

What's

NEWS

@ Rhode Island College

Vol. 3, No. 27 April 4, 1983

Irving Howe

EMPHASIZING A POINT in his talk on "The Rise of the Novel" at Rhode Island College's Gaige Hall Auditorium on March 30, is author Irving Howe. Author in 1976 of 'World of Our Fathers,' a comprehensive social and cultural history of the journey of the east European Jews to America, the book earned Howe a National Book Award. (What's News Photo by Peter P. Tobia)

Two noted speakers here

Philip Morrison

"The Ultimate Threat: Nuclear War and its Prevention" will be the topic of a College Lecture Series talk by Philip Morrison, institute professor of physics at M.I.T. and "one of the most thoughtful advocates of arms control," on Wednesday, April 13, at 8 p.m. in Rhode Island College's Gaige Hall Auditorium.

The magazine Physics Today profiled Morrison in its August issue, saying he was "valued for his scientific contributions to the Manhattan Project, to theoretical physics and to astrophysics, to the public understanding of science, and has been one of the most thoughtful advocates of arms control."

Philip Morrison

His career has included Los Alamos and Hiroshima in the 1940s, McCarthyism in the 1950s, the Peace Movement in the 1960's and arms control from 1945 to the present.

It began in Pittsburgh where he was

(continued on page 4)

William McLoughlin

Dr. William G. McLoughlin, the Williard Prescott and Annie McClland Smith Professor of History and Religion at Brown University will speak at Rhode Island College on Tuesday, April 5 at 9 a.m.

Religious Pluralism in Rhode Island." The talk will be offered in the college's Faculty Center in the South Dining Room.

McLoughlin has written widely on the separation of church and state, revivalism and the early Baptists. In 1978 his book,

William McLoughlin

Rhode Island: A Bicentennial History, was published. It has been adopted by classes at RIC in Rhode Island history and geography.

Broadly interested in the dynamics of American history, Professor McLoughlin has written biographies, a book on Cherokee Indians, and has been concerned throughout his career with focusing attention on the rights of the individual. He

(continued on page 4)

A WOMEN'S PLACE is in the House...and the Senate, according to the T-shirt worn by RIC junior Raquel Hernandez. She and 15 other RIC students are interning this year with congressmen from Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Maine. For a full report on their impressions of the nation's capital, see page 3. (What's News Photo by Peter P. Tobia)

Notes from Bernadette

By Bernadette V. Small

Friends and alumni of RIC will be saddened to learn of the death of Joseph A. Thibeault. He died in Pawtucket Memorial Hospital on March 28 at the age of 64. He was a former Democratic state representative and a deputy speaker of the House.

Mr. Thibeault was a public relations officer at the state Department of Education for the past 14 years. He was elected as state representative from District 2 in 1960. He held that office until September of 1971 when he resigned to become community relations officer with the Department of Education.

He will be missed by his many friends and colleagues. We extend our sincerest condolences to his wife and family.

We are happy to learn that Capt. Howard Owens, professor of military science (ROTC), is on convalescent leave following successful recent leg surgery at the Naval Medical Facility in Newport. We extend our best wishes to Captain Owens for a speedy recovery.

We are pleased to inform you that Charles E. Lawton of the department of secondary education and the Early Enrollment Program, is recuperating following successful open heart surgery on March 24.

At this writing (March 28) he is resting comfortably at Jane Brown Hospital, Room 225. Please call the hospital before sending notes and cards. His home address is Box #462, Slatersville, R.I. 02876. We extend our best wishes to Charles for a speedy recovery.

We were saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. Mollie B. Keough of Warwick. She died on March 24 in Pawtucket Memorial Hospital at the age of 76. Mrs. Keough was the mother-in-law of Michaela Keough of the president's office. We extend our sincerest condolences to Michaela and Richard and their family.

What's NEWS

@ Rhode Island College

Editor

Laurence J. Sasso, Jr.

Editorial Assistant

George LaTour

Staff

Peter P. Tobia, Photographer
Audrey Drummond, Secretary
Rosemarie Abbruzzese, Typist

Student Staff

Marisa E. Petrarca, Calendar
Mark Hitchcock, Photo Asst.

What's News at Rhode Island College (USPS 681-650) is published weekly throughout the academic year except during semester breaks by Rhode Island College News and Information Services, 600 Mt. Pleasant Ave., Providence, RI 02908. Second Class postage paid Providence, RI

Postmaster: Send address changes to What's News at Rhode Island College, News and Information Services, c/o The Bureau, 600 Mt. Pleasant Ave., Providence, RI 02908.

