COMPETITION

Competition . . .

The last cheers hang hollow
In the empty air of the stands
The twirling shapes in white and gold Sway phantom crowds by unseen hands.

Somewhere on other chalk-marked fields A different game goes on,
While here the twilight witnesses
The crowd, the players—all are gone.

falling

falling fast

gone to the 8th orbital unknowing unseeing

don't believe—can't believe

speeding fast, far out

into the last syllable

of space without time

inside

outside

downside

yes, downside

the fleeing man speeds

on and on

in his projectile place

stabbing

groping

grabbing

in the tortured race

he speeds on his way

falling, falling fast

lost in the darkness of the howling pit of his mind where anger, strife, fear, restlessness and self pity

play the overture of the beastly soul

which sees not tomorrow for fear of the present

cry

laugh

whimper—

gurgle

slurp

and burp, you lousy crumb don't ever let your heart be opened don't ever let you mind or heart be touched it makes no difference in the race, buddy—cause you'll just keep on
