey, '65, will travel to Washington, D. C., to participate in the program during the week of March 1. During the week of April 19, Judy Fairhurst and Lionel Archambault, both seniors, will work in the offices of Senator Claiborne Pell, in the nation's capitol.

The purpose of the program is to give interested undergraduates a first hand experience with the machinery of our government. The four R.I.C. students were chosen from the applicants on the basis of their interest in the national government, their above-average academic standings, and their past work in the social sciences.

awarded the national recognition more than once.

The general reasoning for revising the previous ruling pertaining to candidacy was that juniors had not enough time on campus to distinguish themselves as potential Who's Who candidates.

Who's Who simultaneously acquaints business with persons of outstanding college records and provides the recipients with an excellent reference when seeking employment.

In addition, the order of presentation for Friday evening has been reversed: seniors first and freshmen last.

"The productions are varied in theme this year, but I believe they are all worthy of merit," William Waters, General Stunt Nite Chairman, said. "The judges are a distinguished group of well experienced men and women in professional capacities associated with the performing arts," he continued, then added "The

Dorm Students Become Stricken

A rash outbreak of illnesses which involved approximately 33 girls living at the Mary T. Thorpe residence for women last Wednesday, February 5th, was the cause of much concern by College, city and state health officials this past week. According to Miss Helen L. Keenan, College nurse, 23 girls became stricken on the first day followed by ten reported illnesses the following day, Thursday, February 6. By Friday morning the crisis ended as quickly as it began and no further reports of illness ensued.

Several girls became stricken during the early hours of Wednesday morning and reported illnesses increased throughout the day. Mrs. Ella Greene, resident supervisor of the dormitory, notified Miss Keenan, College nurse, who promptly notified Dr. Clara Smith, College physician, and Dr. Joseph Smith of the city health department. The State Health Department was also informed.

During the major portion of the first day, Dr. Clara Smith and Miss Keenan, with the assistance of Mrs. Greene, made the rounds in the dormitory examining each of the stricken girls and advising them accordingly. In a few cases, some girls were sent home, but the majority remained in the dormitory. The doctor and nurse returned the following day to examine both old and new cases that arose. By Friday, the situation was under control and no new cases were reported.

When questioned concerning the nature of the reported illnesses and whether or not there was possibility of food being a probable source of the outbreak Miss Keenan replied, "No, we have definitely ruled food."

Miss Keenan went on to explain that during her initial conversation with a city health department official, she was advised to examine this possibility. A thorough investigation was then put into progress whereby menus were carefully studied, various times in which the girls became ill were noted and records were established as to which girl had eaten what type of food. After all the facts were compiled, careful consideration of the results revealed that food could be ruled out.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Apparently, many of the students here at R. I. C. do not realize that a library is a place for study, reading, and concentration. There should be no talking, except in authorized places. In our library, talking is permitted only at the main desk and in the lobby.

One would never know that rules existed for our library if he were to spend many hours there trying to study. There is mass bedlam. Students constantly ignore all the established rules. They laugh, talk, and even sing to the annoyance of the many students and visitors who have come to the library with the intention of accomplishing their tasks in silence and peace.

The offenders, when asked to obey the library rules, and to have some respect for the rights of other students, usually answer back sarcastically, or jeer in your face. Although the librarians often remind students of the rules, it doesn't do very much good. As soon as the librarian is gone, the noise erupts all over again.

Something must be done about the prevailing situation. Therefore, I hope that the student body will learn the library regulations and practice them. Help make the Adam's Library, once again, a place of peace and quiet; a place where students can go to escape the noise and confusion of the rest of the world.

Consultants Engaged For New Developments

The firm of Sasaki, Walker and Associates, Inc., has been engaged by the Board of Trustees of State Colleges to serve as consultants to Rhode Island College in planning the sites and the design aspects of the new construction on the RIC campus. The development plan of the College calls for the construction of a classroom building, two residence halls, and additions to Roberts Hall and the Fred J. Donovan Dining Center. Funds for the construction was authorized by the 1964 bond issue. The study is to cost approximately $3500.

New Appointments

Miss Geraldine A. Carley has been appointed an assistant professor in the Elementary Education department of Rhode Island College, announced Dr. William C. Gaige, President of the College. Miss Carley, who will be concerned with the program in early childhood education, has been a teacher of kindergarten at Henry Barnard School since 1952. A graduate of Rhode Island College, she had taught in the schools of Providence before joining the College faculty. She has just returned from a year's leave for advanced study at Teachers College, Columbia University.

Miss Elizabeth A. Corrigan has been appointed an instructor in biology at Rhode Island College for the spring semester. Miss Corrigan, a graduate of Manhattanville College and Boston College, has been a member of the staff of Massachusetts General Hospital and the Rhode Island Hospital. She has taught in the secondary schools of Providence during the past two years.