DEADLINE

Deadline for submission of copy and photos is TUESDAY at 4:30 p.m.
Tel. 456-8132

Printer: The Beacon Press

Degree may be worth $1-million

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CPS)—College graduates earn about 40 percent more over a lifetime than non-grads, but men continue to earn about twice as much as women regardless of educational attainment, a new Census Bureau study shows.

Male college grads can expect to earn from $1.2 to $2.75 million over a lifetime, according to the study, while male high school grads will take in only $860,000 to $1.87 million.

Women, on the other hand, will make from $520,000 to $1.2 million if they have college degrees, and between $380,000 and $800,000 with only high school diplomas, the study reports.

"We have to caution, however, that the main purpose of the study was to show average expected lifetime earnings based on educational attainment notes Census Bureau statistician John Coder.

"A lot of people would like to say the difference (between men's and women's earnings) is due to discrimination, and some of it may well be, Coder explains. "But to attribute it all to discrimination would be very unfair."

"For one thing," he points out,

"women tend to have more interruptions in their lifetime work schedules. And the occupations they go into may be lower paying than traditionally male-dominated job areas."

Nevertheless, Coder adds, "the ratio between what women with college degrees and men with college degrees earn has changed very little since the early seventies."

"Things may be changing (for women in the workforce)," he says, "but they are changing very slowly."

Get reprieve from draft-aid law?

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. (CPS)—Minnesota students—and perhaps students nationwide—have gotten a temporary reprieve from a federal law that would make all male students prove they've registered for the draft before they could get federal financial aid.

Judge Donald Alsop of the Federal District Court of Minnesota temporarily enjoined the government from enforcing the law, which is supposed to become effective on July 1, 1983.

Alsop, ruling in a case brought by the Minnesota Public Interest Research Group (MPIRG) and the Minnesota Civil Liberties Union on behalf of six local students, said Congress may have interfered with court duties and required students to incriminate themselves in passing the law.

The temporary injunction will last until Alsop makes a final ruling on the constitutionality of the law. Observers expect the ruling sometime this spring.

Other observers aren't sure if the injunction applies nationwide or just to Minnesota aid applicants.

"We believe (the injunction) is in force nationwide," says MPIRG attorney James Miller. "But that is a matter of dispute right now."

The U.S. Department of Justice, which argued the case on behalf of the U.S. Department of Education and the Selective Service System, "has no comment on our position right now," a spokesman says.

But Boston University, the only school in the country to say it would voluntarily withhold both federal and university aid from non-registrants, believes the injunction's scope is limited.

"As far as we're concerned, the temporary injunction only affects Minnesota," says BU spokesman Bob O'Rourke.

Since the law doesn't formally go into effect until the summer, though, students don't have to show proof of registration now anyway.

Though a number of other schools have begun to prepare for enforcing the law when it goes into effect, a great many financial aid officers are opposed to the law.

They complain it forces them to discriminate against male aid applicants, that it makes them into police agencies, and that it puts an added paperwork burden on them.

A few colleges—Earlham College, Haverford College, and Swarthmore among them—have announced they'll make private aid available to male students denied federal aid because of reasons of conscience.

The University of Minnesota originally filed a friend-of-the-court brief in the Minnesota case, but school officials say they probably couldn't afford to provide private aid to nonregistrants.

The suit was filed for six Minnesota students. "Each of the six students receives financial aid currently, needs to continue receiving it, and can't certify that they have complied with the draft registration requirements," Miller says.

To speak on power and silence

Richard Sennett, director of the New York Institute for the Humanities and university professor of humanities at New York University, will speak at Rhode Island College on April 7 at 1 p.m. in Gaige Hall Auditorium. His topic will be "Power and Silence."

Senett's appearance at RIC is being sponsored by the general education enrichment lecture series and the department of history.

Born in Chicago in 1943, the professor earned his bachelor's degree at the University of Chicago and his Ph.D. at Harvard.

He is the author of Families Against the City, The Uses of Disorder, and The Fall of Public Man. He is founder of The New York Institute of the Humanities. He is also a visiting fellow at the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton.

The lecture is free and open to the public. For more information call 456-9714 or 456-8505.

What's News DEADLINES

Tuesday
4:30 p.m.

