

RISE 1949

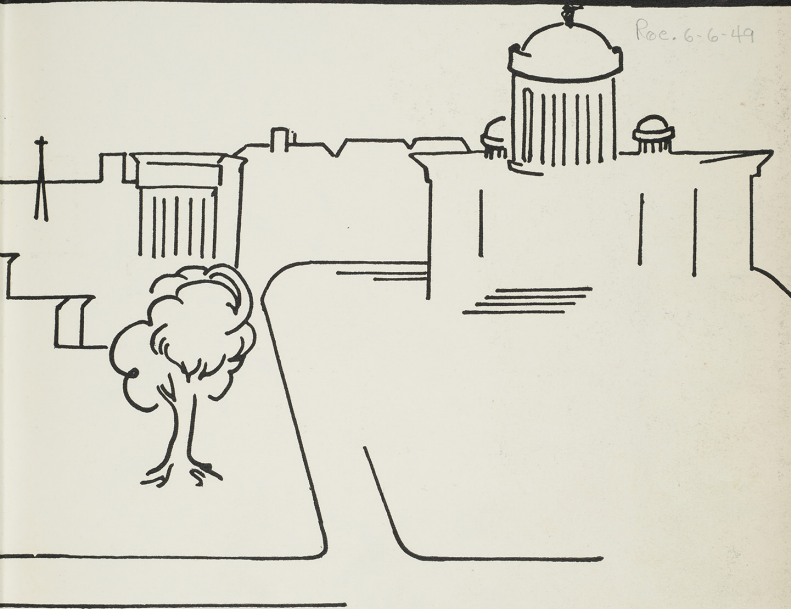

The image features a stylized illustration of a young boy in a crouching pose, integrated with the large, bold letters of the word "RISE". The boy is depicted in a dynamic, athletic stance, wearing a dark tank top and shorts. The letters "RISE" are rendered in a thick, blocky font with a white fill and a black outline, giving them a three-dimensional appearance. The year "1949" is positioned at the bottom left, also in a similar bold, blocky font. The entire composition is set against a background of yellow marbled paper with a fine, fibrous texture.

D E D I C

For the past three years, the Class of 1949 has been extremely fortunate in being able to associate with two men, who exemplify the highest standards of the teaching profession, personify sincerity and integrity, and combine sympathetic understanding with a delightful sense of humor.

In all college activities ranging from class to coffee hour, each has contributed his comprehensive knowledge, unprejudiced judgments, and unlimited enthusiasm. More important than these distinctions is the fact that students know each man as a friend. Whether seeking help, support, or companionship, all individuals have been greeted in a manner suitable to the occasion.

We hope that these men realize the sincere feeling of gratitude and appreciation which the student body as a group and as individuals hold for them. As formal acknowledgment of these sentiments, the Class of 1949 wishes to dedicate the Ricoled to two men who have contributed immeasurably to our college careers,

CLASS HISTORY

On a clear, crisp September day in 1945, the "forty-niners" first entered R.I.C.E. The three young men of our Freshmen class added variety to the group, for males were a wartime scarcity at the college. Amid the resplendent dress of bibs and different colored socks, we were "partied" in fine style by our Junior sisters. By "toil and woe" we learned (1) who Gracie the airplane spotter was, (2) what the O and J, in Mr. Ethier's and Mr. Jensen's names, respectively, represented, and (3) how to walk upstairs backwards.

After a whirlwind first quarter, we elected class officers and prepared furiously for Stunt Night. January frosts and semester exams, both exceedingly forbidding items, descended suddenly. By spring, the group, definitely functioning as a class, entered Song Contest and, with usual Frosh efficiency, danced and tangled with the May Pole streamers. On Class Day, the Anchor was presented to our sister class, a fitting reward for their enthusiasm in all college activities, while we proud "young-uns" clapped madly.

In September, 1946, we returned to R.I.C.E., adding a few more faces to the class. Just a little more collegiate and confident than before, we separated into four divisions—each indicating our specialization in the teaching profession. With vivid memories, we watched the incoming class survive Freshman Week.

Perhaps, the most unique activities of 1946-47 were the Searching Parties. Remember the tireless searching among the State Institutions, and long hikes in Lincoln Woods and Goddard Park? And remember our utter dismay when the triumphant Freshmen found the Anchor at Hillsgrove? Still, the climax of all the Anchor-hunting parties was our discovery and removal of the Anchor from under the very noses of our Senior sisters. Many a curious face peered into the Geography Class that day.

Choosing a class ring, presenting Stunt Night and Song Contest programs, and becoming ardent supporters of the newly-formed basketball team were guideposts of our Sophomore year. After making a grand entrance into the social world with the Soph Hop, featuring the exquisite "April Showers" theme, we ended our second year as Riceans.

After another summer had passed, we, Juniors now, returned to meet our Freshmen sisters and brothers. This year, Freshman Week was an integral part of our program, since it was our turn to welcome, help, and become friends with the incoming class.

With chattering teeth, knocking knees, and lesson plan-less minds, half of the class faced its first practice session at Henry Barnard School; although, by January, this "practice-perfect" half, preparing to invade the training rooms of the state, assured the remainder of the Juniors that "as soon as you say the first word, you're all right."

Stunt Night, featuring Cleopatra, and Song Contest were the two annual programs presented by the entire class. The semester ended with the echoes of the Junior Prom, held in the glittering Crystal Ballroom, and the Spring Junior Banquet still ringing in the cafeteria and Sigma Rho.