All Cars Must Be Registered

All students on campus, or engaged in practice teaching, are reminded that their cars must be registered in room 107 Roberts Hall. All cars must display the red parking permit on the right front vent. Campus police have been notified to tag all cars not displaying a sticker, even those parked in student parking lots.

Student parking areas are Lots A, B, and C only. No parking is permitted behind Craig-Lee, the science building, the library, or the dirt road alongside of Alger Hall.

There will be positively no parking on the roads when there is space in the student parking lots. Regulations will be rigorously enforced. All violators are being fined with no exceptions.

Music Recital Planned Today

The Rhode Island College music department will present a chamber music recital at 1 p.m. this afternoon in the Little Theatre, Roberts Hall.

Professor Rita Bicho, piano, and Mrs. Donna Brandstein, flute, will present Sonata No. 1 by G. F. Handel, Sonatina for Flute and Piano by A. A. Schwadron of the R.I.C. music department, and Sonate No. 1 by J. S. Bach.

ARF!

Benjamin Franklin (or The Louisville Slugger, as he is better known as) said, "A penny saved is a penny earned," and we, the college population of America, have taken to heart this sage advice. We spend prudently; we budget diligently. Yet, despite our wise precautions, we are always running short. Why? Because there is one item of expense that we consistently underestimate—the cost of travelling home for weekends.

Let us take the typical case of Basil Metabolism, a sophomore at UCLA majoring in avocados. Basil, a resident of Bangor, Maine, loved to go home each weekend to play with his faithful dog, Spot. What joy, what wreathed smiles, when Basil and Spot were re-united! Basil would leap into his dogcart, and Spot, a genuine Alaskan husky, would pull Basil all over Bangor, Maine—Basil calling cheery halloos to the townfolk, Spot wagging his curly tail.

But the cost, alas, of travelling from UCLA to Bangor, Maine, ran to $400 a week, and Basil's father, alas, earned only a meagre salary as a meter-reader for the Bangor water department. So, alas, after six months Basil's father told Basil he could raise no more money; he had already sold everything he owned, including the flashlight he used to read meters.

Basil returned to California to ponder his dilemma. One solution occurred to him—to ship Spot to UCLA and keep him in his room—but Basil had to abandon the notion because of his roommate, G. Fred Sigafoos, who was, alas, allergic to dog hair.

Then another idea came to Basil—a stroke of genius, you might call it. He would buy a Mexican hairless chihuahua! Thus he would have a dog to pull him around, and G. Fred's allergy would be undisturbed.

The results, alas, were not all Basil had hoped. The chihuahua, alas, was unable to pull Basil in the dogcart, no matter how energetically he beat the animal.

Defeated again, Basil sat down with G. Fred, his roommate, to smoke a Marlboro Cigarette and seek a new answer to the problem. Together they smoked and thought and—Eureka!—an answer quickly appeared. (I do not suggest, mark you, that Marlboro Cigarettes are an aid to celebration. All I say about Marlboros is that they taste good and are made of fine tobaccos and pure white filters and come in soft pack or Flip Top box.)

Well, sir, Basil and G. Fred got a great idea. Actually, the idea was G. Fred's, who happened to be majoring in genetics. Why not, said G. Fred, cross-breed the chihuahua with a Great Dane and thus produce an animal sturdy enough to pull a dogcart?

It was, alas, another plan doomed to failure. The cross-breeding was done, but the result (this is very difficult to explain) was a raccoon.

But there is, I am pleased to report, a happy ending to this heart-rending tale. It seems that Basil's mother (this is also very difficult to explain) is a glamorous blond aged 19 years. One day she was spotted by a talent scout in Bangor, Maine, and was signed to a fabulous movie contract, and the entire family moved to California and bought Bel Air, and today one of the most endearing sights to be seen on the entire Pacific Coast is Spot pulling Basil down Sunset Boulevard—Basil cheering and Spot wagging. Basil's mother is also happy, making glamorous movies all day long, and Basil's father is likewise content, sitting at home and reading the water meter.

Concert

Miriam Makeba will be featured at the concert Sunday at 8 p.m. in Roberts Hall. Miss Makeba is a young Xosa tribeswoman from Johannesburg, South Africa. She was brought to the U. S. in 1959, when Henry Belafonte and Steve Allen discovered her unusual natural talent. She was associated with Belafonte in 1960 and 1961 as a featured singer on his concert tours. She had toured Africa for 18 months, appearing as a soloist in the musical review "African Jazz and Variety," and she was the featured singer in the controversial film

"Come Back Africa," which won the Film Critic's Award in the Venice Film Festival.

Miss Makeba has performed before many college audiences, as well as in night clubs, and has made two record albums. Her songs convey all the intense emotions of a land undergoing great change. From a rousing Zulu chant to a delightful West Indian song about a mischievous flea . . . from a modern bouncy African folk tune to a haunting Yiddish refrain . . . from a variety of songs in many languages to an expressive fascinating Xosa Click Song where the staccato tongue clicking in her native dialect sounds like the popping of champagne corks.