Focus on the Faculty and Staff

DR. CAREY G. RICKABAUGH, associate professor of political science, has been invited by the public affairs office of the U.S. Department of State to attend a two-day conference for professors of foreign affairs at the state department in Washington on April 6 and 7.

NOTICE

Early registration for sophomore and junior nursing majors will be held Wednesday, April 27, from 9 to 11 a.m.

To register, you must first obtain your registration time card through the lottery to be held on Monday, April 18 through Friday, April 22, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Nursing Lounge.

35-MINUTE LUNCH: John Thompson of the campus mail room, hopes to deliver mail to the college receiving department which is located in the Physical Plant Building. If it's lunchtime, according to the sign on the door, he's out of luck! (What's News Photo by Peter P. Tobia)

To appreciate Washington hustle and bustle:

RIC Senate interns say: 'You have to be there'

By George LaTour

"Welcome, fellow subversives, to the Senate underground movies."

With that tongue-in-cheek remark, U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) welcomed a gathering of government employees and three Rhode Island College coeds to a viewing of the recently-banned Canadian "propaganda" films on acid rain and nuclear war.

Anne Guillet of Cumberland, a RIC junior; Raquel Hernandez, also a junior, and Mary Ann McGill, a senior, both from Providence, are among 16 RIC students this year taking Senate and House internships with congressmen from Rhode Island and—for the first time—Massachusetts and Maine.

Dr. Herbert R. Winter, professor of political science at RIC and both the RIC and state congressional internship coordinator, reports that the college has been involved with an internship program since 1962, but "this is the first year that we have interns with Rep. Claudine Schneider (R-R.I.) and, further, this is also the first year that we have succeeded in placing our out-of-state students with their respective congressmen."

Students from RIC have previously interned also with Sen. John H. Chafee (R-R.I.) and will this summer participate in the senator's internship program, said Winter.

Students and the lawmakers with whom they performed or will perform their internships this year (in addition to Guillet, Hernandez and McGill, all of whom interned with Sen. Claiborne Pell (D-R.I.) are: Ann Poulos of Cranston, Congresswoman Schneider; Norman Kelly of Providence and Gregory Ayrassian of Lincoln, Senator Pell; Michael Scott of Warwick, Congresswoman Schneider; and Leonard Calandra of Bristol and Michael McKenna of West Warwick, Senator Pell;

Also, David Serpa of North Attleboro, Rep. Barney Frank (D-Mass); Eugene R. Larivee of Central Falls, Congresswoman Schneider; Michael P. McNamara of Melville, Mass., Rep. Joseph D. Early (D-Mass.); and John T. Duchesneau of Cape Elizabeth, Maine, Rep. John R. McKernan (R-Maine).

Also, Joseph P. Casale and Jack DeGiovanni, both of Providence, Senator Pell; and Kenneth C. Bedford of Lincoln, Congresswoman Schneider.

The annual internships are sponsored by the RIC Student Parliament which provides $300 to each of the students who qualify for the trip to Washington, D.C. and a week of working hand-in-hand with the respective staffs of the senators and representatives.

A student need not be a political science major to be selected, although frequently they are or are at least interested in a possible government career after college.

The workweek of March 7 through 11 saw Guillet, Hernandez and McGill attending senate hearings which featured discussion on such weighty matters as the repeal of the withholding tax on savings interest and dividends, complete with a filibuster by Sen. Robert Dole (R-Kan.), some research for Senator Pell and "a lot of running around."

"We wanted to get to the nuclear freeze hearing, but there were big lines of people and we couldn't get in," reported Guillet.

About the Canadian films which they did see, the RIC coeds found them "very scientific on an elementary level" and got a kick out of Senator Kennedy's levity about the showing.

They noted that the "Reagan administration forced him (Kennedy) to put up a sign warning viewers to be careful" when viewing the films, taking into consideration that they may be nothing more than propaganda.

"There's some question as to whether the films will be allowed to be shown in the United States," pointed out Hernandez. There may have been an element of "forbidden fruit" in the coeds' enjoyment of the film of which, overall, they found little to be critical.

Their evenings were spent trying out a lot of restaurants—"they were quite expensive—even McDonald's"—visiting historic sites such as the Library of Congress, the Folger Shakespeare Library, the Washington Monument, the Smithsonian Institute and, yes, the White House.