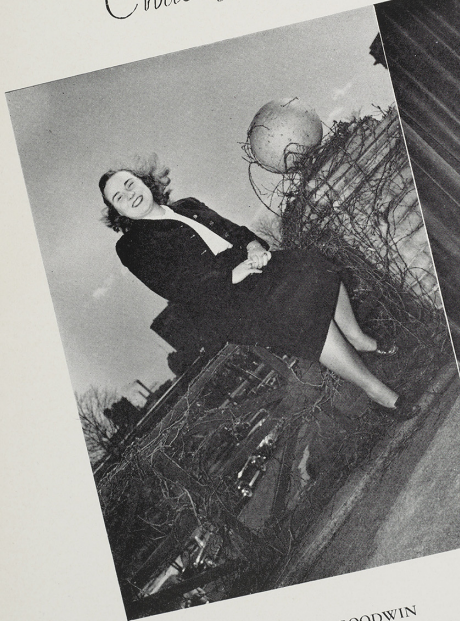

In 1948, only half of the Senior Class returned to the college, but with a few married men and women to its credit. By a continuation of those evening class meetings—unusual combinations of business, talk, and food—the entire class stayed close together, until the joyous February third when "everyone came home".

Officially welcomed at a Faculty Tea, giving a party for the Freshmen, and sharing the blarney with our sister-class at the annual Soph-Senior party, put the class right back into the swing of things. Song Contest, May Day, crowded close; then, Cap and Gown Day and Class Day followed in rapid succession. Feeling solemn and dignified, but with "that" look on our faces, we waited for Commencement. On June 18th, with degrees in hand, we reached the fulfillment of our dreams and the conclusion of our associations as the Class of 1949.

SKYSCRAPER AT LAST COMPLETED

Opens Up For Business Today

The seven million dollar Ducharme Building, ninety stories high, which stands on the site of the old R. I. College of Education building on Park St., will open today. Thousands are expected to visit the immense structure, which towers over the city.

Original plans called for 142 stories, but since the building leans at a forty degree angle over the State House, Ruth Ducharme, owner-manager of the building, decided not to build further.

Many R. I. C. E. graduates have bought space in the skyscraper, Miss Ducharme reports.

A few of the business establishments which are run by R. I. C. E. graduates are as follows: Scanlon's 90th Floor Snack Shop; Tevasis Travel Agency; Marandola's Millinery, Inc.; Bonaventura's Sky-Vue Bakery; Haley's Helicopter Service; Rottenberg's Record Shop; Stone's Steamship Lines; Flood the Florist; McIntyre's Market; and Kells Kandy Shoppe.

SEVEN TEACHERS RECEIVE DEGREES

Seven R. I. teachers will receive degrees this week.

The University of Wisconsin will confer the Degree of Master of Arts in Physical Education upon Dorothea Smith, Lena Aloia, and Christine Melone.

Those who will receive the Degree of Master of Education from R.I.C.E. are: Mary Jo Clarke, Ann Maguire, and Florence Harrington.

PAPER ANNOUNCES RISE IN PRICE

Worcester, Mass., June 17.—Effective at once, the Worcester Daily Clarinet will cost 5c per copy instead of 2c.

Editor B. H. Pryce said she was tired of working for peanuts.

CHOIR TO SING AT UNITED NATIONS

Lake Success, N. Y., June 15.—A special program of choir music will be presented to the delegates of fifty-five nations on the day after tomorrow. Featured soloist will be Robert Joy Collinge of Lonsdale, R. I.

Collinge, a powerful tenor, will render Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Song of India", and Katchatorian's famous "Sabre Dance". If his strength holds out, encores will be in order.

A string ensemble will accompany. Ruth Donnelly will be featured at the piano. Sylvia Cronin will conduct the group via television hookup. While the group is fiddling in N. Y., Sylvia will be waving her hands in her Providence home.

STOCK CAR FINALS TONIGHT

Final in the National Stock Car Drivers Meet will be held tonight at the Kingston Fair Grounds. Fourteen of America's top drivers will compete for a gold cup and $50,000 prize money.

Joanne Burke, last year's winner, is expected to repeat her winning performance. She will drive the red 1931 Ford coupe with which she has won cups and laurels from coast to coast.

A. G. OF O. & C. ELECTS OFFICERS

Chicago, Ill., June 17.—Edward J. Watson III, of Geecleffe Street, Great Falls, Montana, was elected President of the American Guild of Organs & Calliopes here today.

Mr. Watson attended Rhode Island College of Education in Providence, R. I., and played organs in Providence and East Providence before he went west in 1949.

MISSING U. S. CITIZEN HELD BY CANNIBALS

KOTRYSGARTEN HAS FIRST GRADUATION

The Kotrysgarten, Cranston's nationally-famous kindergarten, will hold its first graduation tonight. One hundred and four children comprise the Class of 1959. Most of them will further their education in the first grade of the public schools.

Miss Barbara A. Kotrys, principal of the unique institution, will hand out diplomas from 8:00 to 9:44 P. M.

The school, first of its kind in the state, caters to the exceptionally brilliant students. Its excellent teaching staff consists of the following teacher-specialists:

Huberta R. Maher—
Art and Writing
Marion H. Hoyle—
Reading; Use of Blocks
Lillian Moura—
Voice
Dorothy E. Mellor—
Arithmetic; Phys. Ed.
Rosaly De Moranville—Guidance.

WICKFORD BARD TO RECEIVE FAMED PULITZER PRIZE

New York, N. Y., June 16.—Herman Garlick, 38, of Wickford, R. I., will receive the 1959 Pulitzer Award for Excellence in Poetry, it was announced today.