Anchormen Advance Nearer to NESCA Conference Title With Victories Over North Adams and Gorham State

Rhode Island College's basketball team advanced considerably toward the Southern Division title in the New England State College Athletic Conference.

The Anchormen posted important victories over North Adams State, 90-54, and Gorham State, 83-67, in games played last week. In beating North Adams and Gorham, Rhode Island College defeated the top two teams in the Northern Division and thereby moved into the favorites role for the playoffs about four weeks hence.

The R.I.C. basketball team has shown definite improvement after a shaky start early in the season. The Anchormen have won 13 of their last 16 games, and are currently retaining a solid 8-2 conference record, tops in the Southern Division.

The team showed improvement in the second Southern Connecticut game when captain Charlie Wilkes returned to the squad after his broken hand healed. In that game Wilkes scored 22 points and was superb as floor general. Basketball coach, Thomas Sheehan, spoke about the success of the team in their recent drive. "We seemed to start getting together as a team when Charlie Wilkes recovered from his broken hand." Observers say that Wilkes' return gave depth to the backcourt to balance the scoring of Mike VanLeesten, Bill McCaughey and Bill Nicynski.

The R.I.C. basketball team has scored 90 points or better on seven occasions and passed the century-mark twice. The Anchormen scored 116 points against St. Francis, a non-conference opponent. Last Saturday, the R.I.C. cagers rolled up 112 points in defeating Danbury State College.

Well-balanced scoring has been the basis for this team's fine record. As a matter of fact, the R.I.C. squad should be well up in the top ten NAIA "winning margin" statistics, to be released this week. The Anchormen have averaged 80.5 points a game to their opponent's 61.4. Mike VanLeesten, Bill McCaughey and Bill Nicynski have been the more consistent scorers. Although both Charlie Wilkes and Jack Wheeler are capable of fine games and both have mustered 20-point games on at least one occasion. Jack Wheeler, a 6-6 front court starter, has shown the greatest improvement lately. In his last four games, Wheeler totaled 59 points and has bolstered R.I.C.'s rebounding strength.

Coach Sheehan feels that his squad has definite chances of winning the Conference title this year. They were runners-up to Gorham last year. One

R.I.C. Wrestlers Pin Loss On Previously Unbeaten Hartford

Rhode Island College's wrestling team raised its season record to 3 wins and 1 loss by defeating a previously unbeaten University of Hartford team, 18-14, in a meet held last Friday at Hartford.

The match was a nip-and-tuck battle with the lead changing hands several times. The Anchormen fell behind 3-0 when R.I.C.'s Chuck Fontes was out-pointed by his Hartford opponent in the 123 pound weight class. John Westledge put the R.I.C. grapplers ahead 5-3 when he pinned his Hartford counterpart at 1:50 of the second period. Walter Stoddard changed the score to 8-5 in favor of Hartford by gaining a pin over Joe Lavigne of R.I.C. Chuck Costello then added to his undefeated slate by pinning J. Kennedy at 2:59 of the first period. This gave the Anchormen a 10-8 advantage.

Rhode Island College, after losing the next two matches on close decisions, closed the gap to 14-13 in favor of Hartford as John D'Alosio of R.I.C. defeated A. Dubois in the 177 pound class. In the final match, Ed Lemoi, captain of the Anchormen, pinned his Hartford opponent at 1:05 of the first period to give Rhode Island College its 18-14 victory.

The Anchormen will try to continue in their winning ways when they wrestle at the United States Coast Guard Academy on Saturday, February 15.

The Summary:
123—Curry, H., defeated Fontes, decision, 10-0.
130—Westledge, R.I.C., pinned O'Neill, 1:50 of second period.
137—Stoddard, H., pinned Lavigne, 2:55 of first period.
147—Costello, R.I.C., pinned Kennedy, 2:59 of first period.
157—Curtis, H., defeated Hamill, decision, 7-3.
167—Daglio, H., defeated Dolce, decision, 5-3.
177—D'Alosio, R.I.C., defeated Dubois, decision, 4-1.
Unlimited—Lemoi, R.I.C., pinned Cohn, 1:05 of first period.

PEOPLE ARE AMAZING! BUT DIFFERENT!

Some like codfish and beans; others have a taste for guinea hen and wild rice. Some are soothed by the lines of Edgar Guest, but many of the college community crave the more sophisticated patterns of a Dylan Thomas. Similarly in religion,—we have different tastes and our varied faiths and sects are historic efforts to serve the natural variety of human needs. Historically, the movement known as Universalism has promoted a respect for all people and their tastes,—assuring all that there is no danger in error or heresy, but urging all to express and to implement their philosophical conclusions without hypocrisy or conformity. Even now, at the unique church which is affectionately known as "The House On Peace Street," we offer two entirely different opportunities to which all peoples—whatever their race, color, religious background, beliefs or lack thereof,—are invited.