In addition, Hernandez, a lover of opera, went to the Kennedy Center to hear Placido Domingo perform.

The students found Washington "incredible" and affirmed that "you have to be there to see what's going on."

"There's a lot of hustle and bustle—always something to do," confirmed Hernandez. Guillet reported that "the people in Pell's office are busy every second of the day."

Even so, whenever the students had a question "they'd stop and help out."

"They are very personable and nice," she assured.

Hernandez was very impressed with the amount of mail the senator receives from Rhode Island.

"I thought Rhode Islanders were lackadaisical, but they are very concerned," she learned. And, the senator and his staff "make every effort to answer all the mail," noted Guillet.

She and Hernandez would both like to get into government or government-related work after college.

Guillet, who has major studies in both political science and history, would like to join the foreign service and "would not rule out" even running for elective office.

SENATE INTERNS Anne Guillet of Cumberland (left) and Raquel Hernandez of Providence, relate their recent experiences with life in Washington, D.C., a place they found 'incredible.'

Hernandez, who has major studies in Spanish and psychology in the secondary education curriculum, would like to become involved in school administration with special interest in legislation related to education.

Both would love to live in the Washington area. Hernandez, toward this end has already sent for job applications "in most of the counties in Virginia and Maryland."

As with many of the senate interns before them, these RIC coeds enjoyed "rubbing elbows" with legislators from both sides of the political spectrum such as Senators Kennedy and Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), and have been impressed with the mechanics of a free society.

"A lot of people put 'the system' down which is easy to do, but if they were there and saw it (in action) they'd appreciate it," assured Hernandez, a native of Cuba.

ATTENDING THE EIGHTH ANNUAL New England Undergraduate Research Conference in Sociology at Providence College recently are (l to r) Dr. Mary Ann Hawkes, Dr. Janet Billson Mancini, Dr. Thomas W. Ramsbey and Theresa LaPierre, one of two Rhode Island College students who presented papers there. The other student (photo at right) is Mahnaz Diba.

Present research papers at sociology conference

Two Rhode Island College coeds recently presented papers on their studies in sociology at the eighth annual New England Undergraduate Research Conference in Sociology at Providence College.

Mahnaz Diba's paper, "Sex Roles," won one of the two top awards for best papers.

Diba, from Iran, used several different theoretical models to look at sexual dimorphism. Her paper was the result of an independent study under the supervision of Dr. Thomas W. Ramsbey, chairman of the sociology department.

Theresa LaPierre of Mapleville, a senior social-work major and criminal justice minor, wrote on "Female Guards in Male Prisons" for a course taught by Dr. Mary Ann Hawkes, professor of sociology.

Both students are members of Alpha Kapp Delta, the sociology national honor society.

Jane T. Mancini Billson, associate professor of sociology, chaired the session work at the P.C.—sponsored conference. She also participated in a panel on careers for sociology majors.

A FAMILY AFFAIR: Members of the Currier family will offer an afternoon of their musical compositions on April 17. The creative Curriers are Sebastian and Marilyn (seated) and Nathan and Robert (standing). See story on page 4. (What's News Photo by Peter P. Tobia)

Keeping it in the family:

Curriers to perform at RIC

When everyone in the family is involved with music, what could be more natural than getting together to offer a program?

Robert, Marilyn, Nathan and Sebastian Currier will share their work with the public on Sunday, April 17 at 2 p.m. The performance, which is part of the Rhode Island College Chamber Music Series, is being billed as "An Afternoon With the Currier Family." It will take place in room 138 Roberts Hall.

All of the works to be presented are original compositions by the Curriers. Among them will be two pieces created by Nathan Currier, "Trio (1981) for Violin, Viola and Cello and "Piano Pieces, Part I (1979); "Songs from Ted Hughes' Crow (1982)" by Marilyn Currier; "Quintet for Piano and Strings (1982)" by Sebastian Currier and "Rondo for Viola and Synthesizer (1974)" by Robert Currier and sons. The program will mark the first performance of the "Trio for Violin, Viola and Cello" and for the "Quintet for Piano and Strings."

Appearing in the concert will be Robert Currier, professor of music at RIC and violinist with the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra. The other family members, Marilyn, his wife and Sebastian and Nathan, his sons, will be present but not performing.

RIC music faculty members Barbara Poularikas, violin, and George Mack, cello will play in the program as will pianist Stephen Martorella, violinist Cheri Markward, and cellist Roberta Ricci. Also appearing will be tenor Edward Doucette, soprano saxophonist John Swoboda and pianist Rosalind Chua.