The announcement came as no surprise. Last week, a poll, conducted by Ruth Mandeville of the Poetry Annual, revealed that Mr. Garlick had replaced Henry W. Longfellow as America's most beloved poet.

Garlick's works include "Moon Shine," "Throw in the Sponge," and "The Uranium Bedpost."

SANDRA WALDMAN FINALLY LOCATED

Yumyum, Belgian Congo, June 16.—(Special to Key-hole)—Sandra "Sandy" Waldman, American heiress missing in the dark jungles since June 7, has been located at last.

Latest tom-tom reports disclose that the young traveler was captured on June 9, and has been held captive since that time in the village of Drumstick, 710 miles to the north.

Fortunately, Miss Waldman is not believed to be in any immediate danger. However, she is on the menu for the chief's birthday party on June 26.

President Walter H. Huse sent the cannibals a strongly-worded protest, and said that if anything happened to Miss Waldman, the cannibals would receive no salt, pepper, or spices from this country.

POLE DAMAGED ON PARK AVENUE

A telephone pole at the corner of Park and Prairie Avenues was snapped off this morning by a car reportedly driven by E. E. Bouchard, 34, of 271 Northrup St., Cranston, an instructor at Boston University.

Police said that the operator's car, a 1939 Ford sedan, was destroyed by fire shortly after the accident. The telephone pole, an Oregon Ponderosa pine, was badly charred. Bouchard was released in $15 bail, pending further investigation.

The accident was witnessed by Dr. Edward H. Bourque of Pawtucket, who was proceeding in the opposite direction. His Rolls-Royce was unharmed by the flames.

QUOTES OF THE WEEK

"Word has reached me unofficially that the Class of 1949 will hold a Reunion this summer. I think that it is an excellent idea, and I am quite certain that if the Reunion is held, it will doubtless be the finest Reunion ever held by any R.I.C.E. class."

—Name withheld for security reasons.

"Words cannot express how happy I am! It is indeed a pleasure to be remembered at this time."—Barbara Williams, retiring principal of Ashton Grammar School.

AROUND TOWN WITH "DEWDROP"

Saw Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weaver at the Indian Room. They have just returned from Detroit, Mich., where Weaver successfully defended three rich clients. . . Sylvia Whitehead opens at the Garden Restaurant on Aug. 12. Her recording of the old favorite, "Slow Boat To China," has sold three thousand discs in less than a week. . . Edna Malley and Mary M. Sullivan are co-chairmen of the Annual Banquet of the R. I. Critic Teachers Association. . . Jean Halpin is still swamped with phone calls one week after she identified the voice of the crying baby and won $11,300 in cash, plus other prizes. . . An exhibition of paintings by Edna Gryzowska is being shown at the R. I. School of Design from June 18-23. Most of the paintings are landscapes of Woonsocket.

CHILDREN OF R. I. C. E. GRADS COP PRIZES IN WOONSOCKET

Woonsocket, R. I., June 17. Children of R.I.C.E. graduates toddled off with most of the prizes in the Baby Rodeo held in Woonsocket yesterday. Phyllis, Marie, Agnes, Henry, and Robespierre, children of the former Dolores Marchand, all took Blue Ribbons. Eleanor, daughter of the former Eleanor Fanning, Louise daughter of the former Eugenia Gloria, and Walter Boissel III, son of Walter Boissel, were also winners.

The only other prize-takers were the Mayor's children.

DIPLOMAT TO SPEAK AT I. R. C. TEA

Mr. John Converse, who has just returned from Canton, China, will be the main speaker at an I.R.C. Tea to be held at Brown University at 3 P. M. this afternoon.

Mr. Converse, Vice-Consul of the American Embassy in Canton, will urge his listeners to contribute to China Relief, Inc. Largely through the efforts of Mr. Converse, three boatloads of chop suey left San Francisco for China last week.

At the conclusion of Mr. Converse's address, Miss Elodie Emin will conduct a Chinese auction.

BOOK REVIEW

ADVICE TO ADVISORS by Frank E. Greene, I. N. Fairlawn Publishing Company. Reviewed by A. Riecan.

This cleverly-illustrated treatise deals with the problems which confront faculty advisors during student tours of a large city. Working from a background of personal experience, keen observation, and prolonged meditation on the subject, the author has set up twenty-four rules which should serve as an invaluable guide to all advisors of such expeditions. Especially enlightening is the explanation and application of Rule Fourteen: "How to Count Noses in a Revolving Door." Armed with this scholarly and sympathetic aid, teachers no longer need to fear the arduous experience of advising a student tour.

THOUSANDS FLOCK TO BLOCK ISLAND

Block Island, R. I., June 16.—More people than ever before are flocking to this island resort, Dor Tomlinson, Head of the Chamber of Commerce, reported today.

Anthony D'Antuano, owner of the Island Cinema, also reported that business is booming. More than two hundred people were forced to sit in the balcony last night, despite the fact that the theatre has no balcony.

Eleanor Bannon, Sonny Cullen, Lorraine Boudreau, and Shirley Campbell, will reopen the Irish Soda Shoppe on June 20.

DENIM MANUFACTURER DECLARES DIVIDEND

P. R. Bluejeans Sees Prosperity

In a statement accompanying the announcement of a stock dividend, P. R. Bluejeans, seventh vice-president of Denim Textile Company, Inc., predicted an over-brightening future for the dungaree industry. "Due to an unexpected rainfall on Tuesday, May 5, 1949, the administration and faculty of Rhode Island College of Education realized the value of prescribing a professional-looking uniform for the student body. This uniform consists of a pair of navy blue dungarees, white 'T' shirt, and brown loafers. Annually, the college has purchased one thousand pairs of dungarees, so that the entire student body and faculty may receive a new pair of dungarees each semester. For ten years, it has been the policy of the college to purchase these dungarees from a different manufacturer each year and compare the products. We are proud to announce that our product has been found to be the best in color, texture, and durability, and our Rhode Island representative has been awarded the contract for a period of ninety nine years."