Robert Currier, a member of the RIC faculty since 1967, doesn't regard himself as a composer. However, he explains that when his sons were in their early teens he suggested that the three of them collaborate on a work for which he would provide the viola part and they would do a synthesizer tape. At that time the family owned a synthesizer. The rondo which emerged was first performed by Currier at a RIC recital in 1974. It will be played again on April 17.

Marilyn Kind Currier is on the faculty of Providence College. Recent performances of her works at Carnegie Recital Hall, the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. and at the University of Michigan have been very well received.

Nathan Currier began composing at age 13. A senior at Peabody Conservatory, he has studied with Yoriko Takahashi and Gabriel Chodos at the New England Conservatory, Aube Tzerko and Samuel Lipman at Aspen and Judith Stillman at RIC. Currently he is studying with Julio Esteban at Peabody.

Sebastian Currier is presently completing his master's degree in guitar at Manhattan School of Music. He has been educated in classical guitar, studying with Sharon Isbin, Elliot Fisk and William Matthews. He has also devoted much time to composition.

In 1981 he won the Rhode Island String Teachers competition for young string players and was a finalist in the ensuing ASTA national competition in Minneapolis. Several of his compositions have been premiered at RIC.

The afternoon of music with the Currier family is presented free and is open to the public.

Bandsman of year

Staff Sgt. Russell E. Holland, a graduate of Rhode Island College with a degree in music education, has won the appellation of "Bandsman of the Year" for the 215th Army Band in Swansea, Mass.

The 65-member band has the responsibility of playing at all military functions, making public appearances and conducting charitable concerts for the Fall River Army National Guard.

Holland is the non-commissioned officer in charge of the chorus band which is part of the 215th. He has played the trumpet and French horn in the band for six years. He presently teaches music at the Joseph Care High School in Swansea.

HB Round-up

Youngsters from pre-Kindergarten through the sixth grade at Rhode Island College's Henry Barnard School will be "strutting their stuff" at the school's annual art show from April 12 through the 15.

Billed as the "HB Round-Up," the Kindergarten Cowboys (and girls) will try to corral their elders into the school's cafeteria between the hours of 11:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. each day to gander at their paintings, drawings, and 3-D projects which they've been painstakingly working on for the past couple of months.

And, dagnabit, there'll even be some workshops on button making and origami, the Japanese art of paper folding, which the youngsters will be right proud to show their parents and other non-believers.

If you've a hankering to see some original art, why just mosey on over and browse. The children will be delighted to see you.

★ MORRISON

(Continued from Page 1)

reared and attended Carnegie Tech. After an initial interest in radio engineering, he majored in physics, and went on to do his doctoral work in theoretical nuclear physics with Oppenheimer at the University of California at Berkeley.

They got along well. Morrison admired Oppenheimer and reminisces today about him: "There was only one difficulty most of us had with Robert. You had to be very careful with him; you couldn't give him too much of your problem, or he would solve it before you."

After World War II, Morrison, according to profile author Anne Eisenberg, was among the first Americans to visit Hiroshima to determine the effects of the atomic bomb dropped over that Japanese city in 1945.

"When we were flying down there from Tokyo...we flew over Nagoya, Osaka and Kobe which had been bombed in the conventional manner, and they looked checkered—patches of red rust where fire bombs had hit, intermingling with gray roofs and green vegetation of undamaged sections.

"Then we circled Hiroshima, and there was just one enormous, flat, red-rust scar, and no green or gray, because there were no roofs or vegetation left," said Morrison.

A reception in the college's Faculty Center is scheduled for 4 p.m. Both the reception and the talk are free and open to the public.

★ McLOUGHLIN

(Continued from Page 1)

has been a Fulbright scholar and has received fellowships from the National Endowment for the Humanities as well as from the Guggenheim Foundation.

Marion Wright, professor of geography at RIC, calls Mr. McLoughlin "eminently qualified" to speak on religious pluralism in Rhode Island. She cites his long-term research interest in America's religious history and his particular interest in Rhode Island.

Wright points out that McLoughlin has been active in the continuing public policy debates in the area. He has been part of the public debate in Rhode Island on the Vietnam War and has spoken out on the issues of civil rights and freedom of speech.