TEACHERS WILL BE TRADED

Exchange Will Be Made Despite Previous Failure

The Dept. of Education announced yesterday that five R. I. teachers will be traded to other states of the Union in return for a like number of out-of-state pedagogues.

The plan had been tried once before unsuccessfully. Ten R. I. teachers went off to California and never came back. However, it is hoped that such a tragedy will not be repeated.

The teachers and the states to which they will go are as follows: Helen Laptik, South Dakota; Kay Langton, Hawaii; Barbara Gallogly, California; Terry Dzienkowski, Connecticut; and Kay Harrold, Arkansas.

CLASS WILL

We, the members of the Class of 1949, apparently of sane mind and sound body (We'll take Dr. Ross's word for it), hereby bequeath the following gifts to the members of the faculty:

To Dr. Lucius A. Whipple—A Woodlands Restaurant Gift Certificate. This certificate entitles Dr. Whipple to 365 cups of coffee, 730 pieces of toast, and a reserved seat at the red plush booth closest to the counter.

To Dr. Frederick J. Donovan—A pair of boxing kangeroos to live on proceedings on the last day of the 1949 summer school.

To Miss Lee—a Gabby Hayes Makeup Kit so that she may enter the rooms of training students without attracting undue attention.

To Miss Connor—A copy of Haggerty's Harvard Dictionary, which lists every word in the English language that can be rendered with a Harvard accent.

To Miss McGunigle—Another Caruso who would do everyone a favor by shaking down the Auditorium with his voice.

To Mrs. Allendorf—A 10-foot pole and a tight-rope to be used by those students who aren't satisfied to hop around on the gym floor.

To Mr. Allison—A compass and an Indian guide to help him find his way back to Oakland Beach after a snowstorm.

To Mrs. Andrews—A sledgehammer with which to break up the coke machines.

To Miss Bassett—Special Water License No. 23 of the City of Providence. This license permits the bearer to drink all the water she can drink at Roger Williams Spring free of charge.

To Mrs. Becker—A triple-locked vault in which to store art supplies, particularly colored pencils.

To Mr. Brown—Five men, all 6'6" or better, who rather play basketball than eat.

To Miss Campbell—A robot, that will stand in the Anchor room and announce periodically, "No, Miss Campbell is not in her office, but she'll return shortly. Won't you sit down and wait?"

To Miss Carlson—Rooms 207 and 209—The mice which will overrun the college if we don't throw away our scraps after we've eaten our lunches.

To Miss Czuzner, a cousin to Miss Campbell's robot that circulates noiselessly around the library, tapping shoulders and saying, "Shhhh! Shhhh!"

To Mr. Ethier—Two dollars ($2), with which to buy a license to operate a florist's shop in Room 106.

To Mr. Greene—400 pencils inscribed, "Greetings from the Class of 1883—R. I. Normal School." These pencils are to be sold for 50c each to help support the Anchor.

To Miss Healey—The historic R.I.C.E. Auditorium, oldest structure of its kind in the Western Hemisphere.

To Mr. Leonelli—A padded uniform to be worn only when riding the trains to Boston.

To Miss Loughrey—A lasso with which to rope mischievous students who try to escape from a performance of "Cyrano de Bergerac."

To Mr. McEntee—A vote of thanks for the advice that teachers entered the tenth year of service should investigate the provisions of the pension law.

To Mr. Meinhold—A tape recorder to record faculty meetings, so that they may be heard by the whole student body at Forum.

To Mr. Mitchell—The proceeds from the song, "They've Got an Awful Lot of Coffee in Brazil."

To Dr. Ross—A flame thrower so that she can disinfect her office after she has examined a patient.

To Miss Scott—Ozone and adrenalin to be given to Seniors who have just finished working on the Barnard cooperatives.

To Mr. Sinclair—An atomic bomb to use where he feels it would do the most good. (Notice to students: If you are allergic to radioactivity, please stay some distance away from Rooms 207 and 209.)

To Miss Snell—A book published later than 1910, which she should add to her shelves just for variety's sake.

To Miss Thompson—A spyglass with which to watch the bay for signs of Moby Dick or Captain Ahab.

To Mr. Underhill—Skis equipped with radar so that they go around trees instead of into them.

To Mr. Waite—Red silk ribbons to replace his crepe paper "fan-tester".

To Miss Weber—A rocket ship in which to visit Infinity.

To Miss Wright—A trip on a slow boat to China so that she may experience monsoon climate first hand.

To the Juniors—The bewildered expression on our faces, since they announced the Prom as a financial success.

To the Sophomores—A radium-proof capsule in which to store up any excess energy, to be used by future classes.

To the Freshmen—A hope that they'll enjoy College as much as we did.

Signed, Sealed, and Executed, this 18th day of June in the year 1949.

Upon the reopening of the Rhode Island College of Education in September of 1948, approximately half of the Junior class began the novel process of practice teaching at the Henry Barnard School. This fact alone is an indication that the class of 1950 is no longer a "gang" of students. It is a group of mature individuals successfully combining a college career, an active social life, and a professional program. The large number of students in the Junior class decreed that each critic should aid five students—a record high. Another record-breaking fact concerning the Junior class is the large number of men among the practice group. These practice students eagerly awaited the end of January at which time they began their student teaching in the various public schools of the state. Although this training period divides the class, the Juniors overcome this difficulty with evening class meetings which provide for both the transaction of business and the continuance of "gab-fests."

The vivid, vital spirit demonstrated by the class of 1950 in its first year at Rhode Island College of Education still prevailed. This whole-hearted support of activities by all members of the class brought forth a colorful presentation of a Gay Nineties Review for Stunt Night. Although the class was still divided at the time of Song Contest, the Juniors again added a talented musical program to the evening's entertainment. The Junior Prom, held at the Churchill House was a triumph, both socially and financially.

Perhaps the splendid participation in all social and scholastic activities is spearheaded by the male members of the class. This is the first class which has felt the influx of World War II veterans. Certainly the class of 1950 has been well represented in all events of the school year.

The Sophomore class re-entered the Rhode Island College of Education as one returning to a welcoming friend. The first year at the college represented only a fraction of a college career; yet the impressions which it had made upon the group and the countless friendships students had formed were still remembered. Upon returning in September, 1948, each individual, understanding that his profession is only whatever he makes of it, decided upon the particular field of education he wished to follow.

Although the class consisted of various divisions, according to the type of study, it combined to present the first social event. Early in October, the Sophomores played host to the Freshman class at an enjoyable informal party which did much to further the harmonious feeling which is essential among colleagues.

Later in October, the president of the Class of 1951 proclaimed "A-Day." On this day, the Anchor, which the class had won during its Freshman year, was unveiled. Now, this symbol of college spirit rests on a shelf in the rear of the auditorium, a tribute to the enthusiasm and loyalty of the Anchor Class.

Ideas for Stunt Night soon were organized under the direction of Robert Hargraves. He and his capable cast won first place with a clever skit fashioned as a take-off on college life. Later, the class launched its program for the annual spring Song Contest. Under the direction of Ollie Anderson, a large group blended their voices in a cheer song and Alma Mater. At the end of the first semester, the class still led in points for the Anchor.

Plans for the Sophomore Hop were made by a very energetic committee under the direction of Emily McCluskey. This annual spring affair, which is the first dance sponsored by underclassmen, proved to be the climax of a very successful Sophomore year.

The talent of the class continues to be shown in the activities of the Clubs, in concerts, and in athletics. The Class of '51, in the eyes of all, has kept a well-balanced combination of scholastic standing and class co-operation.

The familiar expression "Bewildered Freshmen" cannot be applied to the Class of 1952, for this class spent the Friday preceding school opening at the Rhode Island College of Education becoming acquainted with faculty, classrooms, and programs. Orientation Day was a complete success! On September 13, when college was officially opened, upperclassmen were amazed to discover that the Freshmen knew such things as the location of the various rooms and correct lunch periods. The first week of college life was designated as Freshman Hazing Week. Carrying books, potato chips, an umbrella, and a shopping bag, while obeying such regulations as no make-up for the girls and no part in the men's curly locks, the Freshmen were odd creatures indeed. Highlighted by many parties given in honor of the Freshmen, Hazing Week came to an end when each Freshman was awarded a Junior sister or brother.

Having elected officers, the class began to work on a skit for Stunt Night. Under the chairmanship of David Craven, they presented a novel idea of what would happen if the Rhode Island College of Education went to Dogpatch, U. S. A. Little Abner, Daisy Mae, Old Man Mose, and even a shmoo were borrowed from Al Capp for the occasion.

The next big event was the All-College Ball, the only dance for which Freshmen may serve on committees. To obtain a real student "slant" on who, why, and what the All-College girl should be, Student Council sponsored an essay contest. It took a freshman, Florence Piacitelli, to paint in colorful words the portrait of the All-College Girl. Congratulations, Florence.

Under the leadership of Jane McKenna, the Freshmen composed an Alma Mater and Cheer Song for Song Contest. By this time they really belonged to the Rhode Island College of Education. Young of heart and curious of mind, they look forward to an eventful Sophomore year.

The keystone of Student Council activity for the year has been co-operation among the student body, the faculty, and the administration. As illustrations of the results of this type of co-operation, the Council points with pride to the recently established President's List, to the resumption of the Coffee Hour, to the new attendance regulations, and to the chartering of busses for out-of-town basketball games. In addition, the Student Council spearheaded several philanthropic drives during the Christmas Season by its contributions to C. A. R. E., its co-operation with Kappa Delta Phi in the fraternity-sponsored party for underprivileged children, and its collection of canned food for distribution among the poor.

In the social field, not only was Forum streamlined by the introduction of community singing, but the Council-sponsored All-College Ball was once again the high point of the college social calendar. Miss Bernadette Kelly, dance chairman, was crowned All-College Girl by Mr. John Nelson Converse, president of Student Council.

Second semester activities followed the same pattern of excellence. As a fitting climax to this year's events, May Day, sponsored by the Student Association of the college, glowed with all the beauty and pageantry which has always been part of this glorious day. Harmony and progress go hand-in-hand with this type of co-operation. A hope for its continuance is voiced by the entire student body.

Sane of mind and sound of body, the staff undertook to present that ideal of all editors, hope of all underclassmen, and despair of all advisors — a "different" Ricoled. Fashioned under a torrid summer sun and nursed through the primary stages with the utmost care, the 1949 yearbook was well on its way by September.