Wright called him a doer as well as a definer of issues in public life. He is a veteran of vigils, sit-ins and protests, she noted.

Wright points out that students at Brown have "flocked to his classes." She said that they have found them to be hard and fast moving. The student guide to Brown courses characterizes an experience with McLoughlin as "terrific" and "stimulating."

Wright says that anyone who attends the lecture will gain an understanding of an important aspect of "this fascinating state."

McLoughlin's appearance at RIC is being jointly sponsored by the departments of anthropology/geography and sociology.

Calendar of Events

April 4 — April 11

MONDAY, APRIL 4

- Noon to 1 p.m. Alcoholics Anonymous. Discussion meeting. Student Union, Room 310.
- 2 to 3 p.m. Career Services. Resume workshop for co-op students. Craig Lee, Room 054.
- 3:30 p.m. Women's Softball. RIC vs. Clark University. Home.
- 7:30 p.m. Memorial Service. in honor of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Held by RIC Urban Educational Center (UEC) and the Olney Street Baptist Church. Olney Street Baptist Church.

MONDAY TO THURSDAY, APRIL 4-7

Noon Mass. Student Union, Room 304.

TUESDAY, APRIL 5

- 8 a.m. Protestant Service. Student Union, Room 304.
- 10 to 11 a.m. Career Services. "How To Make Up Your Mind." Craig Lee, Room 054.
- Noon Walt Disney World Internship. Presentation at noon and interviews at 2 p.m. Fogarty Life Science, Room 050.
- Noon "Beat The Devil," starring Richard Humphrey-Bogart, will be shown by the Distinguished Film Committee. Free and open to all. Horace Mann, Room 193.

Noon to 2 p.m. Increasing Women's Self Esteem. Judy Gaines. Sixth series of an eight-week program. Craig Lee, Room 130.

Noon to 2 p.m. Career Services. Interview workshop. Craig Lee, Room 054.

12:30 p.m. Graduate School Information Program. Question-and-answer and panel discussion. Craig Lee, Room 152.

3 p.m. Men's Tennis. RIC vs Bryant College. Away.

3 p.m. Men's Baseball. RIC vs. Salve Regina. Home.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6

9 to 10 a.m. Career Services. Job search workshop. Craig Lee, Room 054.

2 to 3 p.m. Career Services. Resume workshop. Craig Lee, Room 054.

3 p.m. Women's Track and Field. RIC vs. Bryant College. Away.

3 p.m. Men's Track and Field. RIC vs. Bryant College. Away.

4 p.m. Thorp Lecture. Dr. Marilyn G. Eanet will speak on "Academic Literacy." Fogarty Life Science, Room 050.

6:15 p.m. "The Big Store," a Marx Brothers comedy, will be shown by the Distinguished Film Committee. Free and open to all. Horace Mann, Room 193.

7 p.m. Performance Based Admissions Program. Information Session. Alumni Lounge, Roberts Hall.

THURSDAY, APRIL 7

10 a.m. to Noon Career Services. Interview workshop. Craig Lee, Room 054.

2 to 3 p.m. Career Services. Careers in Management. Craig Lee, Room 054.

3 p.m. Women's Softball. RIC vs. Stonehill College (doubleheader)

3 p.m. Men's Baseball. RIC vs. Stonehill College. Away.

3 p.m. Men's Tennis. RIC vs. Southeastern Massachusetts University. Home.

7 p.m. Protestant Service. Student Union, Room 304.

FRIDAY, APRIL 8

10 to 11 a.m. Career Services. Resume workshop. Craig Lee, Room 054.

9:30 a.m. Women's Track and Field. RIC at Southern Connecticut Invitational. Away.

SATURDAY, APRIL 9

1 p.m. Men's Track and Field. RIC vs. Bridgewater State College. Away.

1 p.m. Women's Softball. RIC vs. Eastern Connecticut State. (doubleheader) Home.

SUNDAY, APRIL 10

10 a.m. Sunday Mass. Student Union, Ballroom.

1 p.m. Men's Baseball. RIC vs. Nichols College (doubleheader) Away.

7 p.m. Sunday Evening Mass. Browne Hall's Upper Lounge.

MONDAY, APRIL 11

Noon Mass. Student Union, Room 304.

Noon to 1 p.m. Alcoholics Anonymous. Discussion meeting. Student Union, Room 310.

2 to 3 p.m. Career Services. "How To Make Up Your Mind." Craig Lee, Room 054.