November found the staff parading groups around the steps and campus, begging for an "informal" look, and juggling flash bulbs. A few days later, the staff joined their classmates at the opposite end of the camera to produce pages for the Senior section. But that was only the beginning! Dances were invaded by photographers seeking R.I.C.E. charm; guests at college entertainments were startled by photographers seeking R.I.C.E. talent and Loring's studio was populated by photographer's seeking R.I.C.E. faculty smiles.

Copy and cuts became the motto of the editorial staff, the business manager waded among advertising contracts, typists courageously donated long fingernails to the watebasket, while the advisor gave professional advice, invaluable aid, and unending encouragement. "What color should the cover be?" "How can I condense 50 words into 16?" "Can you find the college building in this sketch?" "Should I double space this paragraph?" "Where's Mr. Greene?"

All these questions were answered by April 1st, deadline. Proud and relieved, the staff sat back for a breathing spell. The Ricoled was "different". (We hope you think so, too.)

The "Anchor" of '49 has played an important role in the drama of our college life this year. Outstanding is the fact that this newspaper has developed into a semi-monthly publication. Many issues the "Anchor" has chosen to defend, have become part of student life at the college. The first and second printings clearly supported our present Absence System, which went into effect shortly after the October publication.

Other ameliorations suggested have been greeted with approval by both faculty and administration. Such things as Coffee Hour, timely electives, and early posting of the list, curriculum changes, on-time dismissals, and many other issues vital to the student's welfare have been improved through this year's "Anchor." Not only has the student newspaper been instrumental in material betterment, but such articles as the Christmas editorial have served to bolster higher ideals and spirits among the readers. Many thanks are due the '49 "Anchor," for it truly has been "the voice of the students."

The Rhode Island College of Education Choir began the 1948-1949 season with the presentation of a short program for the Alumni of the college. The group sang in Room 102, where the Alumni were holding an annual fall meeting. The first social function was the "Hayloft Hoedown," held during October, at which many "non-square dancers" spent an evening of comic confusion and hardy enjoyment, with the much-needed aid of President Whipple and Mrs. Allendorf, who called the dances.

Three concerts were given during the Christmas season, the first at Grace Church. The second program, which was broadcasted, was presented at a party for the handicapped under the auspices of the Community Workshops of Rhode Island. The last in the series was the annual candlelight concert and reception for members and friends of the college, at which time the former choir members made their debut as the Alumni Choir. A formal tea for members of the faculty, which is a traditional choir event, climaxed the first half of the years activities.

Highlights of the year was the trip to New York where the choir sang at the conference held by the Eastern States Association of Schools for Professional Teachers. The Choir was very proud and happy to accept the opportunity to sing for this group, and all thoroughly enjoyed the entire trip.

The spring concert and selections sung at the Vesper Services and Commencement Exercises were the concluding events in a very successful year. The Choir again wishes to express its appreciation to Miss Gertrude McGunigle for her able and inspiring leadership, and to Mrs. Corina Marano for her loyalty and excellent piano accompaniment. Both contributed immeasurably to the finest of seasons.

Short-handed but willing, Epsilon Rho Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, an Honor Society in Education, set out to fulfill its duties to national headquarters and college. The first meeting featured a talk and slides of Western United States by the Chapter advisor, Miss Marion Wright.

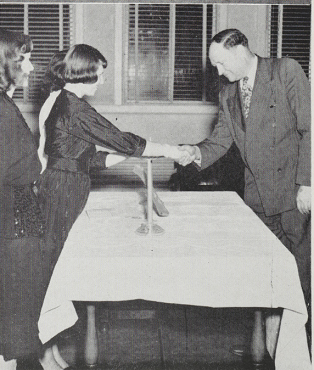

In November, Dr. Michael F. Walsh, State Director of Education, was initiated as an honorary member of Epsilon Rho in recognition of his loyalty and service to the field of education.

The College Reception Room was decorated in greens and reds for the "Holly Hop," the annual Christmas Dance sponsored by Kadelpians. A beautiful Christmas tree, sweet music, dimmed lights, and beautiful gowns combined to make the dance a spectacle of Christmas finery.

The new year saw seven Kadelpians eager to welcome into the Chapter students who had attained the requirements laid down by national headquarters.

Open-house marked the February meeting, at which time an exchange teacher from Hawaii addressed the group.

Initiation had once more rolled around. Having fulfilled with the greatest care possible the duties entrusted to them, this senior group actively assumed the responsibility of promoting the aim of Kappa Delta Pi in the field of education.

The Women's Athletic Association of the Rhode Island College of Education opened its sports season with soccer. All women students of the college were invited to become active members of W.A.A., including the tiny Freshmen who were officially welcomed at a party sponsored by the group. Goblins and witches played havoc at the W.A.A. Halloween Party where enjoyment was had by all.

Basketball and swimming at the Providence Plantations Club characterized the winter season activities. A successful Christmas Party added a fitting touch to the ever-growing popularity of this organization. Skiing, skating, and sliding were enjoyed by a group that traveled to Northfield, Massachusetts.

Bat and ball became the by-word of members with the arrival of spring. Intramural sports have been the standard at R.I.C.E., and they have never lacked enthusiasm or support.

W.A.A. has for many years provided extra-curricular physical and social activities for the women of the college. It has served a vital purpose for many years and can reach even greater fulfillment in the future with more active members.

The International Relations Club at Rhode Island College of Education is made up of students interested in studying and discussing problems of international importance, in order to obtain a clearer understanding of them. The club's activities revolve around its semi-monthly meeting. The club often arranges for speakers to talk to the college student body and faculty at these meetings or as part of assembly programs.

Activities of the year opened with a tea, featuring a lecture on China by Miss Edith Hutton. After her lecture, several members participated in a panel discussion concerning Chinese problems. Miss Roy from India was another featured speaker. Her intelligent discussion and explanation of Indian problems proved both interesting and enlightening to all who attended. In January, a fascinating talk was given by Uzoma Okiji, a Nigerian, now studying at Brown University. At the close of his talk, club members bombarded Mr. Okiji with questions concerning life in his homeland.

Ten or fifteen minutes of each meeting were devoted to a discussion by club members of current international problems. In December, the members particularly enjoyed the showing of a movie on the Dutch Empire. Since Indonesian Dutch problems had aroused considerable interest, the annual February Tea was conducted as a follow-up of the movie.

The IRC set aside April 14 as Pan-American Day. Before that date, members read and discussed Pan-American friendship and economic co-operation in preparation for the day's activity. On April 28th, the IRC banquet, which members of the student body and faculty attended, was held in the faculty cafeteria. A guest speaker addressed the group. During the year, members of the IRC attended several conferences. The most important one, held in June, was attended by approximately ten members.

"On stage everyone. Curtain going up in five minutes!" With this familiar call ringing in its members' ears, the Dramatic League presented its opening production for the 1948-49 season—Dear Ruth. After guiding the league through its initial success, Miss Grace Healey decided that, in lieu of a second winter production, the league would present a one-act play entitled "Columbine Madonna" as a Christmas assembly program. In March, "The Merchant of Venice" was presented as the annual Shakespearean play. Each spring, the high school students of the state are invited to this production which is given at two performances. Readings for the Senior Play were begun early in the second semester by the Senior Play Committee, for the annual production scheduled for May 13th.

A unique feature which has been introduced in the league is the participation of student-directors in the staging and directing of plays. This development of student talent has been aided by the inclusion of demonstrations of Character Make-up, Acting, and Staging Techniques at the monthly meetings. Without a doubt, this new system is in the direction of finer-than-ever production by the Rhode Island College of Education Dramatic League.

This year's Nature Club had a whirlwind season. The Hobo Party in September, featuring lunches wrapped in kerchiefs and sandwiches eaten on the campus, started things off and set the pace for the rest of the year.

With a helping hand from the Forest Rangers, forty club members ventured the long climb up the Chopraist Hill Observation Tower. How forest fires are discovered, reported, and fought was told in such an exciting manner that the Nature Clubbers volunteered to join the Forest Service.

It must have been the tower that gave the College Naturalists such lofty ideas, for the next excursion was to the Ladd Observation at Brown to see Dr. Smiley and hear him tell of his eclipse-hunting expeditions.

The famous Christmas Party was celebrated in 102, or more precisely, at the fireplace in 102, for toasting marshmallows and popping corn acted as both menu and entertainment headliners. Even Santa Claus came to the party, complete with gifts, sleigh, and reindeer.

In January, the Hearty Explorers journeyed to Alaska . . . through the medium of kodachrome slides of the Audubon Society. Club members also attended the annual meeting of the Rhode Island Wildlife Federation.

The Nature Recreation Conference, held at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst, has always counted delegates from R. I. C. E., but this year instead of being mere delegates to the Conference, the Riceans put on a skit! Ideas from the Conference urged members to zoom through the remaining part of this year with hikes, field trips, movies, and lectures. A good club does not stand still NOT FOR A MINUTE.

This year, the Charles Carroll Club has influenced life at the Rhode Island College of Education more strongly than ever before. Started only a few years ago, the club grew rapidly. Although the organization was dormant during the years of World War II, it revived as soon as the men began to return. The Carroll Club has flourished steadily, so that today the ideas developed there permeate all phases of activity at the college. This has been true not only in the classrooms where the Carroll Club viewpoint is being presented more and more, but also in the other clubs and organizations about the school. Members of the Carroll Club have joined other groups and aided in their particular ventures and successes by contributing and co-operating wholeheartedly at all times.

All roads at the Rhode Island College of Education now lead to the Carroll Club, where in a blue haze, amid books and coke bottles, the men of the college in bull sessions, made sacred by generations of male students, settle affairs of school and state. The Carroll Club has made definite imprints on and invaluable contributions to the Rhode Island College of Education. The only organizations that have not been infiltrated are Sigma Rho and the W. A. A. The club has injected new vitality into the social life of the college, presenting its annual Carroll Club Dance as a worthy nominee to the title of "The Social Event of the Year."

Success marked the 1948-1949 season of the Men's Athletic Association. Early in September, the Soccer Team made its debut . . . the first varsity soccer team in the history of the Rhode Island College of Education.

During the winter months, the basketball quintet carried through a twenty-game schedule. The team played a number of outstanding college hoop fives in Northern New England, including teams from Fitchburg, Massachusetts; Willimantic, Connecticut; and Keene, New Hampshire. This year, enthusiasm and support of out-of-town games has been increased by the provision of transportation for team, cheerleaders, and loyal fans.

In May, the track team journeyed to New Britain, Connecticut, to participate in the annual New England Track Conference Meet. While these activities were being carried on, plans were formulated to organize a varsity baseball team. This last activity, held late in the year, is another sport which has been added to the M.A.A. schedule since the "return of the men." The Teachers nine, although playing an informal schedule, showed promise of developing into a worthy representative of the Rhode Island College of Education on the baseball diamond.

It happened in October, 1948. For a period of one week, seven members of the male student body at the Rhode Island College of Education were witnessed making their ways through our hallowed halls of learning attired in the most outlandish costumes ever to grace the bodies of potential pedagogues. No, these men hadn't suddenly become demented; nor were they walking advertisements of what the well-dressed college student should not wear. These noble seven were undergoing the "musts" of a hazing week which preceded the first degree ceremonies for admission to Epsilon Chapter, Kappa Delta Phi.

Epsilon, Rhode Island College of Education's chapter of the National Educational Fraternity, was installed in 1928. Because of circumstances over which its members had no control, it has had to exist for the past twenty years in an almost dormant state. With the advent of Hazing Week, however, Epsilon underwent a rebirth. After twenty-one years of struggling for recognition, Kappa Delta Phi has attained the rank of organization at the Rhode Island College of Education.

On Sunday, December 12, the Brothers of Kappa played host to some eighty underprivileged youngsters from one of Rhode Island's children's centers. The Christmas party, complete with Santa Claus, was a tremendous success and went to prove that there is a definite place in our college for just such an organization as Kappa. Further proof that the word "philanthropy," which is found in the creed of the "Kadelphians," is not just an idle word was found in the various other ventures undertaken by the Brothers of Kappa. A look at the roster of the various clubs will prove the statement that the fraternity men have done more than their share in advancing the cause of education and of our institution.

TRADITIONS

MAY DAY

Early in the fall semester, preparations were begun. By semester vacations, basic ideas had been agreed upon. As the second semester continued, dance routines were established, costumes designed, and music chosen. By spring, final details were added, until the day arrived.

The music begins; slowly, the procession descends the steps. May Day is here! Walking under the flower covered arches, the court crosses the campus and surrounds the throne. Dressed in white gowns, the eight Senior attendants to the queen; Lorraine Bolduc, Teresa Dzienkowski, Margaret-mary McCarthy, Mary Mulligan, Mary I. Sullivan, Stella Tesavis, Sylvia Whitehead, and Barbara Williams, stand at the steps ascending to the dias. The two maids-of-honor, Shirley Campbell and Anne Maguire, approach the foot of the throne and pause. Passing under the arches, the queen ascends to her throne. Vice-President of Student Council, Olive Rothwell, takes the crown from the tiny crown-bearer and places it on the head of the Queen of the May—Barbara Gallogly.

Now the dancers can begin their tribute to Beauty, May Day, and Spring. With a flourish of music, the circus parade marches across the campus. Then the troupe of performers from the big-top present their acts before the throne. Tumblers, puppets, elephants, and clowns follow in rapid succession. Breathtaking feats of the tight-rope walker and graceful participants in the balloon dance amaze the spectators, amuse the court and entertain the queen, while a court jester makes merry at the royal command.

Finally, the Freshmen, exercising their right as youngest class of the college, twine bright colored ribbons about the May Pole. With the performance of this traditional dance, May Day activities draw to a close. Slowly, the procession leaves the campus; the glittering gay make-believe of the circus world disappears; the beautiful spectacle of royal pageantry fades back into the realm of magic, and only Spring remains.

STUNT NIGHT

Presenting a humorous and clever dramatization of the personal lives of two school teachers, the Sophomore class, under the direction of Robert Hargraves, attained first place in the annual Stunt Night held December 3rd. A play was included within the play, featuring a never-to-be forgotten "bouncing baby boy". Second place went to the Junior Class whose skit sparkled with Gay Nineties' tunes and mustache-twirling singing waiters.

Stunt Night, sponsored by Student Council, has always allowed each class an opportunity to utilize any and all sources of talent, ability, and ingenuity possessed by the group, in preparing and presenting an original skit. In order to help future classes in preparing stunts, Student Council has laid down definite rules as to material and merit on which Stunt Night should be based. With these rules in mind, students look forward to even better skits as years go by.

SONG CONTEST

CHAIRMEN

Ruth A. Donnelly	} Senior
Sylvia D. Whitehead
Jean E. Martin	Junior
Ollie M. Anderson	Sophomore
Margaret J. McKenna	Freshman

The month of February saw Contest Chairmen pouring over keyboards to produce that charm and vigor which are so characteristic of all College Alma Maters and Cheer Songs. March saw them writing lyrics and reserving any little hideaway where a group of normal individuals could pour out with gusto that familiar four-four time. Prepared for the big day, April 1st, all four classes presented their original version of what they believed R. I. C. E's Alma Mater and Cheer Song should be. Coveting the honor of having its name inscribed on that gleaming cup which stands on a shelf at the rear of the library, each class gave out with its all for college and class.

Student Council has always sponsored Song Contests, this year granting forty points to the winning class, and thirty points for second place, toward the "Anchor," symbol of college spirit. Judged by music supervisors of the state, Song Contest has always been, and will no doubt continue to be, a fine example of the musical talent found in our Student Body.

CLASS ODE

*God grant us strength and length of days,
To lead a chorus in Thy praise,*

*Whose litany shall move all lands
To reinstate Thy Ten Commands;*

*O Master-Teacher, Remote Ideal,
Inspire us with Thy selfless zeal!*

*That we may borrow of Thy worth
To work this wonder in the earth;*

*Commission us to work for Thee,
Whose partnership is ample fee:*

*To guide our charges in the right,
To mould and make them men of might;*

*To combat fear and prejudice
With courage, with resourcefulness;*

*Bequeath them beauty, truth and love,
Thy wealth of glory, crown of love;*

*And when the hardy battle's fought,
When truth indorses what we've taught,*

*To face Thee, Master, undismayed,
With conscience clear and penance paid,*

*O Master-Teacher, Remote Ideal,
Inspire us with Thy selfless zeal!*
